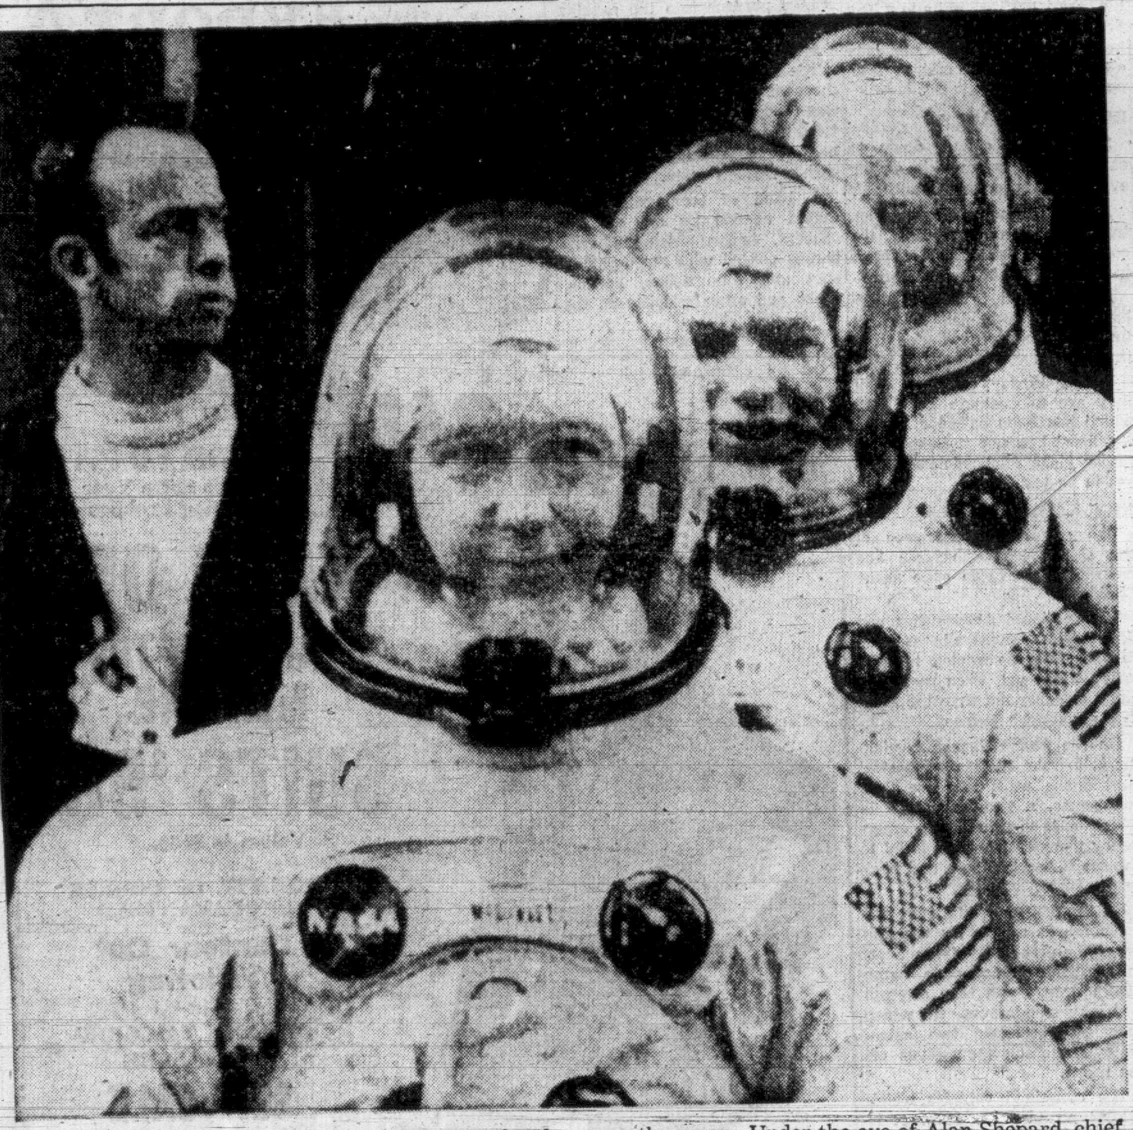
Ike Battles On In Recovery Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Antibiotics and a tough constitution seem to be effectively combatting the pneumonia that attacked former president Eisenhower during his recovery from major surgery.

But "he's still quite weak," a high-ranking Walter Reed Army Hospital spokesman said. "He's got to eat and get some strength back."

His doctors reported that "the area of pneumonia in the right lung base is markedly diminishing."

Russia-China Border Duel Brings Turmoil in Peking



MARCHING IN STEP, Apollo 9 astronauts head toward the rocket which this morning put them into earth orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla., for the dangerous test of the module that will be used to put men on the moon. Spacemen Link Apollo Craft With Fragile Moon Module

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The three Apollo 9 astronauts rocketed into orbit today and skilfully executed a link-up with a fragile ugly-duckling spaceship which they are testing in preparation for a possible moon landing in July.

If they succeed in their marathon 10-day earth-circling trip, they could clear the way for two Americans to make the moon landing during the Apollo 11 flight.

If they fail the United States lunar timetable could suffer a serious setback.

The astronauts were silent through most of the delicate manoeuvring period. On their own decision they delayed the docking manoeuvre for some 15 minutes.

MADE HOOKUP

Nearly three hours after they started the most difficult manned space adventure yet, they achieved their first major goal—a hookup with the spidery lunar module (LEM).

When Apollo 9 soared into orbit it was still attached to the third stage of the mammoth Saturn V booster rocket which blasted off from Cape Kennedy. The LEM was packed in a compartment between the Apollo ship and the third stage, called an S-4B.

They remained attached to the S-4B for two hours 43 minutes, just as moon-bound astronauts will do before restarting the third-stage engine to streak for their lunar target.

More than 100 miles over the Pacific the command module pilot separated his spaceship and moved about 50 feet away from the third stage. He turned the ship around and gingerly pulsed small jets to steer back toward the LEM.

Advancing cautiously, the commander carefully inserted an arrow-like docking mechanism into a slot in the LEM's nose.

He reported the docking was smooth, was having a little trouble making a slow manoeuvre to his left, possibly because one of the jet valves was stuck.

Pressure from a nitrogen bottle activated 12 latching mechanisms which firmly joined the LEM and the command ship nose to nose.

Astronauts headed for the moon will have to make a similar docking manoeuvre.

The astronauts remained attached to the third-stage rocket for 75 minutes before pulling the LEM out of its space garage, leaving the S-4B forever.

The Apollo 9 rode the booster rocket, the world's most power-

ATHENS (Reuters) — Athens Observatory today recorded a strong earthquake with its epicentre located 223 miles east-northeast of the Greek capital. No casualties or damage were reported from Greek authorities on any of the Greek islands along the coast.

Pickets Gassed

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)— Police using tear gas today clashed with 200 firemen and striking city workers who tried to seal off the Pontiac city hall with picket lines. One fireman was taken into custody and about 140 fellow firemen walked off the job in protest. Another fireman was taken to general hospital following the clash with police.

Hydro Negotiates

TORONTO (CP) — More than 1,000 Ontario Hydro employees were off the job today as conciliation meetings were scheduled between the representatives of the publicly-owned utility and the union.

E. Germany Ignores Talk Plea; Holds Up U.S. Convoy for Hour

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP) — East Germany's Communist regime ignored today a new bid for talks to solve the current Berlin crisis and, though dropping harassment of civilian traffic, held up a U.S. Army convoy for about an hour.

Airliners of the Western Big Three nations coursed in and out unmolested, though the Soviet Union had raised the most serious challenge to West Berlin's flight corridors since the Russian blockade 20 years ago was broken by an allied airlift.

A U.S. spokesman said the convoy was delayed on its way from West Berlin to West Germany on the main autobahn across 110 miles of Communist territory. It was the third such reported incident since Saturday. The East Germans attribute such delays to Warsaw pact military manoeuvres in that area.

The American, French and British embassies in Moscow today made identical statements to the Soviet foreign ministry about the Berlin situation, spokesmen for three embassies announced.

DETAILS WITHHELD

But they declined to give any details of the contents of the statements or how they were made.

West Berlin's mayor, Klaus Schuetz, said East Germany had not responded to his 11th-hour attempt to resume contacts aimed at preventing a major East-West confrontation over the arrangements to elect a new president of West Germany Wednesday in West Berlin.

"One can therefore assume that the West German federal assembly meeting (to elect a new president) will be held here on Wednesday as planned," Schuetz said in a statement.

The mayor said that, acting on information from the Bonn government, the West Berlin Senate had Sunday night sent a message to East Berlin declaring itself ready for further talks.

Hopes of a possible settlement were raised by Foreign Minister Willy Brandt who flew into West Berlin today to meet with his Social Democratic party and city officials. Brandt Sunday night hinted at a compromise to prevent Communist actions against the election.

Brandt said he considered it impossible for West Germany to relinquish its right to hold presidential elections and Bundestage sessions in West Berlin. But he added that Bonn could change the practical application of this right depending on the general situation.

Soviet Embassy Under Siege

TOKYO (CP)—Tens of thousands of anti-Soviet demonstrators, including Red Guards, besieged the Soviet Embassy in Peking today after Chinese and Soviet troops clashed on a disputed river on the Manchurian border.

Both Moscow and Peking announced "many killed and wounded" in the battle Sunday.

Each sent protest notes.

Agence France-Presse reported from Peking that the Soviet embassy rejected a Chinese protest note. An embassy spokesman said the Soviet counsellor, F. I. Potapenko, was called to the Chinese foreign ministry and Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan Hua tried to give him the protest note.

But the spokesman said that Potapenko rejected the note "because it does not coincide with the facts and because it was written in an unacceptable form."

AFP correspondent Edouard Dillon said the huge crowd was laying siege to the Soviet Embassy. They were hostile to foreigners driving to the embassy.

'Hang Kosygin, Fry Brezhnev'

They shook their fists at cars, shouting "Hang Kosygin" and "Fry Brezhnev," referring to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Soviet Communist Chairman Leonid Brezhnev.

The Soviet Union and China accused each other of crossing the border Sunday, and China said it was the 18th Soviet violation in two years.

Peking's New China news agency said the battle occurred on an island in the Ussuri River, which forms part of the border between China and the Soviet Far East.

The Chinese called the island Chenpao and claimed it is "indisputable Chinese territory." The Soviets called it Damansky and said it constitutes their Nizhne-Mikailovka border posts.

The island is 200 miles north of Vladivostok.

China today gave Moscow a stern warning in a New China news agency dispatch which said any intrusions into Chinese territory would be met with strong counteraction.

China Threatens Punitive Raids

The dispatch said: "China's sacred territory brooks no violation. If you should wilfully cling to your reckless course and contin[illegible] armed conflicts along the Sino-Soviet border, you will certainly receive resolute counter-blows from the 700,000,000 Chinese people . . ."

The Chinese foreign ministry said "large numbers of fully-armed" Soviet troops crossed into Chinese territory in four armored cars and trucks despite repeated warnings from Chinese border guards and "outrageously opened cannon and gun fire, killing and wounding many Chinese frontier guards."

It said the Chinese were "compelled to fight back in self-defence" and gave the Soviet soldiers "punishment which they deserved."

The Soviet version, reported by the news agency Tass, said: "Chinese violators of the frontier were chased away from Soviet territory by the resolute actions of Soviet border guards." It added there were "killed and wounded" but did not say whether they were Chinese or Russian.

The New China news agency said a Chinese protest note was delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Peking, demanding that the Soviet Union "punish the culprits of this incident," halt its "encroachment on Chinese territory" and hold itself "responsible for any grave consequences that may result."

Compensation May Be Asked

The note said Chinese reserve the right to demand compensation.

Tass said the Soviet government protested to Peking, saying: "Any provocative actions by Chinese authorities will be rebuffed and resolutely cut short by the U.S.S.R."

The two Communist countries share the world's longest border, 4,150 miles. The last reported border clash, on Feb. 13, 1967, also occurred in Heilungkiang province on the Manchurian plateau. It was never acknowledge officially by either Moscow or Peking.

In Moscow, observers said the Tass announcement of Sunday's battle was made with unprecedented speed. The Russians have never before reported an incident on the day it actually occurred.

Soviet police today set up a watch in front of the Chinese Embassy in Moscow in an apparent attempt to head off demonstrators protesting the border incident.

All was quiet at the embassy grounds, however. The Chinese embassy staff both live and work inside the compound and are rarely seen outside the buildings.

U.S. to Stress European Links

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon resumed duties at the White House today after his eight-day, 10,500-mile trip through Europe, confident "some new understandings" would be worked out between East and West.

In his arrival remarks here Sunday night, Nixon said he found a "new trust in the United States" on the continent and a "new trust in the future."

Referring to talks he hopes to hold in the future with Soviet leaders, Nixon said that together with Europeans the U.S. would be able "to develop some new understandings with those who in the past have opposed us on the other side of the world."

Nixon said he planned to give a report on his trip at a news conference Tuesday.

Administration officials said the president was satisfied with results of his trip but stressed the objectives had been limited.

OUTLINE GOALS

They said basic goals of the trip were to inspire new confidence in the Western Allies after years of U.S. concentration on the Vietnam war, to open up new channels of communication, and to win acceptance from the Allies on planned negotiations with the Soviet Union on arms limitation and, hopefully, other issues.

All the Allied leaders whom Nixon spoke with expressed confidence in U.S. leadership, officials said.

His pledge to consult them on all matters affecting them before any negotiations with the Soviet Union made a deep impression, they added.

The acceptance by French President Charles de Gaulle of Nixon's invitation to come to the United States January or February next year delighted the administration. It was interpreted as convincing proof of a new phase in Franco-American relations after years of coolness.

British Prime Minister Wilson already had announced he would visit Washington sometime late this year.

Nixon's talks helped attempts to get a four-power conference started on the Middle East situation, U.S. sources believe. They predict such a conference will open in the near future at the United Nations.

State Secretary William P. Rogers will confer with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin this week to iron out details of the four-power meeting, the sources said.

High-Priced Mine Issues Take Plunge

VANCOUVER — Many high-priced mining shares took huge losses on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today as a moderate 2,486,824 shares traded hands in the first four hours. (More details on Page 8.)

Heaviest losers were Buttle Lake, down almost a dollar to $7.80; Northwest Ventures, off .50 to $2.80, and Valley Copper—in which the above stocks have extensive holdings—off $1.50 to $26.

Other Valley Copper allies, Bethex and Trojan, also fell.

Also losing ground were Churchill, Highmont, Gibraltar, Largo, Laura and Ace.

National Nickel bucked the trend and was up .19 to $2.20.

N. VIETS CAPTURE LAOTIAN OUTPOST

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — More than 1,000 Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops overran a major government outpost Sunday, killing at least 30 defenders and inflicting the worst defeat on Laotian troops in more than a year, a defence ministry source said today.

Another reliable source said a U.S. jet fighter-bomber was shot down when heavy air strikes were called in an attempt to save the Na Khang outpost, 10 miles from the headquarters of the 2nd Military Region and 150 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The defence ministry sources said five battalions, four of them north Vietnamese, opened the attack with heavy shelling by 122-millimetre rockets and 82-millimetre mortars. One mortar shell crashed through the roof of a hilltop command post, killing Col. Panh Siharath, the area military commander and province chief.

FORCES OVERRUN

Two government battalions surrounding the hilltop post and 150 men atop the hill were overrun shortly after dawn and were forced to flee, leaving their dead and some wounded behind, a source reported.

The government garrison was one of the strongest outposts near the Pathet Lao headquarters at Sam Neua, 25 miles northeast of Na Khang.

Defence ministry sources said all outposts in the Na Khang apparently were destroyed as well as the main base, thus opening Van Peo's headquarters to possible attack.

Soviet Envoy in PJs Routed by Firebombs

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Soviet ambassador to Australia ran a mile in his pyjamas through the streets early today after a firebomb attack on the Russian Embassy here.

Six Molotov cocktails started a blaze in a tall hedge of cypress trees surrounding the embassy, forcing Russian staff members to flee their apartments in an adjoining building — and bringing Ambassador Nickolai Tarakanov, 55, racing from his home.

Firemen stopped the blaze spreading to the apartments and the embassy itself was apparently undamaged. But the tall trees shrouding the upper windows of the buildings were badly scorched.

Police said they believed the attack — the second in six months — was the work of East European refugees who have made their homes in Canberra since the migration waves of the late 1940s and early 1950s.

The Russians later delivered a telephone protest to the Australian chief of protocol.

External Affairs Minister Gordon Freeth described the incident as "most regrettable."

How Far Will Russia Go? Still Key to Berlin Crisis

By ANATLOE SHUB

MOSCOW (WP) — How far is the Kremlin prepared to go in the latest Berlin crisis, and why did it start the whole campaign in the first place?

These are the prime questions agitating Moscow observers and receiving widely differing answers — not only from person to person but from hour to hour, in response to shifting Soviet tactics.

Over-all, most Western diplomats and other representatives here who started off thinking there would be no Berlin crisis at all have been getting steadily more concerned. They still hope that Communist actions in East German and around Berlin will be confined to "ritual noises" and "symbolic acts" while avoiding an eyeball to eyeball confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Even Friday's Kremlin note empowering the East Germans to take measures against the communications routes between Berlin and West Germany — an action taken barely 24 hours after President Nixon had made a new commitment to the city's free access — has failed fully to shake the hopes of those who were originally optimistic.

Two important qualifications should be made in evaluating the views of the relatively optimistic majority, however. First, the U.S. currently has no ambassador in Moscow — Jacob D. Beam, although nominated, has not yet arrived to replace Llewellyn E. Thompson, who left in December. The British French and West German ambassadors are all newcomers to the Moscow scene. Second, many of the older hands who remain cautiously optimistic were similarly confident, after last August's Soviet-Czechoslovak meetings at Cierna and Bratislava, that the Russians would not intervene militarily in Czechoslovakia.

Pessimistic observers here are in a minority, but have been fortified in their gloom by several remarkable bits of local evidence which have not made front page headlines. Thus, on Thursday night, a well-placed Soviet insider told one Western newsman:

"Do you really think Nixon is going to risk nuclear war with Russia if the East Germans seize West Berlin? We don't think so."

Strike Threatened By Rebel Mailmen

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver letter carriers ignoring new work rules may walk off their jobs if the post office takes disciplinary action against them starting Wednesday, a union official said Sunday.

"There could be a wildcat strike if management provokes us," said Ray Andrus, president of Local 12, Letter Carriers' Union.

He referred to the post office department's warning, issued Friday, that disciplinary actions will be started Wednesday against carriers who refuse to follow the department's new work rules, in effect since Feb. 17.

Under the new straight-through delivery system, carriers are to pick up their mail once a day, and if they want to return to post offices for lunch, travel time and two five-minute washpups they will be on their time.

Pending the outcome of a grievance claim filed several weeks ago, the union has advised members to stick to the old system of returning to post offices for lunch, washing up and then signing off for the lunch break.

MOST COMPLYING

Mr. Andrus said about 75 per cent of Vancouver's 700 carriers are complying with the union's directive.

Jim McCall, spokesman for the Council of Postal Unions, said under the department's disciplinary rules, each worker will first be individually counselled by his supervisor.

If he does not comply with instructions, he is given a warning by letter. The third step is a three-day suspension and the fourth, dismissal, Mr. McCall said.

"If they give out three-day suspensions, there'll be practically no mail deliveries in Vancouver," Mr. McCall said.

Boys' Club Directors Appointed

Cyrus Price was elected chairman when the Centennial Boys' Club of Langford appointed its first board of directors at a meeting held in St. Mary's Priory.

Other officers are: Alan LeQuesne, vice-chairman; Mrs. Connie Langret, scretary-treasurer; Charles 'Skip' Willard, club director; Keith Morgan, assistant director.

Mr. Willard began the club several months ago and now more than 70 boys take part in an active program. They meet twice a week in the hall of Our Lady of the Rosary Church, on Sundays from 2:30 to 4 p.m. and Wednesdays, 6 to 7:30 p.m.

NAME CHAIRMEN

Appointed as committee chairman at the recent meeting were Hugh Sangret, Fr. Willard O'Brien, Jack Block, John Holt and Sister Leonette, Mother Superior of the Priory.

Mr. Price announced that $100 had been donated to the club by the Prince Edward Branch No. 91, Royal Canadian Legion. Proceeds from the chairman's annual 'Cy Price Dance' will also be given to the club.

The board of directors was elected in order that the club could become affiliated with Boys' Clubs of Canada and maintain standards of operation as set down by the organization.

French Probe In Biafra

UMUAHIA (AFP) — A French parliamentary mission has begun a fact-finding visit to the secessionist Nigerian state of Biafra touring army projects around Umuahia and inspecting bomb damage allegedly caused by Nigerian federal air raids.

The mission flew in here Sunday night led by Raymond Offroy, former ambassador to Nigeria and chairman of the Paris-based Action Committee for Biafra.

France has been siding with Biafra in the Nigerian civil war.

Nicholson Honored By Pipers

Lieut.-Gov. John R. Nicholson was presented with a scroll making him official patron of the Vancouver Island Pipers Club during a ceremony at the Bay St. Armory Saturday.

He was piped into the Sergeant's Mess of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and presented to club president Archie M. Cairns, senior Pipe Major with the Canadian Armed Forces.

After introductions to the club executive, the scroll was presented and a few tunes were piped by eight-year-old Scott Chambers of Port Moody, the club's student of the month.

The organization was formed last October to promote bagpiping as entertainment and meets regularly each month. Members come from as far away as Seattle, Vancouver, Port Moody and Nanaimo.

Members are hoping to hold a competition for their picked students of the month sometime in May.

Vice-president is Pipe Major Frank Knight of the Canadian Scottish and club secretary is Mrs. Lillian Grant Davis, Pipe Major of the famed CWAC band during World War 11.

Loot Radioactive

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police said thieves who stole two locked tool boxes Sunday from a truck may be in for a deadly surprise. Officers said the boxes contained radioactive cameras used in making X-ray photographs and that anybody opening them would be subject to a lethal radiation dose.

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2 will leave Southampton, England, May 2 for New York on her first transatlantic voyage, Cunard Steamship announced today.

Separatists Decide to Go Underground

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bob Reeds, a Vancouver cafe operator and the president and founder of the newly-formed British Columbia Separatist Association, says the group has decided to be a secret organization.

Mr. Reeds said Sunday that other executive members named at a weekend meeting decided to withhold their identity.

He said they are afraid of reprisals from eastern financial interests and RCMP "thought control" squads.

The organization will be basically secret and loose for some time, Mr. Reeds said.

The founding convention was held at Mr. Reed's cafe in downtown Vancouver Sunday.

Mr. Reeds said branches will be formed within a week in Victoria, Powell River and Toronto.

Mr. Reeds said the association is doing nothing illegal and will do nothing illegal. He said the "secret police methods" will be left behind when B.C. becomes independent.

ful, into orbit just 11 minutes after the Saturn V lifted off the pad. The orbit ranged from 118 to 119 miles above the earth, just about perfect.

"We're real proud of you," flight director Eugene Kranz told the three astronauts.

"Everybody here is happy," he said.

"So are we," replied James A. McDivitt, the spacecraft commander.

While hearts beat faster on the ground, the astronauts showed just about the level of excitement that flight surgeons expected, except for Russell L. Schweickart, making his first space flight.

McDivitt's heart was beating at 135 beats a minute, and David R. Scott's heart was beating at 120 a minute. But Schweickart's heart was ticking away at 72 beats a minute, only about 10 beats faster than normal.

ROOKIE IS HAPPY

Schweickart called down to earth: "This is a rookie saying everything is looking beautiful."

Almost immediately, the astronauts began checking the complex, computerized systems in their $55,000,000 spacecraft.

A scheduled Friday launch had to be postponed after all three astronauts developed sore throats and stuffy noses.

During 10 days in earth orbit they are to evaluate the LEM, which has been called a "missing link" because it is the only major piece of Apollo hardware yet to be tested.

NICK-NAMED 'SPIDER'

The ungainly appearance of the spindly-legged vehicle has earned it the radio code name "Spider."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration rates Apollo 9 the most complex man-in-space flight yet, even more difficult to carry out than the Apollo 8 moon-orbit journey.

On the fourth day, Schweickart is to take the United States' first space walk in more than two years, a two-hour stroll in which he is to practise an emergency transfer from the LEM to the main Apollo 9 ship and back to the LEM.

On the fifth day, McDivitt and Schweickart are to fly the Spider 109 miles away from Scott in the main ship, code name "Gum drop," and then attempt a tricky rendezvous in which they will simulate two astronauts launching themselves off the moon.

The combined vehicles weigh 291,592 pounds, are 113 feet in length and have a maximum diameter of 21.7 feet. Thus, it is the heaviest manned vehicle sent into space.

The first two days in space were to be devoted to checking the operation of the joined vehicles, with McDivitt and Schweickart making their first visit to the LEM through a connecting tunnel on the third day.

After three days operating in the spidery vehicle, it was to be kicked free in space for additional ground-controlled engine-firing tests. The astronauts planned to spend the final five days evaluating performance of the main ship.

Demara Role Re-enactment Ends in Jail

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Armed with fake college degrees, Robert Erwin Brown, 33, moved from his job as laborer in Birmingham, Ala., up to the position of aircraft engineer, then became a doctor of medicine and finally a heart specialist.

He might have got the idea from the exploits of Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr., the "great impostor" who posed as priest, surgeon, law student, Latin teacher and prison warden.

But there is a difference between the two masqueraders. Demara carried out his roles so successfully that the fame that accompanied his accomplishments proved his undoing.

During the month Brown posed as Dr. Glenn L. Foster, heart specialist, at the Internal Medical Clinic in nearby Fullerton, he treated 87 patients. Four of them died.

Brown is in jail, charged with violating the state business and professional code. An autopsy is to be performed on one of his patients to see if Brown might have contributed to his death.

Artificial Dryout Given Alcoholics

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Doctors of Baltimore city hospitals have stepped up the drying out process for acute alcoholics through the use of artificial kidney machines.

Dr. Richard W. Steenburg, chief of surgery at the hospital, who conceived the idea, said that with a kidney machine alcohol can be removed from the bloodstream within six hours and the patient released from the hospital within 24 hours. Normally it takes an alcoholic three days to a week to dry out.

Six patients have received the treatment in the past six months. In each case, there were no signs of the usual hangover, delirium tremens, nausea or headache, Steenburg said.

Under a Maryland law which became effective last July, alcoholics are treated as medical patients rather than lawbreakers.

Chinese Fete Explodes Into Bomb-Tossing Riot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Festivity turned into fright in America's largest Chinatown early Sunday when police battled youths armed with souped-up cherry bombs and Molotov cocktails after tthe annual Chinese New Year's parade.

When the smoke had cleared at least 62 persons were injured — including seven policemen. Forty persons were under arrest following the huge celebration for the year of the Rooster 4467.

The parade drew more than 200,000 persons into the narrow streets and back alleys of Chinatown.

The trouble first began along the world famous Grant Avenue when six plainclothes police tried to arrest a juvenile who had hit a seven-year-old girl with a wooden crate.

A band of teen-agers, estimated at 100 by one of the officers, began tossing cherry bombs coated with blued-on BB shot and thumbtacks, bottles, rocks and other missiles at the policemen.

The tactical unit, specializes in handling troublesome crowds, arrived on the scene to rescue the plainclothesmen who had retreated into a doorway. Four of the plainclothesmen were among the injured officers.

By the thime the violence had subsided, 50 officers were on the scene.

Four Molotov cocktails were thrown in the area of a housing project, one setting fire to a moving vehicle whose occupants escaped unharmed. Another Molotov cocktail was tossed into a doorway but extinguished itself.

The site of the parade has been the object of criticism from safety officials for several years. Opponents say the narrow streets of Chinatown cannot safely hold the large crowds. Several times the parade route has been changed.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Statistics on births indicate strongly that there are more twins born per 100,000 population in Canada and the northern United States than are born in the milder southern states.

Doctors doing research at Northwestern University learned that twins may be more likely to result when conception takes place during or soon after the passage of a polar air mass. Their discocery was made when they checked back on a large number of multiple births to learn exactly what the weather was at the probable time of conception.

In Texas, the researchers learned, more twins were born nine months after a norther than at any other time of the year. A norther, as you may know, is just about the coldest wind that can sweep over Texas.

TNT Cache Believed Linked to Terrorists

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today were trying to trace the source of 3,000 sticks of dynamite and 2,000 detonator caps found in a rented barn along with documents apparently linking the explosives with a terrorist organization.

No official comment has been made on the exact contents of the nearby St. Paul L'Ermite barn but a Montreal police officer said documents found in the raid revealed the explosives were part of a Front de Liberation Quebecois storehouse system.

He added the dynamite found in the barn was of the same type used "in a large percentage of the bombing incidents recently in the Montreal area."

The cache was found Friday night after provincial police received an anonymous telephone tip.

The owner of the barn told police he had rented the building to two young men several months ago and had not bothered with it since.

The Front de Liberation Quebecois is a separatist organization dedicated to the independence of Quebec through terrorism.

It was the biggest single haul of explosives in a police crackdown against a recent wave of bombings in the Montreal area. A reward of up to $50,000 has been offered for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for the blasts.

The most successful raid before Friday was last Saturday's swoop on a Maple Grove hotel where police found 26 sticks of dynamite in a cardboard box.

Early in January 110 sticks of dynamite were found in a garbage can in north-end Montreal. Defective Claude Lavoie of the provincial police said the quantity of explosives near St. Paul l'Ermite was too large to have been stolen piecemeal from construction sites. It was believed stolen from a warehouse.

LOCATION A SECRET

The explosives were transported by the Montreal bomb squad to a Montreal-area armed forces base and kept under military guard. The base commander asked that its location be kept secret for fear of "a raid to get the stuff back."

Det. Lavoie said he has "some pretty good ideas" about the identities of the dynamite thieves but would not say whether he thought terrorists were involved. He also would not identify the owner of the barn.

There have been 11 bombings in the Montreal area so far this year, including one which injured 27 persons and caused extensive damage to the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Feb. 13.

The most recent bombing was at the Queen's Printer book shop in downtown Montreal last Tuesday.

FCC Clears TV In Chicago Riots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has cleared the three television networks of charges they were unfair in the way they covered the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

At the same time, the commission ordered the networks to provide detailed reports on charges they "staged" news events during the violence-marred convention last summer.

In a 14-page letter to the American Broadcasting Co., the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcast Co., the FCC said:

"There is no substantial basis for concluding that the networks failed to afford 'reasonable opportunity for presentation of contrasting viewpoints' on the issues at the Chicago convention, such as the Vietnam War and the civil disorders which occurred there."

It cited coverage of podium debate on the war and interviews with spokesmen for both sides, coverage of civil disorders and the fact that Mayor Richard J. Daley was given an opportunity to present his views.

The FCC said the four "staged" incidents still under investigation included a report from a U.S. senator, not named, who allegedly said he saw a newsreel crew arrange to have a girl walk up to National Guard troops in Grant Park and shout, on cue, "Don't hit me."

The three other incidents involved the burning of a "Welcome to Chicago" sign.

TEST YOUR GEM I.Q.

Q. YELLOWISH DIAMONDS ARE AS BRILLIANT AS WHITE DIAMONDS?

A. True! Today, diamond experts agree that often a flawless, well cut diamond that is slightly yellowish in cast can be a beautiful, brilliant diamond to wear, yet be rather less in price than the ideal in color. However, these subtle gradations in color and cutting quality that affect value are points that only a man well-trained in gemology can determine. Viet Cong Shell Saigon As Offensive Goes On SAIGON (CP)—The Viet Cong shelled Saigon and more than 30 other towns and allied bases today in the ninth day of their spring offensive.

Three 100-pound Soviet rockets hit this capital, killing 12 Vietnamese civilians, wounding 29 others and wrecking more than 30 houses just before dawn.

It was the third rocket attack on this city of 3,000,000 residents since the offensive began Feb. 23. Two volleys of rockets 14 hours apart on the first day killed 15 civilians and wounded 49.

The U.S. command said the three rockets today were fired from marshes seven miles east of Saigon, their maximum range.

Military spokesmen assessing the first week of the offensive said the guerrillas, the Americans and the South Vietnamese all have suffered their heaviest casualties in nearly a year.

WORST SINCE MAY

Sources said more than 7,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed during the offensive's first seven days. Not since their last offensive in May, 1968, has the enemy lost that many troops in one week.

More than 300 American and nearly 600 South Vietnamese troops were reported killed.

A U.S. Marine fire support base came under attack from a North Vietnamese force just four miles south of the demilitarized zone in Quang Tri province early today, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

He said the marines fought off the ground attack with automatic weapons and heavy artillery support, killing 17 North Vietnamese in the initial action.

A U.S. F-4 fighter-bomber was shot down in Quang Nam province, 20 miles south of Da Nang, Sunday.

The spokesman said both crew members were injured and the plane was destroyed, the 343rd aircraft to be shot down over South Vietnam since January, 1961.

Edmonton Fire Damage Heavy

EDMONTON (CP)—Damage is estimated at $1,000,000 in a fire that burned out the interior of a combined office and warehouse building Saturday night.

The three-alarm fire was fed by thousands of dollars worth of paper goods and took more than six hours to bring under control.

The two-storey brick building housed offices of the Alberta Labor Department and a storage area for Johnston Terminals.

A Disturbing Echo

RUSSIA AND EAST GERMANY are increasing the tension on Berlin and a critical point is approaching with the scheduled West German presidential election next Wednesday. Highway blockades are old routine for Berlin, and so far the Communist war of nerves, with temporary traffic halts on the land routes to the city, has not employed the total stoppages which in the past have placed the former German capital in the position of a castle under siege.

But there is one factor in the current situation which was not present in previous confrontations, and it must be in the forefront of Western thinking as Bonn and its allies view the new crisis. Since the previous Berlin crisis there has been Czechoslovakia.

The readiness of the Soviet government to throw massive troop and tank concentrations into its satellite neighbor when it appeared that the Rusian western wall was endangered shocked the world. For the significant element in the situation, apart from the physical fact of the invasion of the Czechoslovak state, was Moscow's decision to ignore any effect its action might have on world opinion. In other words, there was a very clear point at which the verbal protests and indignation of the West would be disregarded in favor of Soviet interests.

The complete inability of the West to do anything to help Czechoslovakia was very apparent. The question therefore arises in connection with Berlin: If the worst came to the worst and Russia moved near with massive armaments to control the city—what would the West do about it? A world war over Czechoslovakia was unthinkable, yet in some ways the Czechoslovakian situation offered a better return for a Western investment than does the still controversial status of Berlin.

It must be clear, despite the serious warnings of West Germany, Britain, France and the United States, that the West would be very reluctant to plunge the world into war over Berlin. An audacious gamble by Moscow might win the Soviet Union a great prize—and there is little to guarantee, since Czechoslovakia, that the military powers in the Soviet Union could not wield sufficient influence to make such a move.

Meanwhile, Russia goes through the usual routines of charging that Berlin has misused its land corridors for military purposes—such as shipping photographic film that could conceivably be used for military pictures—and has authorized East Germany to impede traffic. A further hazard is provided by Russia's decision to hold military manoeuvres in the Berlin vicinity. All these developments can be taken in stride, even though any dangerous interference with Western air traffic could quickly bring escalation. But behind the sturdy shouts of "Berlin" which today are heard in Europe, the wind now carries a faint echo—"Prague".

Together in Space

THE "SPACE RACE" BEGAN AS a nationalistic contest between the Soviet Union and the United States, but there have been some hopeful signs lately that co-operation in this field may help bring the two rivals closer together. One is the attempt now under way to establish a truly international system of communication satellites.

The United States hopes to get the Russians to join the existing "Intelsat" scheme while the Kremlin has been pushing its own satellite organization called "Intersputnik." More than 60 nations already participate in Intelsat and there are indications the Soviet Union may be persuaded to come in after negotiations.

"I can think of no more important step we can take towards reducing world tensions than that of broadening communications links between powerful nations representing different political systems," said Leonard H. Marks the other day as head of the U.S. delegation at an Intelsat conference.

At the same time discussions have been started on means to facilitate rescue of stranded spacecraft in the same way that ships go to the aid of another vessel in distress on the high seas. One of the difficulties of space rescues at present is the impossibility of physical link-ups because of different equipment sizes. The International Organization for Standardization has taken up the problem and is seeking to make space rescue operations more practicable.

Another hopeful aspect of increased space travel takes a less tangible form. It comes from the awareness which has gripped astronauts and cosmonauts viewing earth from a distance that all mankind is bound together by the fact of inhabiting this tiny sphere spinning through space. The three American Apollo astronauts who flew to the moon and back at Christmas were particularly aware of this phenomenon. Viewed from afar the suspicions and hatreds which divide the world seem petty. A space ride might be good therapy for all of us.

The Permanent Plate

AFTER REJECTING THE IDEA for years, the British Columbia government is now considering the introduction of permanent licence plates for private cars. Plans call for a trial of two or three years for the advantages or disadvantages of the extended system as well as experimentation with a more durable plate.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson's announcement of the government decision promises substantial savings from the proposed change. Further economies are also anticipated through new distribution arrangements—elimination of special numbers on request, for instance.

In view of the ever-increasing number of licenced vehicles on the roads, the question of unit expense becomes important. There would also be several advantages for the private car owner in instituting a permanent-licence system, including elimination of the bother of the annual switch-over and frequent confusion regarding the changing numbers. With a permanent plate in vogue, these problems would be avoided. The feasibility of the scheme has already been proved in Britain, where each car wears one licence number from dealer's floor to junkyard.

A Prompt, Independent Inquiry

CHARGES IN THE LEGISLATURE that RCMP officers at Sechelt have beaten and threatened Indians should be investigated by a neutral authority without delay. Mr. Berger, the NDP member for Vancouver-Burrard, has referred to 30 incidents of "police brutality". That is a serious allegation and Attorney-General Peterson should lose no time in clearing up the situation.

It is easy to raise charges against a police force, whose members cannot reply. They should have every protection. On the other hand, every citizen, regardless of race, color or social position, should have fair and impartial treatment from police in accordance with the law and humane custom. When policemen fall short of such a standard there should be immediate action by the government authorities involved.

We can afford to have neither police members who betray their trust as public servants, nor random charges which may unjustly tarnish the name of an honorable police force. Mr. Peterson's duty is clear.

". . . and you have no idea how melodious 'Nixon go home' sounds in Italian . . ."

After the Gaffes and Errors—A Hope

Hutchison

THE most fascinating development in national politics lately is the Canadian people's discovery that Prime Minister Trudeau may be mortal. Neither the fact nor the discovery will surprise him. He always understood and feared the public exaggeration of his powers. Now comes the first whiff of disenchantment which he long foresaw. Though perhaps inconvenient for the moment, the deflation of a bloated myth is altogether healthy. It puts things in proportion. Anyhow, it is inevitable. But there are two sides to this coin. If the people are beginning to learn a little — a very little, so far — about their leader, he has learned considerably more about them and learned, in the hard way, mainly from his own mistakes.

As the wisest politician of my acquaintance puts it: "Pierre has found out that politics in Canada isn't geometrical." And it can be safely added that, unlike Mr. Trudeau's early books and articles written in a clinical ivory tower, politics in the grimy arena is not always even rational.

More to Learn

The nearest Canadian approach to Plato's philosopher-king has much more to learn yet while he simultaneously educates himself and the people. His kingship, since he is the undoubted master of his government, without a rival in sight, is already established and unchallenged. His philosophy or, at any rate, his method of governing is not only changeable but changing, and none too soon.

When he came to office I ventured to suggest, tentatively and brashly, that he would be a great prime minister or a tragic failure. Events since then have convinced me that these are indeed his sole alternatives. It is too early, however, to guess which of them fate holds for this extraordinary man.

All we know now is that after an electoral success unique in our history, and a brilliance of mind unmatched by any predecessor, Mr. Trudeau has made a series of mistakes — some inconsequential, one or two very serious, and all of them the price of that brilliance which can be a liability as well as an asset in the curious political folkways of Canada.

Mr. Trudeau's famous tantrum before the London press was a mistake to be sure, but only a mistake of manners easily forgiven and rather appealing in its candor as showing that the philosopher is a human being like the rest of us.

On the other hand, his mistake, not in reassessing foreign policy but in threatening to abandon Canada's allies, and in allowing his cabinet to conduct a public brawl on the issue, was not a mistake of manners. It was a mistake of government in the most basic sense and almost inconceivable in a man of his talent. One doubts that he will ever try such an experiment in so-called "communication" again.

Almost as remarkable, and quite preventable, was his first encounter with the provinces last autumn. Of course he could offer them no extra money, his treasury having been emptied by former governments. But instead of "communicating," explaining his problem in advance and making sure that the whole nation fully understood it, he suddenly refused any financial concessions and announced, without any adequate warning, that the federal government would soon withdraw from the costly programs previously imposed on the provinces.

It was all very well for him to disguise his affection for the provincial premiers but he didn't have to kick them downstairs. Evidently the old Liberal arrogance which, more than anything else, destroyed the excellent ministry of Louis St. Laurent, is not dead yet.

Classic Lesson

Fortunately the Trudeau government has learned a lot from that particular mistake. It has learned, among other things, that it can and must quarrel with some of the provinces some of the time but cannot afford to quarrel with all of the provinces all of the time. John A. Macdonald learned that lesson immediately after he built the nation and all his successors learned it in their time.

Has Mr. Trudeau, the historian, forgotten his history? More likely, the proper management of the fiscal confrontation was simply bungled in haste. Or else it was mis-planned and grossly mis-executed by that swollen apparatus of amateur experts, bright boys and go-betweens with which Mr. Trudeau has surrounded his office until most of his ministers can seldom see him alone.

In any case, though a crunch could not be avoided, since Mr. Trudeau had inherited a bare cupboard and a super-inflated economy, there was no need to draw blood from such a man as Premier Robarts, for instance, a Canadian just as sound and patriotic as Mr. Trudeau. The same can be said of Mr. Trudeau's later and all too successful attempt to infuriate Robert Stanfield, whose support in certain great affairs will be essential one of these days.

Recovery After Mistakes

However, some wisdom emerged from the autumnal fiasco and repairs began immediately. At the recent constitutional conference the federal government was all sweet reasonableness, the prime minister himself again after a ghastly lapse of both strategy and manners. So also were the premiers, on the whole, as if both levels of government had been shocked into a realization that, as things were going, the nation could not long endure the strain.

In the result, the conference was a notable success, not in decisions because no real decisions were expected or taken, but in a spirit of reconciliation, a new will to make Confederation work. And if any one imagines that all this happened accidentally, without the most skilful footwork and stage management in advance, he does not know the secret record of the last two months.

Letters

Sauce for the Goose

It is amazing how the government can be so deeply compassionate re the Commonwealth investors; and disregard other finance companies which have gone bankrupt under similar actions of the promoters.

Take Sterling-Pacific Mortgage Co. for instance. Here we had a group of Slumber Lodge Motels, all new, all doing a good business. Yet the investors who financed all these going concerns are informed "certificate (stock) holders shall realize nothing."

The Securities Department was not unduly concerned when this blew up in 1966, a little over two years ago. Furthermore, they are still not getting steamed up about it. Where is the stop and desist orders in this case?—T. Kershaw, 2750 Matson.

Impressive Performance

On the evening of February 18, we out-of-town visitors attended the Don Kyle Singers Concert at the McPherson Playhouse. We have heard singers, groups of singers, and organizations of singers all over the world, and the Don Kyle Singers Group was as professional as any we have ever heard. The singers have been beautifully trained. Shading and blending of voices was perfect. The conductor, Mr. Kyle, is an artist of the first water with great understanding.

As for the accompanist, Mrs. Timp, she was magnificent. Her playing was always under the voices, never over them.

We were disappointed that there was no write-up about the concert in the paper.—Constance Wilco and Agnes Britt, Sidney Travelodge.

Immoral Suggestiveness

One item in your paper of February 27, must have shocked many of your readers.

Many respectable parents are seeking to safeguard their young people against the sex-assault being made on their minds and characters.

I believe I express the opinion of many readers of The Victoria Daily Times when I say there is, what appears to me, a serious lack of wisdom and discretion in the article on page 29 which shamelessly suggests to girls that they become "Super-Sexy" even to the extent of making themselves "a Man-Trap."

In my estimation it is nothing less than indiscreet and wicked to publish for all young people to read even the first words of the article, which are as follows: "The girl who wants to get a husband today has to be a lot sexier than her grandmother."

This trend leads to the results made public in dealing with the number of illegitimate births in the province, January 30, 1969, as given by the department of Social Welfare. This report states: "The number of births and age of grouping of the mothers is as follows: 23 to girls under 15; 1,621 to girls 15 to 19; 1,429 to women 20 to 24; 556 to the 25-to-29 bracket," and so on.

The highest morality stresses a virtuous, strong and pure womanhood. One writer affirmed, "The test of civilization is the estimate of woman." (George W. Curtis.)

May I ask you, Mr. Editor, to keep your paper clean from such as the one referred to, and thus help protect our Y.P. against immoral suggestiveness. — Dr. J. B. ROWELL, Pastor Emeritus Central Baptist Church.

The Costs of Bad Diplomacy

Reston

ONE of the misfortunes of President Nixon's visit to Europe is that the French and British, by violating the diplomatic principles they gave to the world, have got in the way of the reappraisal and reconciliation of allied policy that all the allies wanted.

"A diplomatist," wrote Francois de Callieres in 1716 in what remains probably the best diplomatic manual ever written, "should remember that open dealing is the basis of confidence; he should share freely with others everything except what it is his duty to conceal . . ."

This was the first violated principle. President de Gaulle knew on February 4 that President Nixon was coming to Europe (though Nixon did not announce it until February 6), and the French president did not let Nixon know how he was proposing to transform the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty, which Nixon was going to Europe to discuss.

Meanwhile, the British, who have been the greatest advocates of thinking quietly instead of feeling wildly, felt they saw in General de Gaulle's proposal a trap to embarrass them with Nixon and their Common Market associates, and violated the secrecy of his communication — though the British usually are the most eloquent defenders of the inviolability of diplomatic intercourse.

There were, of course, reasons for doing so on both sides. For pure snootiness, de Gaulle's opposition to his Common Market allies, to the British, and to America's role in NATO would be hard to match, but even so, it is a policy and he has a right to it.

De Gaulle Proposal

At the same time, the British and the non-French Common Market members had the right to try to circumvent the French veto by trying to reach common policies on common political problems through the Western European Union, a separate organization. And it apparently was the progress of this effort that led President de Gaulle to suggest in secret that maybe the British would like to talk about a wholly new economic and military organization of Europe, including Britain but not the United States.

Where the British violated their own normal procedures was in not going back to the French president and explaining that they could not in good faith keep his proposals secret from the other allies, whose interests were obviously affected by de Gaulle's suggestions. Instead, they told the allies first and informed the Paris Government about it later.

The effect of this was to surround Nixon's visit with an atmosphere of mistrust and recrimination, which amounts not only to bad diplomacy but bad manners, which, ironically, are the two sins Paris and London have charged against Washington for almost 200 years.

What is even more ironic is that President de Gaulle's diplomatic tactics have got in the way of his strategy and philosophy. If he had practised a little private "open dealing" with the new Nixon Administration and let them know in advance that he wanted to talk about a new economic and military organization of Europe, including Britain, he might have been surprised at the willingness in Washington to explore this or anything else he had in mind.

Want Britain In

They are searching for something new and different. Even after the flap between London and Paris, but before they had calculated the depth of the feeling in Europe about de Gaulle's private proposals to the British, some of the most influential men around President Nixon were saying that almost any new organization of Europe with Britain in might be better than the present organization of Europe (if that is the right word) with Britain out.

But the awkward diplomacy of Paris and London has now created a political problem in the United States, which only complicates things for a new American president. The Atlantic Alliance faction here is furious at de Gaulle, as usual, and those who prefer a strong, unified Europe merely bound to a unified Europe in case of a general war are sore at the British for over-reacting and making the crisis even worse than it had to be.

There is, of course, nothing especially tragic in all this. The chances are that, even if everybody had been sensible, the Nixon mission would have made no fundamental changes either in the Common Market or in NATO. In fact, by the accident of avoidable stupidity, he may come back with a better grasp of the European political realities. But meanwhile, French and British diplomacy, which used to look more mature in these parts, now seems almost as capricious as our own, and that thought has exhilarated almost nobody in this country.

In an Insane World, More for Guns Than Schools

NEW REPUBLIC

The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency is out with its yearly measure of the world's insanity, as it is expressed in military expenditures.

In 1967, the latest year for which global estimates are available, world military spending totalled $182 billion, up from $132 billion since 1964 and still rising in 1968.

That is as much as the billion people of Latin America, South Asia and the Near East had in total income, and 40 per cent more than was spent for education in the whole world.

The disparity between the totals spent for purposes of organized death and for purposes of life is growing.

World outlays for wars and preparation for wars have totalled an unimaginable $4,000-billion since 1900; in the next decade alone, if the present rate of increase in such spending continues, $4,000-billion more will go for military purposes.

The biggest military spenders are of course the United States and the Soviet Union (they accounted for $35 billion of the $44 billion increase in 1967 over 1965).

The ACDA report does not itemize the spending country by country, but it and U.S. budget figures make it clear that we are the maddest of the mad. The U.S. rate of increase, due only partly to Vietnam, outstrips all others.

For "the NATO countries," principally the U.S., a 35 per cent increase in 1965-67 compares with 26 per cent for the Warsaw pact countries.

American officialdom tends to be impatient with the officials of smaller, poorer countries ("the less developed") who cry for disarmament at the UN and beg the U.S. for military assistance.

But their military spending has tended to flatten out while ours rises, and their over-all rate of increase (24 per cent in 1965-67) is substantialy less than that of the developed NATO countries.

Arms-minded officials and politicians nourish the notion that the drain of military spending from the total economy doesn't really hurt all that much if it is viewed as a percentage of the rising Gross National Product in the world and in the big-spending countries.

The fact, says ACDA, is that per-capita military expenditures are increasing at a faster rate than per-capita GNP is (16 per cent vs. 9 per cent in the measured period).

Inflation, another favored explanation of the soaring outlays, does not alter the basic fact that world-wide military spending increases at a rate higher than that of any other area of governmental expenditure.

Expressed in real terms, with inflated currency values discounted, the world total rose 23 per cent over all and 16 per cent per capita in 1964-67.

There is another way of arguing that the $182-billion for 1967 really isn't so big. The U.S. could be spending that much, and more, on an all-out anti-ballistic missile system in the next few years.

These days, it's the astrologer who's master of all the charts he surveys; middleman in the celestial scene: reminder that "it's fun to know your future"; the one who REALLY loves you.

By MARION CLARK

And this is the year that the American has discovered the astrologer.

In the Faustian tradition he wants to know his future for fun AND profit; the one who KNOWS it's better to have a friend in the stars than at Chase Manhattan; the one who'd rather pay to have his horoscope charted than sell his soul to the devil after all.

Last year, the American jilted the psychiatrist she or even he was in love with. This year she is in love with her astrologer.

From the grass roots of L.A. to the top echelons of Capitol Hill, from the commune cellars of New York's East Village to the grand ballrooms of D.C.'s "Embassy Row," astrology — in spirit, in underground astrological cults, in lecture halls, in every book store, and in the White House — has arrived in Washington. Oddly enough, astrology as a profession has not.

Eight out of 10 national magazines carry horoscopes each month, an increase of nearly 80 per cent from a year ago. Newspaper horoscope columns have more than tripled in the last five years. Ouija boards are out-selling monopoly games and I Ching, the Chinese book of changes, is giving the Holy Bible the run.

Corporations are employing resident astrologers. Broadway plays like "Hair" chart their opening night dates according to the stars. Last year an astrologer called the White House to tell them Hubert Humphrey was in danger and they doubled the security guard.

Katherine Grant, one of the few professional astrologers practising in Washington, works on charts from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day.

Her successful business and her deep-found convictions that astrology works do not prevent her, as other astrologers, from shying away from publicity.

She is quick to defend herself and her profession, as are most astrologers who, as a group, have received what they refer to as a "bad press."

On a TV show, back in 1966, Mrs. Grant predicted in no uncertain terms that the Republicans would be in office in 1968. Her customers include many members on the hill whose identity, she is quick to point out, "must of course be concealed."

She has a simple answer to the mysterious new popularity of astrology: "People are finding out it really works."

Astrology by no means escapes the fringe of academic dogmas which, paraphrased, state flatly "publish or perish." The movement, after all, is considered by those involved a science, a theory closely related to mathematics, a thesis not divorced from philosophy, and a subject to be propagated by the written word. The result is that most local astrologers are turning from their charts to their typewriters.

Perhaps the most interesting endeavor along these lines is that being undertaken by Barbara Watters, a veteran astrologer whose practice began in Florida 20 years ago.

She has been active in Washington for 10 years. Her practice dissolved, her patients carefully referred elsewhere, she has freed herself to devote all her waking hours to the execution of her first book with the unlikely title The Astrologist Looks at Murder.

Within the book she has already solved the mystery of who the real Jack the Ripper was, ("out of the half dozen suspects narrowed down by Scotland Yard, I could tell easily by each suspect's horoscope chart") and that, beyond a doubt (astrologically speaking) Lizzy Borden did raise the mighty fateful axe.

Into the gentle hands of Svetlana Godillo has fallen Mrs. Watters' total clientele . . . the same hands that, when not furiously busy being the most popular of all Washington chart-makers, are tapping out yet another in the vanguard of what promises to be a hot new genre of astrological novels.

Svetlana Godillo's first novel is not the one she really wants to write, but it is one which, if the status quo prevails, is destined for the best seller list.

Its subject is sex and astrology, the essence of which couldn't interest modern America more. The light, tongue-in-cheek approach, balancing between seriousness and humor, is the same Miss Godillo takes to astrology. She never charts a future or makes a prediction without concluding "this is the way it will be . . . if astrology works."

Svetlana Godillo's scientific mind first led her to a career in medical research and compelled her in 1958 to try to disprove astrology. For 10 years she has been trying to disprove it and, for 10 years, she says, she's failed. She's "still furious that it works." Last year she finally became a professional astrologer.

She is constantly amazed by two things. One, the calibre of her clientele: "They aren't the kind of people you'd think would come to astrologers . . . the ghetto housewife whose husband has left her and she wants to know if he'll be back, or the flighty girl who wants to know if her boyfriend really lovers her.

"They are all college educated people. In fact, several have master's degrees and last week even a Ph.D called me for advice. They all have problems, but they all seem to view astrology as one approach out of many of the workings of reality . . . one view in a total of different ways of looking at problems."

The other "curio" that never ceases to amaze her is the accuracy of her predictions. "I'll do a chart for someone and I'll say, 'well, if astrology works, you should have the baby Friday,' and, by God, Friday comes and astrology works!" or "Someone will call. I'll do their chart. I'll see Jupiter jumping around and tell them that they are going to take a long trip and they'll say, 'well, that's good because I already have my bags packed.' "

Sometimes, even to the keeper of the charts, astrology is frightening. Even if, like Svetlana Godillo, the approach is part game, there are certain phenomena which turn the game into something quite deadly serious.

Each astrologer, for instance, notices that after every major change in the planets' positions, their phones ring off the hook with people wanting their charts drawn.

★

It's a magnetic regular occurrence. Most astrologers attribute the new-found popularity of the movement superficially to the fact that "people have a lot of problems right now," but, when haven't people had a lot of problems?

They say psychiatry has failed. Religion is too dogmatic. All the institutions are failing people, and they need someone to care. They need hope desperately, and astrology gives people hope.

This very generally, could explain the revival of astrology in America today, but to the real student of astrology, history points out that the popularity occurs in a cycle, every time the age of Aquarius returns . . . which, interestingly enough, is now.

Poster shops report that their Zodiac sign posters turn over faster than all others. Book shops find it difficult to keep the 50 different astrological books they carry in stock.

According to Margaret Kearney, secretary of the Washington Astrological Association, there are many too many students and not enough teachers. "We are in desperate need of teachers and classes to meet all our demands."

To the new student of the age-old celestial science, astrology is emerging with a "hip" new face. It provides, in our quick-paced society, "a shortcut into people's characters" according to one young student.

To another, it "lets you get right down to the real nitty-gritty fast," and, of course, to yet another, the importance of astrology today evokes the cliche "astrology tells it like it is."

Desperate Struggle Without Hope

By WARD JUST

PUNO, Peru—The Altiplano, the high plain of Peru and Bolivia, is one of the poorest regions in the world. It is not slum poverty, with families packed chockablock into tenements, but poverty that comes from grueling work on land that will not yield enough for a man to live decently.

In the state of Puno on the edge of Lake Titicaca the Indians chew coca leaves (the derivative is cocaine) not to achieve fantasies and thereby blow their minds but to kill hunger pains and receive the sensation of strength. Strong on coca, they work the fields.

The state of Puno has a population of one million. Average altitude: 12,500 feet. Illiteracy rate: 68 per cent. Condition: Near hopeless, according to a United Nations report which called it one of two permanent emergency areas in Latin America. For emergency, read disaster.

The Indians are Aymara and Quechua. The traveller sees them from the windows of trains that cross the high country from Arequipa to the west and Cuzco to the north.

Walk Like Groucho

Indian ladies wear odd derby hats, which are comical but give to their bearing an attitude of great seriousness. The ladies walk as Groucho Marx walks, hunched over, a baby or a pile of sticks fastened to their backs.

The men stand in the shade of the roof of the railway station, their faces the color of polished mahogany. It is possible to stare at them for long periods of time and receive no answering nod, or return stare.

The jaws work, the eyes stare blankly. There is only one way to describe it. The men look half dead.

"The climate plays an important part in the life of the people," a priest said. "Too much or too little rain or a few hours of frost in the growing season means economic disaster for the region. The people do not have enough to eat for themselves; they cannot feed their animals and must sell them; somebody in the family must leave the area and get a job on the coast.

Eat Seed Potatoes

"The people are forced to eat their seed potatoes and other reserves, leaving only a small quantity for planting in the following year. Even though it might be a good year only part of the fields are sown. Three years are required to get back to full production before another disaster strikes."

The earth of the plateau is black, but it is not rich. Electricity does not extend beyond the towns into the adobe huts where the families care for animals.

The families squeeze into tiny fetid rooms, where food is cooked and where they sleep huddled together against the cold.

They will nursemaid a single llama for a year, caring for it better than they care for themselves, to sell it at the end of 12 months for less than $100 profit.

There are children everywhere, and schools, but the schools are only sporadically attended.

No one is certain precisely what to do with all the Indians, whose lives constitute a desperate struggle against an unimaginably bleak environment.

The way out, for many of them is migration to the coast, specifically to Lima and the grim barriadas. Crops fail and the man of the family leaves; his wife and children wait, and get along the best they can.

There is probably more opportunity for advancement in Lima (and, what is more important, the possibility of advancement for one's children), but the hazards are great. One of the worst is health, the effects of moving from a 12,500-foot environment to sea level.

Majority Have TB

Tuberculosis is latent in a majority of the Altiplano population, and when the environment is changed the disease changes too; it is dormant no longer.

Some of the social scientists who are in Peru from time to time believe that the region should be evacuated altogether, and the Indians sent down to the jungle, where food is plentiful.

But where that has been tried (according to the accounts available here), it has not been a success.

The Indians become even sicker in the jungle than they become on the coast. And being essentially mountain people, they do not like the jungle. To others, the very idea of wholesale transportation of the Indians is an offence, a crime.

Violence Uncommon

The Indian culture on the Altiplano does not rank with Athens or Rome, but it is a decent style of living. The Indians are kind to their children, and to each other; violence is uncommon. They move from day to day, somehow dealing with the harshness of life but being ground down by it in the process.

"Only a hyper-romantic would find anything redeeming in the life of the Indians," says Rev. Peter Halligan, an American priest of the Maryknoll Order, who has lived on and off in Puno since 1953.

Other Maryknoll priests have tried to do what they could for the Indians in a range of enterprises from co-operatives to radio and television schools. At the moment the latter approach is receiving serious attention: Educational radio and television to bring literacy to the Altiplano.

But after literacy, what? No one here is very hopeful that any of the efforts, long range or short, will be productive of materially improving the lives of the people.

Eleven Hospitalized In Three-Way Crash

Eleven persons went to hospital, none seriously injured, following a three-car crash at McKenzie and Blenkinsop Sunday afternoon.

Four were admitted and are in good condition.

Being treated for fractured ribs and cuts are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McKenzie of 2001 Saltair Crescent. Their nine-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, is being treated for bruises.

Paul McKenzie, 15, and Margaret McKenzie, 14, were treated for minor injuries and released from hospital.

Five-year-old Tony Delima of 3157 Stephenson Place is being treated for face and possible internal injuries.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Delima, and a brother, Joseph, 8, were discharged from hospital after treatment.

Also treated and discharged were Mr. and Mrs. Timothy S. H. Roberts, 1859 Feltham.

Police said the Roberts vehicle was eastbound on McKenzie and the McKenzie's car, westbound on McKenzie.

Delima's car was southbound on Blenkinsop when the crash happened about 5 p.m.

Damage was estimated at $450 to Roberts' car and about $500 to Delima's. The McKenzie vehicle is a write-off, police said.

No details on the cause of the accident were released. There is a stop sign on Blenkinsop at the intersection, McKenzie is a through road at this point.

Before the Magistrate

"Watch the police when you go to Australia — they might be faster runners than they are here," Magistrate Joseph Byers told a young souvenir hunter in Central Magistrate's Court Saturday.

Michael A. Sessions of 2100 Brighton was arrested at 4 a.m. Saturday as he hid under a parked car behind the Oak Bay Municipal Hall. He was charged with stealing a flashlight from an Oak Bay police car.

Session's sister told Magistrate Byers she was sending him to Australia Friday to keep him out of trouble. Court suspended sentence on condition Sessions leave for Australia as planned, and bound him over on a $150 good behavior bond for six months.

A learner driver who was clocked by police at speeds between 85-95 on the Trans-Canada Highway early Saturday morning was fined $150 or 15 days, and his right to obtain a driver's licence suspended for three months.

John Aitken of 595 Hansen Rd. said he was delivering his three passengers to the 7 a.m. Schwartz Bay ferry before he was stopped on the highway in the vicinity of Burnside Rd. He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving.

Preliminary hearing for three Brentwood Bay men charged with rape was set for March 15 and will be held in Sidney Magistrate's Court. Magistrate D. G. Ashby set the date in Central Saanich Magistrate's Court Saturday.

Wilfred Joseph Henry, 23, Simon James Smith, 31, and his brother Fraser Henry Smith, 23, were charged following a complaint Feb. 14 in Central Saanich.

An application by defence council Allan Patterson for a reduction of bail from $5,000 to $2,500 for each of the accused was granted.

He's Aiming For The Moon

Hanke Beute used to "fool around" with rockets in his native Holland, but now he is aiming at a career as an electronics technician in rocketry.

An employee of Kennametal, Hank, 22, is also president of the 18-member Victoria Space Crusaders Club which Saturday fired 15 model rockets from the Butler Brothers gravel pit near Sooke.

"I hope to get a job as a researcher or on a launching pad, say at Fort Churchill," he said.

The highest shot Saturday was an estimated 530 feet, but Beute said the highest here was an 1140-foot effort by Eric Wallace McMorran of 5131 Cordova Bay Rd.

He said it costs $2-$4 to buy and build a rocket, and cost of fuel per shot he estimated at about 60 cents.

Most of the members of the one-year-old club are high school students.

African Lion Becomes Pet For Teacher

CLIFFORD, Ont. (CP) — A young Clifford school teacher has a new pet kitten that thrives on large quantities of raw meat and has baby teeth two inches long.

It's a five-month-old lion cub that was born deep in an African jungle.

Barbara Baumgarten finds the cub demands just about every minute of her free time.

The cub is five feet long and weights 50 pounds. In six years it will reach its full size of nine feet, and will weigh 900 pounds.

Miss Baumgarten said she bought him from a pet shop on impulse and hopes to train him to get along with other animals on the family farm in the Kitchener area.

The claws on his front feet have been removed and when his permanent teeth develop the canines will be extracted.

All-Indian Juries Advocated

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A red power advocate demanded Sunday that only Indian juries should sit on court trials involving accused Indians.

Miss Lee Carter made her plea to the provincial and federal governments in front of the courthouse here during a 50-minute protest meeting called by the Native Alliance for Red Power.

About 50 red power supporters marched to the courthouse to protest comments alleged to have been made by Magistrate Harold Mahon on Feb. 7 when he sentenced Donald Gilbert Nahanee, 24, of North Vancouver, to two years in jail for armed robbery. He was quoted as saying:

"We are having more trouble with the Indians than we have had for a long time. They have got to be taught a lesson: They cannot go around committing such offences."

In the legislature Thursday, Dave Barrett (NDP — Coquitlam) said the magistrate's remarks showed discrimination.

Miss Carter challenged the governments to call only Indians in future to hear trials of Indians answering criminal and civil court charges.

Seal Hunting Defended By Fur Firms

HALIFAX (CP) — The Canadian east coast sealing industry says it is no more conceivable that the seal hunt should be shut down than that "Canadians should be prevented from catching fish or cutting down trees".

Eight firms which participate in the seal hunt or in the purchase or processing of seal fur today issued a statement declaring that federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis "cannot find any cruelty" in their operations.

The minister issued orders last week that the hunt, which opens in the Gulf of St. Lawrence Friday, be conducted in a humane manner or it will be abolished in 1970. Mr. Davis plans to make a personal inspection of sealing operations.

The industry's statement from five Nova Scotia firms, two in Newfoundland and one in Quebec's Magdalen Islands, said: "The only cruelty in this drama is the cruelty of those few persons who for personal gain would deprive honest, decent, innocent and hard-working fishermen of a chance to make an honest living."

It added that the time is "long past overdue for the government to pursue the propagandists who are giving Canada a horrible image before the world."

Officer Kills Subway Rider

NEW YORK (AP) — About 25 subway riders, who had been subjected to a foul-mouthed harangue by a fellow passenger, watched in stunned silence Sunday morning as he was shot dead in a struggle with a transit policeman who dragged him off the train at a Manhattan station.

The dead man was identified as Crosby Littlejohn, 50, said by police to have been arrested 35 times since 1949—three times on charges of assaulting transit policemen.

In the struggle with Patrolman Michael Sullivan, police said, Littlejohn caused the officer's pistol to fire in its holster, wounding Sullivan in the leg.

Sullivan then drew the gun and shot Littlejohn three times.

U.S. Bar Wants Garrison Probe

DETROIT (AP) — The American Bar Association will recommend a probe of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison and the Clay Shaw conspiracy trial, the president of the ABA said Saturday.

William Gossett of Detroit said the ABA will ask the Louisana Bar Association to consider disciplinary action against Garrison as a result of the trial in which Shaw was found innocent of charges he plotted to kill President Kennedy.

TRIAL A CHARADE

Gossett called the trial a charade.

Garrison's motives in bringing Shaw to trial must be investigated by the LBA, Gossett said. The ABA president said he was sure there was "a feeling of outrage" among people in Louisiana over "what appeared to be an unjustified attack" on Shaw.

"I'm sure that attorneys there question whether the indictment was properly founded. My personal opinion is that they will be compelled to investigate," Gossett said.

DOUBT CAST

Gossett said trials such as Shaw's "tend to create doubt about our judicial process . . . our system of jurisprudence.

"I don't know what led Garrison to act in the Shaw case," Gossett commented. "He may have had unreliable information.

"Certaintly his principal witness seemed to be wholly unreliable," said Gossett referring to Perry Russo.

The ABA head said Shaw could sue for damages: "He has had to pay attorney fees, he has lost two years of his life preparing for his trial . . . he has had to endure the anxiety."

He said Garrison could be disbarred only if the action against Shaw could be shown to be deliberately malicious.

PROOF DIFFICULT

"You can't disbar an attorney for incompetence," Gossett said. "So it is very hard to prove anything in a disbarment proceeding."

The 12-man jury, which included three Negroes, was out only 54 minutes and took only one vote before returning its unanimous verdict of not guilty for Shaw, retired managing director of the International Trade Mart.

Humane Society Up in Arms Over Tests on Stray Pets

TORONTO (CP) — A hissing, shouting crowd of 600 animal-lovers at an Ontario Humane Society meeting Sunday agreed unanimously to defy a proposed provincial law—requiring that stray animals be handed over for scientific research—unless it is amended.

Members shouted "horror" and "murder" and gave their loudest cheers to a woman who called the government proposals "a morally bankrupt piece of legislation."

Tom Hughes, general manager of the society, said the government bill was aimed at destroying the society.

"We've rocked the boat and they want to make sure we don't embarrass anybody again."

The bill introduced the legislature last week, would compel municipal and society animal shelters to hand over unwanted dogs and cats to dealers in research animals.

It also forbids society inspectors to enter barns and kennels without a warrant or to act without bringing a veterinarian to the scene. The bill would create a new provincial group of humane inspectors.

The meeting passed two resolutions demanding six amendments to the proposed law and declaring that the society and its 50 affiliates will not comply if the law is passed without change.

A principal amendment urged by the meeting would exempt society shelters or those operated by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals from the legislation.

Anne Boulton, a former executive member of the society's London branch, shouted her objections to the amendment despite boos and cries of "sit-down."

She said it would protect animals in society shelters but condemn those in municipally-owned pounds to a painful death in a research laboratory.

One man who tried to speak in favor of the legislation was shouted down and one woman hissed: 'they should experiment on him." Another grey-haired lady won cheers when she called for the fall of the government.

All members signed a giant Save the Animals petition and planned to continue their campaign against the legislation by writing and petitioning their MMP's.

Doctor Decries Educational Madness

Streaming students through high school is a form of educational madness, a Vancouver child psychiatrist said Saturday at the University of Victoria.

Dr. Keith Akins, addressing a session of the Institute on the Emotionally Disturbed Adolescent held over the weekend, said young people are usually not ready until their late teens to make decisions about their future.

But the system now asks a student to decide about the end of Grade 8 if he wants to be a student or a worker.

"You ask them to make a choice and the minute they commit themselves, you ask if they would mind waiting four years.

"This is educational madness," Dr. Akins said.

Teen-agers have problems of living to solve during their young years and cannot give their full attention to education.

High school might be a good place to begin teaching about society and living, Dr. Akins suggested. At age 13 or 14 an adolescent wants to begin growing independent.

The usual ways of becoming independent and measuring themselves against adults have been denied most of these youngsters and they must wait until they are older for work.

"It is a rare child that is given the opportunity of being able to work and measure himself against adults," Dr. Akins said.

Later, in answer to a question, he said discipline was just a word meaning the big guy can push the little guy around.

Self-discipline is most often meant to say "you do what I want without me having to tell you," he said.

A person has self-discipline when he controls his own behavior so it doesn't hurt anyone else, Dr. Akins said.

He said he was more concerned about the conformists in society than in the rebels.

Separatism's Morality Debated to Standstill

WINNIPEG (CP) — The "morality" of a future Quebec declaration of independence, and the degree of co-operation that could reasonably be expected to continue in a Canada divided, were debated to a standstill here Saturday.

The occasion was the final day of a three-day conference on Canadian affairs sponsored by the University of Winnipeg Students' Association.

In one corner was Rene Levesque, president of the separatist Parti Quebecois; in the other, Winnipeg lawyer Maurice Arpin, constitutional adviser to the Manitoba government, and Eugene Forsey of Ottawa, Canadian Labour Congress director of special projects.

Panel discussion provided the forum, and the other participants were Montreal journalist Peter Desbarats and Donald Craik, Manitoba minister of youth and education.

The morality issue was raised by Mr. Arpin who said he recognized that Mr. Levesque's first act, if he received a mandate from the Quebec people, would be to pull the province out of Canada.

He asked the separatist leader: "By what morality of any kind do Quebecers think they have the right to dispose of something that does not belong to Quebec entirely?"

Mr. Levesque said one thing drafters of constitutions never included was an article saying when that constitution should be replaced.

By this thinking, a constitution was for all eternity. "No constitution ever tells you how the hell you get out of it eventually."

Yet change was necessary, and it could come either through outright revolution or through the democratic process.

Mr. Arpin said an extension of this logic would mean that if a majority of people on the island of Montreal wanted to separate from Mr. Levesque's new Quebec, they would have the absolute right to do so.

Not so, said Mr. Levesque.

Mr. Arpin was forgetting to ask himself whether there are the elements of nationhood within Quebec—and there were. Quebec had never been more than a subdivision of the "spiritual realm" of Canada referred to by Mr. Arpin.

Mr. Desbarats said the idea of Quebec nationhood cannot be rejected out of hand although he himself had never functioned in the concept of an independent Quebec and would have to see much more evidence that this is what the people of Quebec want. It was useless for Mr. Arpin to appeal to a sense of Canadian nationhood that had never existed in Quebec.

Mr. Arpin asked Mr. Levesque whether he was rejecting the possibility of a completely revised system of federalism acceptable to Quebec aspirations.

Mr. Levesque said that if the federal regime revamped itself to the point where Quebecers would "buy it," that would be a democratic decision, but all Mr. Arpin was doing was painting a beautiful picture of some hypothetical future.

In a question from the floor, Mr. Levesque was asked whether he would agree to a county-by-county referendum in which those regions which voted to remain as part of Canada would be permitted to do so.

"The answer is no," Mr. Levesque replied.

It was Mr. Forsey who raised the point of continuing co-operation after a Quebec split from Canada.

Hard bargaining would be required, he said, but if Quebec decided to go it alone entirely, that would be that. "I don't think we can re-enact, north of the border, in the 20th century, the American civil war."

But if Mr. Levesque was still talking in terms of association, where vital affairs like monetary policy would be subject to a Quebec veto on a "50-50 basis," he did not believe the rest of Canada would accept such an arrangement.

Mr. Levesque said Mr. Forsey should look at the example of the durable goods industry in Ontario. The province had a corner on the industry in Canada and 25 to 35 per cent of the Ontario market was in Quebec.

Should Quebec opt out politically, it would not take the manufacturers long to recognize the desirability of arrangements to continue relationships in trade.

"We still say some new form of association could be bargained," Mr. Levesque said.

U.S. Sergeant Disappears Into E. Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — A U.S. Army sergeant, his wife and their two-months-old infant crossed into East Berlin Saturday and have not returned, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

American authorities in West Berlin have made contact with Soviet officials in East Berlin and have asked that a meeting with the soldier be set up, but so far there has been no response, the spokesman said.

He added that the sergeant is being listed as absent without leave and authorities were trying to determine if he went to the Communist side of Berlin "willingly or unwillingly."

The spokesman did not identify the sergeant except by his rank and said that such identification would not be made until his next-of-kin in the United States had been notified.

REJECTED Saturday by the Communist leadership in Laos in his efforts to enter into direct talks to end the Laotian civil war was Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma. The Communists stated that they cannot negotiate "under pressure of U.S. mobs and shells."

ADDIS ABABA CRACKS DOWN ON STUDENTS

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—The four campuses of the Haile Selassie University and all high schools in the Ethiopian capital were closed today by government order "to avert possible human losses and damage to property in the wake of student unrest."

A government order said the decision was taken "following student agitations to disrupt public order and security at the institution by a handful of students." The cause of the unrest was not known.

Fortune Transferred

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A street was blocked off to permit the transfer of $4,000,000,000 in securities, cash and jewelry Sunday as Bank of America's trust department shifted to new quarters a block away. Three armored trucks made the hauls, with each limited to $50,000,000 a load.

Christian Democrats Win Chile Elections

SANTIAGO (Reuters) — The governing left-of-centre Christian Democrat party was returned to power in Chile's congressional elections Sunday as vital late results were tabulated.

President Eduardo Frei's party lost ground but kept its majority in the lower house while the right-wing finished in the runner-up spot.

Communists won third place followed by the left-of-centre Radical party.

Final figures released by the Interior ministry gave the Christian Democrats 31.1 per cent of the 2,300,000 votes cast.

The National party won 20.9 per cent, the Communist party 16.6 per cent and the Radicals 13.9 per cent of the votes. Abstentions came close to 29.5 per cent.

The Christian Democrats emerged as the leading party in both the 150-seat House of Deputies and the 50-seat Senate.

But its losses virtually killed Frei's hopes of completing his reformist "revolution in freedom" program in the 18 months remaining before the next presidential elections.

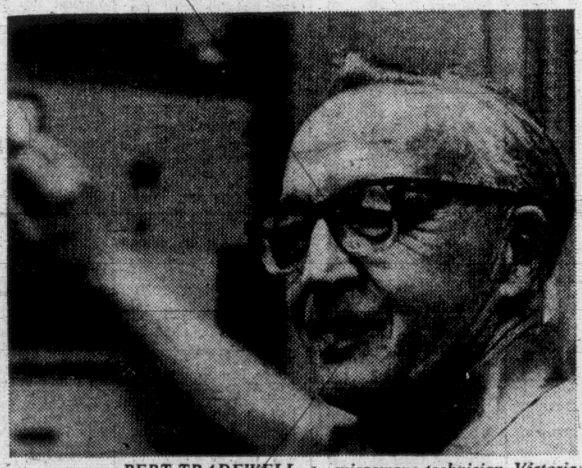
When you phone a distant place

people make it happen



BERT TRADEWELL ... microwave technician, Victoria

Easy, isn't it, making a telephone call to a distant place?

Whether you dial the number directly or place your call through an operator, electronic and mechanical equipment takes over quickly to find the right transmission path, send the appropriate signals and complete the connection within seconds to the telephone you're calling. And it all happens automatically.

But only because people make it happen. Telephone people. Like the technician in a microwave radio centre in the photo above.

He is one of about 200 microwave radio technicians employed by the B.C. Telephone Company; men specially trained by the company to make sure the more than 6,000 miles of radio transmission systems criss-crossing British Columbia work properly to assure efficient long distance telephone service.

He works away from public view, inside radio equipment buildings and often at remote mountain-top microwave repeater stations reached by helicopter. So it's unlikely you'll encounter him directly (unless it's as a neighbour or as one of the hundreds of telephone people devoting time and energy to United Appeal canvassing, service club activities, Little League coaching or any of a number of other community service activities).

That's the case with many of B.C. Telephone's employees.

But each time you place a telephone call to a distant place, you can be sure all that equipment will go to work automatically to complete your connection—because skilled and devoted telephone people make it happen.

B.C. Air Lines Given Route

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia Air Lines has won permission to operate between Vancouver, Penticton and Kelowna.

This will place it in competition with Pacific Western Airlines on this route.

In a move designed to improve the patterns of air service in British Columbia, the commission also authorized B.C. Air Lines to provide service between Prince George and Kamloops, and through Quesnel and Williams Lake.

The line will also provide a link between Prince George and Prince Rupert by way of Terrace, Smithers and Burns Lake.

On both these routes it replaces Canadian Pacific Airlines, which is giving up some regional routes in British Columbia in return for the right to increase its transcontinental services. Canadian Pacific will step up its Montreal-Vancouver flights to five from two this summer.

Dailies Increase Circulation in '68

NEW YORK (CP) — Daily newspaper circulation in Canada was up by 184,549 copies in 1968 over the previous year, Editor and Publisher magazine reports.

Tabulation for Editor and Publisher's 1969 International Year Book, due in March, show that Canada's 115 daily newspapers sold a total of 4,599,489 newspapers on an average day in 1968 compared with 4,414,940 a year earlier.

The number of morning newspapers increased by one to 10 while the number of evening papers was steady at 97, Editor and Publisher says.

Average daily circulation of morning papers increased to 1,041,159 in 1968 from 980,995 in 1967.

Evening dailies sold 3,558,330 on an average day in 1968 against 3,433,945 a year earlier.

Massey-Ferguson's Income the Same

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd. had net income of $1,900,000 for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, ended Jan. 31, the same as in the corresponding period last year. Earnings were 11 cents a share for both periods.

A. A. Thornbrough, president, told the annual meeting today that first-quarter sales were $170,400,000, about three per cent higher than the $165,700,000 earned in the similar period last year and the second highest on record for the first quarter.

Sales of farm machinery were seven per cent lower than in the similar 1968 period, Mr. Thornbrough said. But sales of the industrial equipment division were up 45 per cent, the engine division 19 per cent and the parts division 12 per cent.

Mr. Thornbrough said over-all sales and operating results of the company should be improved this year from 1968.

WINNIPEG (CP) — A sharp decline in barley prices developed near the close of trading action on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Trades executed in all futures were ¾ to 2 cents lower. A moderate domestic shipper trade developed on the declines.

Flax and rapeseed continued under hedge selling pressure with absorption by local and commission houses. There was some exporter buying in rapeseed.

CHICAGO (AP)—A late rally lifted wheat futures prices a full cent from early lows and the close brought small advances in all contracts on the board of trade today.

Corn futures also ended the session on a strong tone, but oats declined more than 3 cents under heavy liquidation. Rye was lower. Soybeans also gave way with soybean oil but meal posted small advances.

Forest Industry Won't Re-Open Wage Talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Coast forest industry said Sunday it will not accede to a request by the International Woodworkers of America that wage provisions in the current contract be re-negotiated.

"We spent months negotiating the present agreement which gave the best wages and working conditions of any forest producing area in the world," John Billings of Forest Industrial Relations, which bargains for the industry, said in a statement.

"Under it, in just 3½ months, all industry employers will pay their employees another 18 cents an hour in wage increases."

The Vancouver IWA local decided the contract should be re-opened for negotiation at a meeting Saturday because employers were gaining more profit from increasing lumber prices. The current contract expires June 15, 1970.

The local called for an unspecified across-the-board wage increase and urged other locals to support the demand in an approach to the regional council.

Syd Thompson, president of the large Vancouver local, said the current contract contains a clause that it can be opened once a year for wage provisions provided the industry and the union agree.

"I think the forest industry would be in an intenable position if it refused to re-open," he said. "The price of lumber has gone up 50 to 60 per cent in the past year, plywood has gone up 70 per cent and a variety of shingles has gone up 120 per cent."

Current base rate for the industry is $2.94 an hour.

Mr. Billings said in his statement that the lumber industry has a history of prices going up and down in a continuing cycle but wages and other costs are fixed and never go down.

Tight Money Nixon's Major Inflation Tool

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Even before the Nixon administration took office in January it made known its belief that the first order of business was the control of inflation. The question was: How would it do it? Now the answers are in.

Budget deficits will be avoided if possible, the current 10 per cent surtax on income taxes may be retained beyond July 1, attempts will be made to control the money supply more tightly than in the past, and—perhaps—unemployment will be permitted to inch up.

The worst of the humors are likely to be avoided: The overheated economy won't be brought under control at the expense of a big increase in joblessness, and neither, it appears, will many federal programs be rolled back.

One technique that has worked in the past, although for only a limited period of a few years, is likely to be avoided.

That technique: guideposts, or the arbitarary setting of limits for wage and price increases.

President Nixon's economic advisers appear during the first month or so to be sensitive, cautious and non-doctrinaire.

When Nixon was elected there spread, briefly, a spate of rumors to the effect that inflation would be slowed by permitting job layoffs. A loss of jobs is, in the nature of the problem, usually one of the consequences of a slowdown.

Nixon's advisers, however, appear to be giving top priority to a reduction of inflation without a large loss of jobs. Dangerous as inflation is, they seem to be saying, it must be reduced so slowly that great unemployment is avoided.

Despite intentions, this slowdown may not be accomplished without a loss of jobs. In his first presidential news conference, Nixon emphasized it was possible to control inflation without increasing unemployment substantially. But he didn't define the term.

An administration spokesman was more reluctant to make a positive statement. "I wish I could say we can stabilize the price level with absolutely no effects on jobs," he said. But he added he could not safely make that statement.

More apparent with each news conference or statement is the realization that the amount of money permitted to circulate must be controlled more effectively if the anti-inflation policies are to succeed.

Money supply largely is a role of the Federal Reserve Board, which decides when funds should be permitted to flow to the expanding economy, largely through the availability or non-availability of credit.

BOARD CRITICIZED

There has been criticism of the board's role in inflation during the last few years, and some economists blame it for the persistence of inflation despite a reduction in federal spending and the implementation of an income surtax.

By permitting too much money to enter the economy relative to the amount of goods the economy was capable of producing, these critics say, demand was overfed. Too many dollars were sent chasing too few goods. And prices rose.

Heat on Mergers Clips Conglomerate Market Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices of conglomerate stocks have gone into a nosedive and the United States justice department's announcement Friday that it intends to halt some mergers is expected 'to drive another nail in the coffin.'

"The Nixon administration and the Congress," said Wall Street analyst Eldon Grimm, "certainly are clamping down severely on the merger madness."

●

Conglomerates — corporations which grow by acquiring companies in diverse fields —are "an unpopular group right now," said Grimm.

The justice department said it would move to prevent conglomerate mergers between large corporations, the latest bad news to hit the multi-industry companies.

Representative Wilburn D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, introduced a bill which would affect the tax treatment of debentures issued for stock in mergers. At least one proposed merger, that of W. R. Grace and Co. and Fischbach and Moore Inc., was put in limbo because of tax uncertainties posed by the bill.

●

Hamer H. Budge, new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has noted that debt financing often is used by one corporation to take over another.

"I am fully aware the problem of closing possible tax loopholes is an intricate one," said Budge, but "we cannot help but note the extent to which tax considerations affect the techniques of corporate combinations."

●

And Robert W. Haack, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the Big Board currently is weighing the listing status of two unidentified companies, understood to be conglomerates, because of possible problems with debt securities they issued in connection with acquisitions.

News of this type has "called the attention of investors to the risks involved in conglomerates," said Joseph F. Dorsey, president of the Argus Research Corp.

"As a glamor group, I think the conglomerates are not likely to return to favor in a hurry," he said.

CP Air Banking on New Route Agreement by June

AUCKLAND (AP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines hopes a proposed agreement with Air New Zealand will induce the New Zealand government to change its mind about ending CPA landing rights in this country in June.

CPA's market and sales vice-president, H. B. Renwick, told a news conference in Wellington that CPA will offer to pay for large-scale advertising in Canada of New Zealand's tourist attractions.

He proposed three joint services a week across the Pacific, two by Air New Zealand and one by CPA.

HONOLULU CONNECTS

He said CPA would have connecting flights at Honolulu to take Air New Zealand passengers to Vancouver and points east. At present CPA has one fortnightly flight.

New Zealand challenges CPA landing rights here because it considers the CPA service detrimental to Air New Zealand's passenger service across the Pacific. Air New Zealand has not taken up reciprocal landing rights in Canada.

Royal Favor Accepted As Cougars Take First

Semis Under Way Tuesday With Victoria at Vernon

New Westminster Royals supplied a timely boost and Victoria Cougars capped a rags-to-riches climb by claiming the B.C. Junior Hockey League pennant Sunday.

A dismal last in thier first season, the Cougars finished on top in campaign No. 2 despite losing a 5-4 decision to Kelowna Buckaroos Sunday.

Cougars slipped through the back door, however, when the Royals, doormats for most of the season, flexed their muscles Sunday to upset second-place Penticton Broncos 3-2.

The Doug Anderson-coached Cougars thus finished one point ahead of Penticton. Kelowna won both of its weekend games to tie Vernon Essos for third place, five points behind Penticton.

For playoff purposes, Vernon was awarded third place because of their victory total. Essos won 19 games, Kelowna 18.

That means the Cougars move to Vernon to open the best-of-seven semi-final series while Penticton tackles Kelowna. Both open Tuesday night. Survivors of the semi-final round meet in a best-of-five final scheduled to commence March 14.

Second game of the Victoria-Vernon series will be played Wednesday. If the first two are split a third game will be played in Vernon on Thursday. The playoffs then shift to Victoria's Memorial Arena for games on Friday and Saturday night.

If one team should sweep the first two games in Vernon, the third game will be played in Victoria on Thursday.

The Victoria-Vernon B.C. Junior Hockey League playoffs will be broadcast over CJVI (900), starting at 9 p.m. on game nights.

Saturday's Late Splurge Did It

Cougars, who made a gallant effort to win the pennant "through the front door," didn't learn of their "back-door" entry until about half-hour after they stepped off the Kelowna ice.

Cougars earned the points they needed Saturday night, scoring five unanswered goals in the third period to trip Vernon 8-2 before 1,130 fans. That pushed Victoria a point ahead of Penticton and set the stage for Sunday's at-the-wire finish in Kelowna and Penticton.

Cougars overcame a 3-0 deficit Sunday and threatened to pull it out after tying the game, 3-3, early in the third period. A quick exchange made it 4-4 before Ken Philip scored the winner at 8:50 while Victoria defenceman Laurie Moore was serving a minor penalty.

It was Philip's second goal of the game. Gene Carr, Pat McMahon and Larry Lenarduzzi counted Bucks, other goals before the largest crowd of the season in Kelowna, 1,650 fans.

Grant Evans, a standout, scored his 50th and 51st goals. Doug Gibson fired his 22nd and Bruce Cowick pushed in his 21st to round out Victoria's total.

Blais, Barrie Forced to Sidelines

Cougars deserved a better fate. They consistently bottled up the Buckaroos in their own zone, but were dogged by bad luck and poor shooting around the Kelowna net.

Everything rolled better for Cougars on Saturday. Sparked by goalie Ron Grahame and a new line of Shayne Webster, Lon Miles and Cowick, the Cougars came on strong in the second period won handily.

Grahame played an outstanding game in turning aside 44 shots, including 18 in the opening period. Wayne Dye, at 6:10, and Jack Marsh, at 16:10, scored for Vernon before Grahame closed the door shut.

Miles led Victoria with three goals while Murray Kennett, Scott Munro, Evans, Cowick and Len Barrie supplied singles.

Barrie played a standout game for Cougars despite a touch of the 'flu that was to sideline him on Sunday. He picked up two assists in addition to a strong defensive effort.

The Miles-Webster-Cowick line was put together after winger Adrian Blias suffered a bruised hip bone in a game at Penticton Friday.

A doctor felt it may be "four or five days" before Blais may be able to return to the lineup, but team manager Bob Reid said Sunday night that his winger "was feeling quite chipper" and "may be able to play" in Tuesday's opening playoff game.

The helpful Royals, who dropped a 5-2 decision to Kelowna on Saturday night, took advantage of a penalty and a defensive lapse to upset the Broncos before 900 fans in Penticton.

An elbowing penalty to Jim Whitlam of Penticton allowed Mick Wilson to tie the score 2-2 early in the third period. Wilson stole the puck from Penticton defenceman Tom Madden and scored easily.

Westminster's leading scorer then came back a minute and 34 seconds later to rap in the winner.

GRAHAME BLAIS VAN HORLICK

Cats Dominate All-Star Team

KELOWNA — Victoria Cougars dominated the British Columbia Junior Hockey League's first all-star team but Ed Hays, high-scoring centre of Penticton Broncos, was named the most valuable player Saturday.

At the same time, league president Howard Hamilton of Penticton announced that two new entries—Kerrisdale Centennials and Nor'West Caps—will expand the circuit from six to eight teams next season.

Hays, who has reached the 100-point mark as the league's scoring leader, was also named to the first team in the BCJHL selections announced at the annual meeting.

He joins goalie Ron Grahame, defenceman John Van Horlick and left wing Adrian Blais, all of the Cougars; defenceman Dick Marsh of Vernon and rightwinger Mick Wilson of New Westminster.

PENTLAND TOP ROOKIE

Selections were made by coaches and referees. No one was permitted to vote for a player from his city.

Dwayne Pentland of the Broncos was named rookie-of-the-year and Doug Anderson of Victoria coach-of-the-year. Anderson also was named coach of the first team.

Named to the second team were goalie Jack Gilroy of Vernon; Tom Madden of Penticton and Larry Morrey of Kamloops, defence; centre Gene Carr of Kelowna; right winger Reg Cherenko of Penticton, and left winger Gerry Vachon of Vernon. Odie Lowe of Vernon was named second team coach.

TROPHY FOR RON

The league also announced a new award—the Wally Forslund Memorial Trophy—will be presented to the leading netminder. Grahame, finishing with a 3.12 goals-against average, will be the first winner.

Mr. Forslund, long associated with Vernon minor hockey, died last month and was the father of Cougars' alternate netminder, Ed Forslund.

Hamilton said the league will continue to operate as a single division with Kerrisdale and Nor'West in the fold.

Phil Tops 100; Aims at Other Point Records

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins has no plans to relax now that he holds the National Hockey League record for most points in one season.

The Boston centre scored two goals Sunday night to become the first player in NHL history to total 100 points or more in one campaign.

The goals, coming in Boston's 4-0 shutout over Pittsburgh Penguins, gave Esposito 101 points on 40 goals and 61 assists.

Esposito collected a goal and assist Saturday night in Boston's 8-5 win over New York Rangers to set the mark for most points in one season. The record of 97 had been held by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks.

"It's great to hit 100 points, but if I don't win the scoring title it won't mean much," said Esposito, who holds an 11-point edge over runner-up Hull in the scoring race.

LEAFS NIP HAWKS

In other games Sunday, Toronto Maple Leafs shaded Chicago Black Hawks 2-1, Detroit Red Wings upset Montreal Canadiens 4-2, New York Rangers nipped St. Louis Blues 2-1 and Philadelphia Flyers tied Oakland Seals 4-4.

Saturday, Montreal blanked St. Louis 3-0, Detroit downed Minnesota North Stars 4-2, Pittsburgh tied Toronto 3-3 and Philadelphia played Los Angeles Kings to a 2-2 tie.

Esposito said Sunday night that he has several reasons for not relaxing yet.

"I want to win the scoring title, and by scoring, I'll be helping the team. Points don't mean much if you lose."

The former Chicago player also said he wants to break all records for a centre. Mikita holds the record for most assists by a centre in one season—62—and Jean Beliveau of Montreal has the record for most goals—47.

Jim Lorentz and Johnny McKenzie scored the other Boston goals Sunday and Eddie Johnston picked up the shutout, his second.

Victory moved Boston into a first-place tie with Montreal in the Eastern Division, and the Bruins have two games in hand.

Frank Mahovlich of Detroit scored two goals Sunday night, his 41st and 42nd of the season, as the Red Wings held on to third place in the Eastern Division.

STAY IN CONTENTION

Two goals Sunday by Paul Henderson helped Toronto stay in contention for a playoff spot. Hull connected for Chicago.

A sellout crowd of 16,485, watching the first NHL game ever played at Maple Leaf Gardens on a Sunday, saw Henderson score midway through the first period and early in the second before Hull blasted his 46th.

Henderson's goals were his 23rd and 24th, a career high. His previous high had been 22 at Detroit in 1965-66.

Kennedy, Selby Go To Leafs

OAKLAND (AP) — Philadelphia Flyers today dealt veteran centre Forbes Kennedy and forward Brit Selby to Toronto Maple Leafs for wingers Mike Byers, Jerry Meehan and Bill Sutherland, one hour before the National Hockey League trading deadline.

Kennedy, 33, has been under suspension by the Flyers since Feb. 20.

The NHL trading dealine was 2 a.m. EST today.

In a separate transaction, the Flyers also sold forward Pat Hannigan to Vancouver Canucks of the Western League for an undisclosed amount of cash.

At the same time, Toronto returned leftwinger Wayne Carleton to Rochester Americans of the American League after a one-game recall. Carleton filled in for the injured Bob Pulford.

MOORE RINK RETURNS TO ROUSING GREETING

Victoria curlers tendered "our champs" a rousing welcome-back Sunday.

Victoria International Airport was filled to overflowing as district curlers roared a welcome to Gordon Moore, Dick Pick, Laurie Perlette and Joe Leibel when the Victoria Curling Club foursome returned from the national seniors' playdowns.

The Moore-skipped rink, after leading throughout the week, lost the Canadian championship in a playoff with Ontario's Alf Phillips.

The reception Sunday, which included an "honor guard" of curlers holding crossed brooms from the aircraft to the terminal, paid tribute to the Victorians' strong showing.

Six First-Nine Birdies Paved Way for Triumph

MIAMI (AP)—Tom Shaw fired a 70 in the final round Sunday and won the $150,000 Doral Open golf tournament by one stroke over veteran Tommy Aaron with a 72-hole total of 276, 12 strokes under par.

Shaw collected $30,000 for his first tour victory after sharing the lead all the way on the par-72, 7,028-yard Doral Country Club layout.

Aaron, who shared the lead in the final two rounds, won $17,100.

One stroke back of Aaron at 278 was veteran Dan Sikes, the 1962 Doral champion, who shared the lead through the first 36 holes. Sikes collected $10,650.

VOLLMER COLLECTS

Canadian finishers were Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Alvie Thompson of Toronto. Volmer shot 70-73-72-69 for a 284 total and $2,625. Thompson finished with a 287 total and $856.

Shaw, bantering with the gallery, posted six birdies for a 30 on the par 36 front nine, but he ran into trouble at the back.

He took five shots to reach the green on the 496-yard par five 10th hole for three over par. He landed his second shot in mud near a water hazard, missed his third shot and was short on the fourth.

Shaw still held a three-stroke lead entering the final hole, where he blew his chances to match the tournament record when he landed his second shot in a water hazard and took a two-over-par six.

Shaw, who joined the tour in 1963, was sidelined, two years ago when he injured his back in an automobile accident. He tried a brief comeback after the accident and then left the tour to take a club job in Golf, Ill. He rejoined the tour in January, 1968.

276—Tom Shaw, $30,000.
277—Tommy Aaron, $17,100.
278—Dan Sikes, $10,650.
279—Jack Nicklaus, Homero Blancas, $6,600.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Scotsman Jackie Stewart, driving a Matra Cosworth Ford with aerofoils mounted front and rear, led from start to finish Saturday to win the first Grand Prix of the 1969 world championship series at the Kyalami circuit near here.

Reigning world champion Graham Hill of England, driving a Lotus Cosworth Ford, finished second about 24 seconds behind the flying long-haired Scot.

Saunders and Hilts Supply Scoring Spark

By The Canadian Press

A pair of three-goal performances led Portland Buckaroos and San Diego Gulls to Western Hockey League victories Sunday night.

Portland got three goals from veteran Bill Saunders as they romped to a 5-2 victory over Phoenix Roadrunners before 6,641 fans in Portland.

In San Diego, Fred Hilts was the big goal-getter as the Gulls broke a six-game losing streak with a 6-4 win over Denver Spurs to move back into third place, one point ahead of Seattle Totems.

Saturday night, the Spurs spanked Seattle Totems 9-3 while Portland tripped San Diego 6-1.

Farmers in Final Against Red Lion

Farmer Construction, last-place finisher in the Victoria Senior Men's Basketball League, gained the playoff final with Red Lion Inn in double-loss, elimination competition Saturday and Sunday at the University of Victoria.

Red Lion is unbeaten and holds an edge going into the final Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Mt. Douglas High School gymnasium. If Lions lose, a second game between the two teams will take place at 9.

League champions Labatts handed Farmers their only loss on Saturday (64-52) while Red Lion advanced with an 84-67 defeat of Colony Inn.

OVERTIME VICTORIY

In the first game Sunday, Farmers sidelined Colony with a 74-71 overtime defeat. Pete Simmonds led Farmers with 26 points while Fred Gubbels added 15 and Dennis Horn 14. Jim Cunningham sparked a desperate bid by Colony with 23 points.

Labs suffered their first loss, 64-60, to Red Lion despite Darrell Lorimer's 25-point contribution. Terry Shenton added 17 points to the Lab total.

Red Lion, leading 34-25 at the half, was paced by a 24-point effort from Morris Douglas. John McKeachie, outstanding on offence and defence, added 14 points for Lions.

Gubbels engineered the elimination of Labs, scoring in the final 10 seconds to give Farmers 43-42 win in the last game Sunday. Simmonds topped Farmers with 12 points and Lorimer fired 11 for Labs.

LACROSSE MEETING

A meeting for all Greater Victoria Lacrosse Association executives will be held Tuesday at the Ingraham Hotel, starting at 8 p.m.

SEVEN WORDS HIT MEXICAN SOCCER PLANS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A committee organized to put on the 1970 World Soccer Championships for the Jules Rimet Cup has no rights to seven crucial words.

The words are Jules Rimet Cup and 1970 World Soccer Championship.

The rights belong to Juan Bautista Peimbert, a Mexican businessman, who on Sept. 13, 1966, registered them as his own for use on clay, ceramic and porcelain items, as well as for all purposes of publicity.

The committee is so stymied that it can't even use the words on its letterheads.

Vikings Blank Western Side

BELLINGHAM, Wash. — University of Victoria's first and second string rugby squads blanked University of Western Washington opponents Saturday to continue to dominate the Northwest Intercollegiate Rugby Conference.

Vikings, heading the conference with a 4-0 record, tagged their first-division hosts with a 12-0 loss on trys by Dave Slater, Paul Carnes and Reg Hoole plus a penalty goal by Al Foster.

Norsemen shut out the opposition 11-0 with a try, penalty goal and convert coming from Ted Hardy while Chris Bennett added another try.

SKATING DECISIONS UNPOPULAR . . . . . . BUT CANADIANS APPRECIATED

Judges' Opinions, Not Crowd's, Matter

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Canadian skaters headed home from the world figure skating championships today, their pockets empty of medals but their heads held high.

The huge crowds gave the Canadians enthusiastic support on the ice and booed lustily when adverse scores were registered the judges.

Canada's best showing was two sixth-place finishes in the week-long program in which an American won the men's singles, an East German the women's singles, a Russian the pairs and a British couple the dance.

The two sixth-place finishes were the most unpopular with the crowd.

Jay, Humphrey, the Canadian men's champions from Toronto, finished an almost flawless free-skating performance to a standing ovation but the judges dropped him to sixth place—one spot lower than his standing after the figures.

Tim Woods of Detroit won the event, Ondrej Melela of Czechoslovakia was second and Partick Pera of France was third. David McGillivray of Sarnia, Ont., was 10th.

The crowd roared their disapproval again when Linda Carbonetto of Toronto, the Canadian women's champion was placed sixth in the women's singles, won by Gabriele Seyfert of East Germany.

Miss Carbonetto is considered one of the greatest free skaters in the world, but an American judge rated her only a tenth of a point better than Beatrice Schuba of Austria, who finished second in the event. Miss Schuba is rated high in figures but not in free skating.

Zsuzsa Almassy of Hungary finished third in the event.

The British team of Diane Towler and Bernard Ford won the dance competition for the fourth straight time.

Russians Ludmila Pakhomova and Alexhandre Gorshov picked up the silver medal and American champions Judy Schowomeyer and James Sladky finished third.

The North American champions in the dance, Donna Taylor and Bryce Lennie of Toronto, finished in 11th place and another Canadian team, Mary Church of Toronto and Tomas Falls of St. Catharines, was 12th.

It was an all-Russian show for medals in the pairs event. Irina Rodnina and Alexei Ulanov won the gold, Tamara Moskvina and Alexei Mishin the silver and Oleg Protopopov and his wife Judmilla Belousova captured the bronze.

Anna Foster and Rick Stephens of Port Perry, Ont., finished 10th in the pairs.

NEW GROUP BUYS SEALS' FRANCHISE

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League were sold for $4,500,000 Saturday to a group which includes former baseball pitcher Whitey Ford and other sports figures.

Trans National Communications, headed by former CBS producer William Creasy, will control 75 per cent of the stock. The remainder will go to Seymour Knox III and his brother, Northrup, Woolworth heirs from Buffalo, N.Y.

Among stockholders in Trans National, a New York-based firm specializing in televised sports, are Ford, former New York Yankee ace, and former New York Giant football stars Pat Summerall and Dick Lynch.

The Seals were purchased from Barry Van Gerbig, controversial sportsman, and nearly 50 others. Plagued by poor attendance, they had attempted to move the team elsewhere.

Although Trans National will be majority stockholder, the Knox brothers led the move to buy out the Van Gerbig interests and are reported to have supplied Van Gerbig with operating capital the last three months.

Selects Checked By Improving Nats

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Jackie McLeod credited improved checking for Canada's 3-1 hockey victory over Moscow Selects before 4,700 fans Sunday.

But Canada needed a good performance from goaltender Wayne Stephenson to take their second successive game from the Selects, rated the Soviet second-string team, and even their record with the Russian club at 2-2.

The Canadians had lost 11 straight to Russian teams, including nine in succession to the Soviet first-string team earlier this year, before taking a 3-2 decision in Calagry last Friday.

Said McLeod after the win: "I would have to credit the boys' improved checking for our last two wins."

Terry Caffery, with a goal and assist, Fran Huck and Steve King were the marksmen for the Nationals, outshot 32-24.

Sergei Shalimov got Moscow's only goals with 29 seconds remaining in the game when he knocked a shot off Caffery's leg past Stephenson.

The Canadian netminder, hit in the nose with a stick during a goalmouth collision at 5:30 of the third period, made outstanding saves in the final minutes after taking a five-minute rest.

Al Lane Tops Cycle Scramble

Al Lane finished first Sunday in the opening race of the year for the Victoria Motorcycle Club—a novice scramble at the club's Goldstream grounds.

Ian Batey finished second and clubmate Turk Perepalkin was third.

The club's first major race of the season—a cross-country scramble—will be staged next Sunday at 1 p.m.

Hot Strikers Pace O'Keefes In 7-1 Romp

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Bert Soutar and Ike MacKay were in ripping form, and that was all Victoria O'Keefes needed Saturday to revive their sagging Pacific Coast Soccer League playoff hopes.

With Soutar and MacKay showing them how, O'Keefes unleashed their most devastating attack of the season to humble youthful Burnaby Villa 7-1 at Macdonald Park.

Victoria's cause was helped and hindered in two other matches played Saturday in Vancouver. UBC Thunderbirds helped by blanking New Westminister Labatts 2-0. Less beneficial was North Shore's 3-2 victory over Eintracht.

The victory enabled North Shore to remain one point ahead of sixth-place Victoria. Both, however, gained on the fourth-place Westminster team.

In the only other game played at the weekend, Grieg Arnett's goal in the 18th minute carried Vancouver Firefighters to a 1-0 decision over Croatia on Sunday.

At Macdonald Park, Soutar and MacKay—Victoria's "strikers" on the front line—made it a two-man show. They tore Burnaby's defence to shreds.

MacKay scored four goals and was responsible for a fifth when teammate Dick Joyce was Johnny-on-the-spot to tap in Ike's rebound. It was the first four-goal effort by a Victoria player since the team rejoined the Coast circuit 11 years ago.

IKE MACKAY
. . . four goals

Soutar Was Leader on Front Line

MacKay, who had been bothered by a bronchial condition in recent weeks, raised his season's output to 11 to become the league's individual scoring leader.

Soutar tapped in Victoria's and the game's first goal from a goalmouth scramble, and set up MacKay for three of his four scoring shots.

Soutar, in fact, was the key to Victoria's impressive attack. Joining MacKay as Victoria's twin centre forwards, Soutar's moves and passes completely disrupted Burnaby's defences.

Bruce Twamley, another strong performer, scored the other O'Keefe goal with a great shot late in the game.

Ken Phillips counted Burnaby's only goal moments after MacKay had provided Victoria with a 2-0 lead in the first half. It was 2-1 at the half, and O'Keefes made it a rout with their five counters in the second half.

Twamley's shot and two headers taken by MacKay were the goals most of the 438 fans regarded as a delight. But Victoria coach Bill Abbott appreciated the easy "tap-ins" by Soutar and Joyce.

"You can call them 'garbage' goals," suggested Abbott, "but it was the first time this season we scored some easy ones. You have to get those kind . . ."

O'Keefes, who play North Shore in a crucial match here next weekend, actually were unfortunate in not reaching double figures. They looked that good. MacKay came close on three other second-half chances, and Soutar missed another pair.

At Vancouver, Barry Sadler's 12th shutout and goals by Gary Thompson and Jim Briggs enabled UBC to blank Westminster. Two goals by Larry Louis and one by playing-coach Roy Nosella, his ninth of the year, carried the Shores past Eintracht.

Zone Pin Titles Elude Victoria Fivepinners

VANCOUVER — Representatives from Victoria failed to collect any of the silverware following the Youth Bowling Council British Columbia zone finals Saturday at Chapman's Fivepin Lanes.

Karen Roberts, competing in the junior girls' singles, came closest—94 points behind the winning total rolled by Carole Harrop of North Vancouver.

Clem Mann Jr. placed third in the bantam boys' singles event with a 583 series. Salmon Arm's Gordie Buresh won with 676 while Tim Thompson of Cranbrook finished second with 586.

Dana Chanasyk and Chris France of Vernon won the junior boys' and senior girls' awards. Maureen Scheider of Osoyoos captured the bantam girls' crown and Bob Rogers of Burnaby was tops in the senior boys' division.

Port Coquitlam placed first in team events for bantam boys and senior girls.

Other team titles were won by Burnaby (senior boys and junior girls), Salmon Arm (junior boys) and Vancouver (senior boys and junior girls).

The Victoria senior boys' team from Town and Country Lanes placed second with 3,227, 38 points behind Vancouver.

Winners advance to the national finals at Hamilton, April 6 to 8.

Shawnigan Hit With First Loss

Brentwood College gave Shawnigan Lake Boys' School its first defeat of the season Saturday, 13-11, to win the mid-Island senior rugby championship.

Brentwood won the two-game, total-point series 28-27.

Campbell River now provides the opposition for Brentwood on March 9 in a sudden-death match for the right to meet the Howard Russell Cup winner from Victoria for the Vancouver Island championship.

Jarvis Claims Pair of Titles

Tom Jarvis emerged as the only double winner in the Greater Victoria table tennis championships which wound up Saturday at Willows elementary school.

Jarvis captured the junior event for players aged 16 to 18 years by downing Phil Hoen. He then joined Pamela Craig to win the mixed doubles title, defeating Nancy Craig and Brian Hobbs.

Jarvis lost out on a bid for a triple win by bowing to Kam-Chen Kong in the men's open singles final.

Other winners were: Nancy Craig, women's singles; Sharon Summers, juvenile girls' singles; Rick Craig, juvenile boys' singles; Bon Lee, junior boys (13-15 years) singles; and George Clark, senior open.

NANAIMO LEADS WAY . . . TO ISLAND FINALS

North's Four Named

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Hubsters, Courtenay Towhees, Chemainus Timbermen and Lake Cowichan's Lakers picked up their passes Saturday to the Vancouver Island senior high school boys' basketball tournament.

They topped the north zone championships here to move into the Island tournament at the University of Victoria gym next Friday and Saturday.

Oak Bay, Victoria Totems, Esquimalt Dockers and Mt. Douglas Rams are the lower Island's representatives in the eight-team tournament.

Nanaimo swung down an undefeated path to emerge as the north's top-seeded team. The Hubsters, who dominated all-star selections here by placing Al Thompson, Rick Kozanowski and Mark Pratt on the first team, clinched north zone honors by clipping Courtenay 65-53.

Nanaimo had beaten Duncan 79-41 and Chemainus 71-49 in earlier games.

The Towhees reached the final by clipping Lake Cowichan 84-42 and Port Alberni 47-33.

Chemainus, which had beaten Campbell River 47-42 in its first game, earned third place with a thrilling 46-45 victory over Alberni. A spectacular basket by Rod Francouer with 11 seconds remaining won the game for Timbermen. Francouer, who finished with 21 points, also was an all-star choice along with Courtenay's Fred Witzel.

Lake Cowichan produced the big surprise by picking off the fourth spot. Lakers rebounded from their first-game loss to Courtenay to defeat Ladysmith 62-43 and Campbell River 58-53.

Wayne Booker and Randy Robinson of Courtenay, Nanaimo's Ed Robertson, Abtrar Dillon of Lake Cowichan and Hugh Galvin of Chemainus were second all-star choices.

'BEST FOR ALL CONCERNED'

GREAT SLUGGER RETIRES

Mantle Reaches Sad Decision

MICKEY MANTLE
. . . a dark moment

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, at a loss for words, announced his retirement from baseball Saturday.

Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees, introduced Mantle to reporters, saying the veteran star had "reached a firm conclusion, and I think it's best that he tell it to you himself."

Then Mantle stepped to the rostrum.

"I'm not going to play baseball any more; that's all I know," he said slowly. "I can't play any more. I don't hit the ball when I need to. I can't steal when I need to, I can't score from second when I need to."

Mantle said he had talked his situation over with Ralph Houk, manager of the American League team, Friday night and Burke Saturday morning.

"We decided this would be best for me and for the club," said Mantle, who for most of his 18-year career was one of the most feared sluggers in baseball.

Mantle said his outside business interests, which include a chain of country kitchens and clothing stores, also helped him reach a decision.

Mantle said he had no current plans to remain with the Yankee organization. "But Mike told me if I ever wanted a job, it was available."

Mantle said he was disappointed that he was not a lifetime .300 hitter. He finished at .298.

Then he added:

"I never wanted to embarrass myself on the field or hurt the club in any way or give the fans anything less than they are entitled to expect from me. I'm not sure I can play well enough to satisfy myself.

"Last fall I still thought that I might play another year if I felt well enough in spring training. As the months passed I felt more sure in my own mind that now was the time to end my career as a ballplayer."

Burke said Mantle's future with the Yankee organization "would depend solely on how much time he has to give. Right now we have left it that he will have a relationship with us and we will have a relationship with him."

LOOKING LIKE PIRATE but not in swashbuckling mood this morning at Oshawa, Ont., was Dave Gerlach, member of Alberta rink. Gerlach may be sidelined from Canadian men's curling final because of freak accident. He turned his head and his left eye was burned by cigarette held by man beside him. Eleven rinks started today in round-robin competition for national title.

Caps Edge Nixons In Coast Playoff

Both at home and away, three Victoria-area minor hockey squads tasted defeat in two-game, total-goal championship series at the weekend.

In Memorial Arena, Vancouver Capilano won the Pacific Cost juvenile championship 6-5 by downing Victoria Nixons 4-3 on Sunday. The squads fought to a 2-2 draw Saturday.

Richard Longpre scored three goals to lead Caps while Dale McLauchlan scored twice and Bill Wheeler once for Nixons.

Powell River captured the Vancouver Island bantam title at home by downing Saanich Braves with a 6-4 total by scoring 3-2 victories on Saturday and Sunday.

LOSE AT CHILLIWACK

Chilliwack handed visiting Saanich Braves a 9-2 defeat Sunday to follow a 7-2 rout Saturday and collect the B.C. midget title.

In other playoffs, Victoria-area teams fared better.

Victoria Morrison Motors opened the two-game, total-goal series for the Island midget championship Saturday with an 8-5 win at Nanaimo.

Lawrie Huck and Ron Poole each counted two goals while Jim Wilkinson, Brent Leclair, Ray Marshall and Andy Reid added singles for Victoria. Darrel Hickson notched three goals for Nanaimo. Final game is slated for Memorial Arena next Sunday at 10 a.m.

Esquimalt harvested the Island juvenile playoff crown with a 9-1 series win over Nanaimo after defeating their hosts 5-0 Sunday in the final game. Goalie Jim Parry recorded the shoutout and Tom Aitken scored twice to lead the Esquimalt team.

Victoria Evening Optimists topped Esquimalt 9-6 after a 4-3 win Sunday at Esquimalt to win a berth in the city peewee final. Victoria faces the winner of the Saanich-Racquet Club duel, which starts Wednesday at 6 p.m. in George R. Pearkes Arena.

ROFFEY CUP VICTORY

Dulcie Dillabough won a women's two-round eclectic contest for the Roffey Cup at Victoria Golf Club. Betty Fiddess was runner-up.

Scottish goals were provided by John Hughes and John Brazier while Jim Schulz counted twice for the Wests. Ranjit Dillon scored the other West goal with Jack Donaldson answering for Red Lion. Bill Walker connected for the Gorge shutout.

In second division "A" action, Watson's Hotspurs gained on leading Cosmo Royals by handing them a 4-1 defeat at Beacon Hill Park. Ross Swanton paced the victory with two goals while singles were added by Eric Venn and Wes McKay. Rudi Kuebler averted a blanking for Royals.

Hubettes Grab Island Honors

Nanaimo Hubettes swept away the Vancouver Island high school girls' basketball championship as well as most of the individual honors after defeating Claremont 50-38 Saturday in the final of the two-day tournament at Lansdowne Junior High School.

Laurie Sawden, who received the most-valuable-player award, paced Nanaimo's final victory with 24 points.

Other all-star selections were Carla Van Schaik of Oak Bay, Sue Holland of Victoria, Eloise Dunbar and Lynne Stephens, both of Nanaimo, and Lorraine Benn of Clarement.

Most of the tension of the final day, though, centred not on the championship match but on the battle for third place and the final Island berth in the B.C. tournament in Vancouver March 12-16.

DOWN TO WIRE

Jo Anne Van Schaik scored with 30 seconds remaining to provide Oak Bay, with a 31-29 edge over Victoria, wrecking a brilliant, late comeback by the losing Tigers.

Carla Van Schaik pumped in 14 points to help power Bayonettes 29-15 lead going into the final eight minutes. Miss Holland answered in kind, collecting 10 of her 18 points within the next 7½ minutes to deadlock the game.

Mt. Douglas collected consolation honors by downing Courtenay 35-25 while Powell River earned its first win with a 47-21 thumping of Lake Cowichan in after final games.

In second-round games, Nanaimo beat Oak Bay 27-24, Clarmenont defeated Victoria 37-27, Courtenay laced Lake Cowichan 55-20 and Mt. Douglas edged Powell River 40-37.

Increase Your Memory Power?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address, and zip code to: Memory, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-213, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

School Band Concert Wins Public Acclaim

By BERYL PROUDMAN

By some alchemy, Mr. Emile Michaux, with three of his bands, filled every seat in the McPherson Playhouse on Sunday afternoon, so that several ticket-holders after wandering up and down aisles, were reduced to standing at the back of the parent-packed theatre.

The festival of bands showed clearly the development from the simple pieces tackled so conscientiously by the large Gordon Head Elementary School group, through the intermediate Gordon Head Junior Secondary School Band to the high level of achievement of the Mount Douglas High School Band.

Of the several pieces played by the Gordon Head Elementary School Band, "Sidewalks of New York" and "Daisey-Bell" proved so popular that they had to be repeated to give the assembled parents a chance to join them in song. This part of the program ended with the amusing novelty number, "Klazy Clock."

The Gordon Head Junior Secondary then took over and played several numbers obviously more difficult than those attempted by the younger players.

Of these, the overture "Island Royale" was unusually interesting. Starting out on a pleasantly modern pastoral note the piece soon became engulfed in the dark drama of badlands or stormy weather from which a purifying rush of wind released it and returned it to the original placid setting.

"Clarinet Polka" became an ambitions project when tackled by a band with so large a clarinet section that unison without squeaks would have verged on the miraculous.

The "Marching Bugle Boy" depended for its sure success on a well-matched featured trumpet section.

The Gordon Head Junior Choir which opened the second half of the program managed the straight forward, piano-accompanied songs best. "To Music" and "Come and Go" were those in which they sounded most secure and much of their success depended on Wendy Stofer at the piano.

SONGS TOO AMBITIOUS

The songs chosen were well contrasted and interesting in themselves but several were beyond the present scope of th choir for public performance. A gallant band of altos and one bass, strove to maintain lower parts though this sometimes affected the intonation disastrously, and the sopranos, all except one clear-voiced singer, seemed shy of hitting the high notes.

The Mount Douglas High School Band is the sort of well-trained co-ordinated unit that one could stay and listen to for hours, but not at the end of an already overlong program.

Of particular interest to those who remember the era of "The Big Band" in dance bands were the selections played on the newly-formed "Stage-band" in which brass and percussion predominate and the music is of popular appeal.

"Love in Blue" played with a very professional ain was full of rich, nostalgic sounds and "Lazy Sunday," with its dependence on a juicy saxophone tone marked a welcome development in a school band program.

Chess Master Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet chess grand master Alexander Tolush died in Leningrad today, Tass reported. He was 58. Tolush, a journalist, was a member of Soviet teams in a number of international matches and the European championships, and was a finalist in the Soviet championships.

CRABS CAN CHANGE SEX

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A biologist says sand crabs possess glands that can change a male into a female.

Dr. Adrian Wenner, associate professor of biology at the University of California at Santa Barbara, lowered 85 males into an escape-proof container into the Pacific.

When he pulled them up about 1½ months later, he disclosed Saturday, 16 had become females.

Bobbed Hair Protests 'Subhuman Treatment'

TORONTO (CP) — Susan Oliver, leading lady on the set of Change of Mind, a Toronto-based Hollywood movie, has protested "subhuman treatment" she and the crew on the set have received and cut about three inches off her hair.

She said Sunday in an interview that "the way the work is conducted on this film is subhuman."

Producer Henry White said of the hair-cutting: "I have no reaction to what she's done because I don't understand what she's trying to do."

"I'm not worried about continuity in the film," he said.

"There's always wigs. . . .

"But I'm certainly going to meet with the director Robert Stevens, discuss it with him, and see what will be done," he said.

"When there's no trailer dressing rooms and one toilet for 50 people, I decided to take a lesson from Black Power and try a little Blonde Power. So I cut my hair just as short as Mia Farrow did."

Change of Mind is partly filmed in the council chambers of Etobicoke, a Toronto borough.

Uvic Announces Plans For Married Quarters

Plans were announced Friday by the University of Victoria for on-campus housing for married students.

A 20-acre site at the northeast corner of the campus has been set aside for development. The first phase will involve building 60 units on one section of the property.

Floyd Fairclough, university development manager, said the project is scheduled for completion this fall.

The university will look for the best qualified combination of architect and contractor for the construction.

The accommodation is expected to cost between $500,000 and $650,000 and is subject to financing by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a federal agency.

5,000 STUDENTS

Fairclough said when Lansdowne College opens this fall, the university will be offering only 600 places in residence to a student enrolment of more than 5,000.

"New arrangements will relieve some of the pressure on surrounding municipalities which has become almost intolerable over the past two years," he said.

The announcement was greeted by Norman Wright, student union president.

"They're living in basement suites and cramped apartments — some accommodation is really bad," he said.

"The situation will get worse because the older houses are being torn down to make way for fancy apartments which won't take children and are too expensive for students."

Citizenship Group Names New Officers

Mrs. A. B. Carson was re-elected president of the Greater Victoria Citizenship Council at its annual meeting last week.

F. J. Martens was elected first vice-president; D. R. MacDonald second vice-president; Mrs. A. H. Plows, secretary; Mrs. H. Ketchell, treasurer; Mrs. S. Rose, social convener.

Guest speaker was Mrs. D. E. Strong, president of Vancouver Citizenship Council, who gave a comprehensive account of the activities of her group.

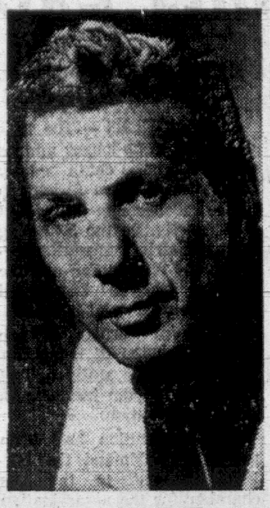
Greater Victoria Council welcomes new Canadians when they are sworn in at citizenship ceremonies in Victoria Law Courts and gives a coffee party after each ceremony.

Feminine Qualities Key To Good Acting, Says Hutt

TORONTO (CP) — To the versatile actor William Hutt, the key to good acting is finding the feminine quality of a character.

"By feminine, I mean his sensitiviey—it's a human thing, isn't it?" he said in a recent interview.

"It used to be decidedly unmasculine for a man to cry in a film. But men do cry. I was shocked when I first saw a man cry on stage, but then I thought 'how courageous'."



HUTT

. . . cry bravely

The 48-year-old Hutt is critical of subtleties some actors will impose on a certain performance.

"It is the moment that is important. The play is a happening and the actors have to approach each moment as an entity in itself.

"All kinds of Freudian analysis will hinder it . . ."

Hutt said that the long-run system of New York theatre, where big money is often put behind even the smallest of plays, is not possible for Toronto.

MONEY IS NEED

"What is possible in Toronto is a repertory or stock system with runs of two or three weeks. There is no reason why a city this size shouldn't support a healthy repertory theatre."

He said that Tiny Alice, by Edward Albee, in which he performed with Irene Worth and Sir John Gielgud in New York, cost $125,000.

"Here they expect to produce seven plays with $100,000," he said. "It's like asking the Toronto Maple Leafs to play with dull skates and old pucks on an outdoor rink.

"If the theatre is going to thrive, people should say so—with money. Otherwise, there is no reason for an actor to stay in Canada."

Hutt has played the lead role in Moliere's Tartuffe at Stratford's Shakespearean Festival. Last year he directed the festival's production of Waiting for Godot by Samuel Beckett.

At the same time, he managed to shuttle to New York, where he played the Earl of Warwick in St. Joan at the Lincoln Centre, and Budapest, Hungary, where he portrayed Czar Nicholas II in the movie The Fixer, based on the Bernard Malamud novel.

But he said he does not like leaving Canada, where he maintains a year-round apartment at Stratford.

". . . . I've never left Canada without an invitation. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer called and said that director John Frankenheimer wanted me for the Russian czar. And they called me from New York for Tiny Alice."

UNCOVERED TRUTH

Ancient pottery uncovered by Ecuadorean archeologists suggests that Japanese fishermen reached South America about 5,000 years ago.

Volunteers To Recruit More Help

A spokesman for the Greater Victoria Volunteer Bureau says his agency is looking for more volunteers.

He said demands made upon the bureau now exceed the bureau's resources and more volunteers are needed to perform the following duties:

- ● Women drivers are needed to sell meal tickets to shut ins who have requested the service from the forthcoming "Meals on Wheels" program.
- ● Volunteer occupational therapists need assistance with the Mobility Program for the aged in the Colwood and city area. This program includes card games, bingo, singing, birthday parties, movies, handicrafts and table games.
- ● Regular drivers are needed in the Esquimalt area to take senior citizens to recreation centres one day each week.
- ● Drivers needed to take blind and handicapped people to recreation centres one day each week.
- ● Men and women, interested in an adult guidance program involving social and cultural activities for young people. This includes group discussions, handicrafts, sports and dances throughout the Greater Victoria area.
- ● Special school on Elford Street needs ladies to assist on Tuesdays or Thursdays with occupational and workshop classes.
- ● Regular drivers in Swan Lake area needed to drive senior citizens to recreation centres, morning or afternoon, one day a week.

Volunteers are asked to call the Volunteer Bureau, 1951 Cook St., at 388-9212.

Now It's Only Sirhan Who Wants Execution

By GEORGE LARDNER Jr.
The Washington Post

LOS ANGELES — The state of California no longer intends to press for the death penalty for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

The decision is based, at least partly, on the swapping of psychiatric information between the prosecution and the defence at the 24-year-old Arab's murder trial here.

It leaves Sirhan in the bizarre position of being the only one in the stuffy hall of justice courtroom insisting on his own execution.

The prosecution had been planning to demand that Sirhan be sent to the gas chamber for the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, but to do this now, acknowledges chief deputy district attorney Lynn D. Compton, would be "somewhat awkward."

"We won't press it," Compton told a reporter. "We'll just go to the jury and give them the facts."

KING-SIZED EGO

A slight man with a king-sized ego, Sirhan served notice Friday that he would rather go to the gas chamber than suffer his lawyers' plans to strip him in public and lay bare his innermost secrets and frustrations.

But the attorneys, Grant B. Cooper, Emile Zola Berman and Russell Parsons, now representing Sirhan by court order, appeared just as determined to bring out what they call "the real Sirhan" for the world to see.

They were not noticeably surprised or upset when Sirhan tried to fire them and plead guilty with the defiant declaration that he killed Kennedy "with 20 years of malice aforethought."

Quipped Cooper at one point to the courtroom at large: "Now do you see what I mean when I say I don't know what order we're going to call our witnesses in."

TOLD TO SHUT UP

Sirhan's lawyers are interested in saving his life. Sirhan is, quite plainly, more interested in preserving his pride. His counsellors are proceeding to pick it apart piece by piece. Pride is not compatible with the defence strategy of establishing Sirhan as a sick, pitiful psychotic.

In the process, the defence team seems at times to be deliberately rubbing their client raw. At one point this week, chief defence investigator Michael McCowan snatched a cigarette out of the defendant's mouth although smoking is permitted in the courtroom when judge and jury are absent.

At another point, Berman loudly sold Sirhan to shut up when he began jabbering with Parsons.

Prosecutor Compton did not say whether the state might join the defence in openly urging life imprisonment should Sirhan's jurors find him guilty of first degree murder.

FIRM IN CONVICTION

But District Attorney Evelle J. Younger and his aides were ready to do just that last month in the abortive bargaining over Sirhan's "copping a plea."

The prosecutors were, and still are, firm in their conviction that the moody, unpredictable immigrant's killing of Kennedy was willful, premeditated, deliberate murder. They evidently agreed, and perhaps still do, that there might be enough wrong with Sirhan to make the death penalty inappropriate:

As a result, Sirhan's lawyers agreed on a guilty-to-first-degree-murder plea and the prosecution agreed to settle for life imprisonment until superior court judge Herbert V. Walker vetoed the arrangement.

"It was, pure and simple, a compromise," says Cooper. "It was based on the information they had from their psychiatrists and our psychiatrists."

The medical experts met Feb. 2 in Cooper's law offices, led by Dr. Seymour Pollock for the prosecution and Dr. Bernard L. Diamond for the defence. Both had tape recorders and, Cooper has said, the unusual session constituted "about as full a disclosure, I think, as anyone could have."

UP TO JURY

On Feb. 10, Younger and his assistants joined in urging life imprisonment before Judge Walker.

Judge Walker rejected the proposal, insisting that the jurors should fix the penalty.

With the jury, as Sirhan's attorneys acknowledge, anything can happen. "I've seen cases," says Cooper, "where judges have advised juries to acquit and they convict."

Sirhan, in short, may lose his pride and still wind up in the gas chamber. There is no telling what he might do or say in the weeks ahead, especially if called as a witness.

FOLLOWING in his father's footsteps, Barry Goldwater Jr. announced in Los Angeles Friday his candidature for Congress. He seeks to be the GOP nominee for the seat vacated by Ed. Reinecke, who was recently appointed California lieutenant-governor. Goldwater's father is the U.S. junior senator from Arizona and was the Republican candidate for president in 1964. Arson Charged In $1.7 Million Seattle Fire

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle fire chief Gordon Vickery said Sunday arson was responsible for a Saturday night blaze that destroyed two businesses and did an estimated $1,700,000 in damage.

"This is undoubtedly the largest arson fire in the history of Seattle," he said.

The chief said fire marshall Steve McPherson discovered five spots where fires had been deliberately set in the two-storey building housing the M. McPherson Furnace and Equipment Co. and Pacific Trail Sportswear Co. The building was gutted by the spectacular blaze.

Vickery said firemen are trying to determine what type of inflammable material was used to start the huge blaze near the Seattle centre.

The blaze threatened about five smaller businesses across a narrow alley but firefighters managed to keep flames from igniting the buildings.

The fire was controlled in 90 minutes after 190 firemen had battled the stubborn blaze that sent flames 100 feet into the air and billowed thick smoke over the Seattle centre and much of the city's Queen Anne residential area.

All available firemen were called to the scene. Two firemen suffered minor injuries.

Java Army Denies Massacre

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Central Java's military commander, Maj.-Gen. Surono, today denied a report that army troops massacred 860 suspected Communists in central Java—but he said some persons were killed while trying to escape or resisting arrest.

The general said other Communist suspects committed suicide with their weapons, but he gave no figures for the number of dead.

The general reported that 860 people were arrested after security operations in December. Many were still in detention camps.

The report was contained in an interview published by Antara news agency today following accusations by the Indonesian Human Rights Association that troops massacred suspects by beating them with iron bars.

W LIBRARY, LAW SOCIETY B.C. VICTORIA

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Report of the
BRITISH COLUMBIA
EXPROPRIATION
1961-63

THE HONOURABLE J. V. CLYNE
Commissioner

Gathering dust . . .

By JIM HUME

When the expropriation battle of the Rose-Blanshard hit the headlines a month ago many Victorians divided into two camps.

There were those who came out solidly for law and order—even though a little critical about what appeared to be heavy-handed civic officials.

There were those who came out staunchly in favor of the besieged home-owner and actively urged him to stand fast and fight for what was rightfully his.

This weekend the city gained possession of that humble home on Blanshard Street.

During the next few weeks or months at least three other similar battles will be fought between city officials and property owners dissatisfied with settlement terms offered by the local government.

What rights do those people have as they prepare to engage the juggernaut of government? Could the city possibly find an easier way to take possession of property it requires for urban renewal? What protection does the law offer the little man and what restraints does it put on the city?

During the past few days the Times sought answers to those questions and came up with the startling answer that the property owner, in British Columbia, has virtually no rights.

Federal, provincial and municipal governments, school boards and two dozen other arms of government can expropriate any property they wish without so much as a by-your-leave.

As one lawyer puts it: "You can never really own property. The ultimate title is vested in the Queen and she or her duly authorized agents can repossess that property at any time they wish on payment of adequate compensation."

Temporary Ownership Only

In other words, title to property gives the individual temporary ownership only, ownership which can be cancelled out any time the government decides the good of the people comes before the good of the individual family.

In Canada the federal government wields the biggest stick. It can expropriate provincial, municipal or privately owned property.

Last May that federal power touched off screams of anguish from the provincial government when the then Northern Developments Minister Arthur Laing announced that Ottawa was planning to expropriate from the province land which B.C. had already expropriated for the development of Roberts Bank.

Similar screams are heard when the province announces the expropriation of municipal lands or when the municipality announces the expropriation of individually-owned property.

To the average property owner it all sounds like the old jingle: "Big fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bit 'em—and little fleas have lesser fleas, and so on ad infinitum."

In Canada each province has its own expropriation laws, some recently up-dated to keep in step with the times; others, like the expropriation laws of British Columbia, still retaining as its central expropriation statute the Land Clauses Act based on an English act dated 1845.

The British tossed that act on the garbae pile many years ago.

B.C. Advised to Follow

Four and a half years ago former Supreme Court Justice J. V. Clyne, after three years of study, advised the government of B.C. to do the same.

The Clyne Report on Expropriation still gathers dust in the legislative files, not one of its recommendations ever implemented.

In Ontario a new expropriation law was introduced last year. Unique in Canada, it broke all previous traditions by, for the first time in this country, offering home owners displaced by expropriation enough money for an equivalent home plus moving expenses.

The Ontario law raised eyebrows across the country but, to date, no other province has followed the Ontario precedent.

In British Columbia the law, by which all municipalities are bound, offers nothing but "a home for a home" with "a fair market value being paid having regard for the values of the area."

On paper the legislation sounds fine. In practice, as Clyne stated very clearly in his voluminous report, it is far from fair.

"In the public interest and to achieve uniformity and elimination of injustices, I have come to the conclusion that it is desirable, subject to possible minor exceptions, to repeal all existing expropriation legislation in British Columbia," the royal commissioner stated four years ago.

Changes Still Awaited

Shortly after reading that statement then attorney-general Robert Bonner said he expected changes in existing laws "in the near future."

They never came.

Where does the injustice come under present expropriation laws?

Under the ambiguous heading of "fair market value having regard to the values in the area."

Of that clause Clyne said the concept of "value to the owner" as the measure of compensation has resulted in "many inappropriate and unjust awards."

A few months ago the Canadian Appraisal Institute and a group of lawyers presented a brief to the Manitoba provincial cabinet stating that expropriation compensation should include accurate assessment of damages, costs of relocation, legal fees "and mental anguish."

British Columbia law, in fact the law of most provinces, makes no provision for compensation for "mental anguish." And municipalities, bound by the Municipal Act, can make no provision, either.

And that, in turn, means that, bound by a law originally written in 1845, the municipality bears the brunt of public scorn when expropriation of property is deemed expedient for the good of the community as a whole—but to the detriment of the individual.

The new Ontario expropriation law may still leave much to be desired, but it has jumped so far ahead of other provinces as to sound almost revolutionary.

The main recommendations of that law are:

● All expropriations be approved by an elected official or body.

● All compensation to be determined by a land compensation board to be appointed by the cabinet.

(On those two points B.C. could claim to be fairly close to Ontario.)

● Property owners be given the opportunity to have a public inquiry into the necessity for expropriations.

And most startling of all:

● That persons facing expropriation be awarded legal costs and damages above and beyond the open market value of their property.

In other words the Ontario government has decided that the person losing his home to the Queen or her authorized agents should be paid compensation adequate to permit him to relocate in an equivalent home.

That provision does not exist in B.C. and Tuesday the Times will examine what happens when the homeowner gets only basic market value "having regard to the values of the area."

Osland Associate Returns to Help In Investigation

A business associate of murder victim William Osland returned from San Francisco on the weekend to assist in investigation of the case, police said Sunday.

Chief John Gregory of Victoria said in a press conference that Egon Kuhn, 33, of 3929 Woodhaven Terrace, was one of five persons interviewed aboard Ss. Tarantino last week in San Francisco.

Kuhn is project manager aboard the ship which was berthed here until early February while undergoing refit to become a restaurant and aquarium, the chief said.

The vessel had been towed to San Francisco. The body of city businessman Osland was found lashed to a heavy piece of scrap metal in 23 feet of water last Tuesday, near where the ship had been lying.

Osland had a financial interest in the ship and was thought to have been going aboard at the time he disappeared Feb. 3.

CAME ON OWN

In response to questions, Gregory said Kuhn returned Saturday "to give assistance voluntarily." He returned on a separate plane from two Victoria and Saanich police officers who had been in San Francisco investigating the case.

Kuhn, contacted by the Times this morning, said, "I mainly came back to attend the funeral." He said there was no specific area of assistance he could offer police.

In the Sunday meeting with reporters, Gregory said he had nothing startling to report "in the further investigations into the murder of William Osland."

He said the two local officers who travelled to San Francisco had been met by officers of the San Francisco homicide division.

"They placed their experts at our constant disposal," said the chief.

NEW PAINT

He said an inch-by-inch perusal of the ship had been frustrated, however, by new painting inside the ship.

"Red lead had been sprayed everywhere. It covered the bulkheads and the deck."

The officers had been able to collect various exhibits which they had brought back with them.

"At this stage we can't say what they were."

The press conference, called jointly by Saanich and city police authorities, was attended also by deputy chief Bob Peterson of Saanich.

The two senior officers agreed "no arrests are imminent." But they said they had much material to be checked. And they called on Victoria area residents to search their memories for anything which might throw added light on the murder.

"No information is too small."

Gregory said also, "We have several motives in mind."

He added police are not closing their eyes to the possibility that more than one person was involved in the death of the victim and the immersion of the body in the harbor.

Peterson said it would have been possible for one man to have killed Osland, fasten the weight to the body and place it in the harbor "depending on the position" of the body.

He said police have not yet weighed the heavy marine valve stem which was attached to the plastic-wrapped body. Earlier estimates set the weight at about 150 pounds.

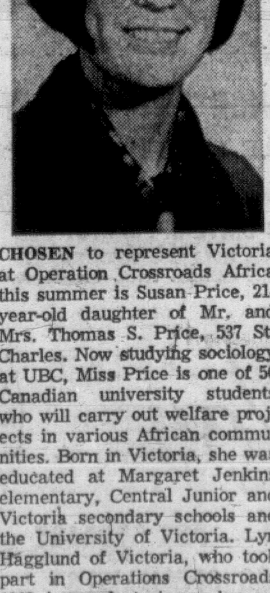
LOTS OF SCRAP

"There was all sorts of scrap metal all over the ship," the deputy chief added.

Gregory, asked whether police could see daylight in the case or whether investigations were running into a dead end, replied:

"I must say this is one of the most complex cases that in my years of experience, I have encountered."

Funeral services for Osland were being held today at McCall Brothers.



CHOSEN to represent Victoria at Operation Crossroads Africa this summer is Susan Price, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Price, 537 St. Charles. Now studying sociology at UBC, Miss Price is one of 50 Canadian university students who will carry out welfare projects in various African communities. Born in Victoria, she was educated at Margaret Jenkins elementary, Central Junior and Victoria secondary schools and the University of Victoria. Lyn Hagglund of Victoria, who took part in Operations Crossroads 1968, is now lecturing on her experiences.

HE'LL NEVER come back, said William Coburn during move on Saturday to temporary city-owned home on Caledonia.

Coburn Family Sad to Leave Doomed Home

Exactly one month after defying a city eviction order with brandished rifles, the Coburn family moved out Saturday.

And the battle of Blanshard Street was ended.

The Coburns said they have been paid the $12,500 which the city had offered, before the fuss began. And they're hopeful an arbitration hearing May 23 may add the additional $5,000 they demanded.

But in keeping with their promise to leave peacefully once a court hearing was arranged, they moved to a temporary city-owned rental home on Caledonia.

'SAD TO LEAVE'

"It makes me sad to leave," said Mrs. Coburn as she watched the moving van being loaded.

"I hate to leave that beautiful umbrella elm and the other trees."

When Amigo, the dog, takes after the cats Cleo and Ramona, they'll have no trees to climb now, she pointed out. And she's going to miss all the yard her eight grandchildren enjoyed so much.

"I don't know if I ever want to own another home," she said.

This one has some bad memories such as on Feb. 1 when assistant city manager William Hooson attempted to force entry and only threats of violence ended the confrontation peacefully.

HOOSON BACK?

"The night of the earthquake, my first thought was to wonder whether Hooson was working nights with bombs now," Mrs. Coburn laughed.

Mrs. Coburn said her husband, who works for city parks department, has suffered no problems on the job because he bucked city hall.

"The union is right behind him. And when he asked for leave of absence, the city said it couldn't spare him."

Bill Coburn, fighting his way to the truck on one end of a gas stove disagreed with his wife about renting. He said they have only three or four months in the new house. Then he'll look for another house to buy.

NEVER COME BACK

Will he consider coming back to Blanshard when the redevelopment is complete, perhaps to rent a new house there?

"No, I'm not coming back here ever."

But Mrs. Coburn interjected, "But maybe they'll come and do the same thing again . . ."

They continued the debate and gradually they had the truck filled up.

Teen-Aged Girl Dies in Crash; Seamen Injured

GIRL MAKING FAST RECOVERY AFTER CAR GOES OVER CLIFF

Ann Dickie, 17, of 1145 Union Road, is now in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital but under intensive care following a spectacular car accident early Saturday.

She suffered a broken back and jaw when the car in which she was a passenger plunged over a 70-foot cliff on Dallas Road.

Police said the car, which was southbound on Cook, jumped a curb and travelled 185 feet across a grassy area before going over the cliff to a beach below.

They Had Their Crust . . . Right in the Face

A group of Sidney "rock hounds" ended up with pie in their faces when they tried to claim the giant civic symbol of White Rock Saturday.

"They threw pies in our faces," Hugh Hollingworth, a Sidney butcher, reported today.

He was one of the bolder boulder claimants who went to the mainland resort town following an exchange of letters between Mayor A. W. Freeman of Sidney and Mayor Harry Douglass of White Rock.

Mayor Freeman said the rock which gives White Rock its name really belongs to Sidney. According to legend the son of an Indian sea god in mythical times threw the rock across the strait in wrath when his father refused to let him marry.

The son and his chosen maid followed the rock and founded the Semiahmoo tribe. Mayor Freeman says it's time the rock was returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingworth, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bowcott, and Len Bland, president of Sidney Kinsmen, attended White Rock's Klondyke Days on the weekend. They were loudly booed and told to get out of town.

Before leaving, the Sidney group measured the big rock. They say it's roughly 18 feet high, 30 feet wide and has a depth of 25 feet.

They figure this is just right for removal by a local marine transport firm.

Some dark night . . ." says Mr. Hollingworth.

$150,000 Widening On Quadra

A $150,000 road widening and improvement project is planned for Quadra Street between Kenneth and Nicholson.

Saanich municipality has announced initiation of a local improvement for the work, which will total $150,000. All but about $20,000 of this will be paid by Saanich and the provincial government.

Four lanes will be built, plus concrete gutters and sidewalks on both sides of the street, an enclosed road drainage system with concrete catchbasins and necessary regrading of Saanich Road.

Annual charge for each foot of taxable foot frontage to be specially charged against owners of land benefitting from or abutting the work is 82 cents with the charges lasting 20 years.

The new work would extend the four lanes, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and drains nearing completion from McKenzie to Kenneth.

Early Day Star At First Base Dies on Mainland

Haley Jackson, 73, former pressman with The Daily Times and one of Victoria's brightest athletic stars of almost 50 years ago, died Sunday night at White Rock.

Considered by many as a major league baseball prospect, the colorful Jackson was an outstanding first baseman and batting champion in league play at the old Rithet Stadium, on the present site of the Crystal Garden.

Jackson continued to play baseball after moving to Vancouver in 1924 and going to work for the Vancouver Province, winning the batting title his first year in the mainland league.

Deer Blamed In Car Crash At Keating

Separate accidents in Central Saanich and Sidney Saturday night sent seven persons to hospital, none seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lott, 8727 Vancross Terrace, Sidney, were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after the car in which they were riding hit a deer, went out of control and met head-on with another car on the Pat Bay Highway near Keating Cross Road. The deer was killed.

Mr. Lott is in good condition today with knee and scalp cuts. His wife has been released from hospital.

Riding in the other vehicle were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walls of West Vancouver. They were discharged from hospital after treatment.

Central Saanich police said they had not been able to determine who was driving the other vehicle.

Both cars were demolished, police added.

SIDNEY COLLISION

Jo Pagnotta, 1028 Princess, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital following a two-car crash near Sidney.

He suffered a severe arm injury when the car in which he was riding was in collision with another at Lochside and the Pat Bay Highway.

Driver of the car, T. G. B. Penston, 20, of 950 Empress, was not injured.

Mrs. Sally Lauder, 867 Sayward, driver of the second car, was discharged from hospital after treatment. Her husband, E. W. Lauder, was not injured.

Both cars were heavily damaged in the crash, Sidney RCMP said.

Both Cars Demolished At View Royal

A 19-year-old girl was killed and two men were injured in a two-car crash on the Old Island Highway early today.

Dead is Verda Lynne Fawns, of 441 Thetis Cres., a clerk in the superannuation branch of the provincial government for the past year.

In fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital is Harry Burns, of CFB Esquimalt. He suffered head injuries and police said he might lose an eye.

Warren Green, 19, of CFB Esquimalt, is in satisfactory condition in Naden hospital with cuts and bruises.

The accident happened just after midnight near Price Road near the spot where two young boys were killed late last year while walking their bicycles along the highway.

CAR DEMOLISHED

Colwood RCMP said Miss Fawns was northbound on the highway in her small English-model car, which was demolished in the crash.

She was in collision head-on, police said, with a car driven southbound by Green. Burns was a passenger in his car, also a write-off.

It was the second fatal accident in the Greater Victoria area this year. A week ago a 26-year-old man, Gerd Otto Pascke, was killed in a motorcycle-truck crash on the Pat Bay Highway.

Miss Fawns was alone in her car.

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre said an autopsy will be held today. At press time he had not decided if an inquest will be called.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William David Fawns, the victim is survived by a brother, David; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fawns, Raymond, Alta.; maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Lamb, Regina.

Remains are at McCall Brothers funeral company, which will announce services later.

The Fawns have lived in the Belmont Park area for about five years.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you put me in touch with anyone in Victoria who collects postmarks, not postal stamps? I have quite a collection and a lot of spares and would like to exchange.—R. B. S.

A. Lester E. Small, 1584 Elm St., is an active member of a Victoria stamp club and is also interested in postmarks. He is currently producing a handbook on them. His phone number is 592-1715.

Further to a list of major automobile manufacturers in Canada, printed in the Feb. 14 edition, the following was omitted: Chrysler of Canada Ltd., Chrysler Centre, Windsor, Ont.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Two High Schools Try Semester System

By DON VIPOND

Oak Bay and Mount View senior secondary schools will adopt a semester system of classes in September.

The change means the school year will be split in half. Instead of studying seven subjects throughout the year students will complete four courses in one semester and three in the other.

There is no difference in the amount of course material studied.

The department of education has agreed to administer exams at the end of the first semester in January so those finishing subjects then will not have to wait until the traditional June exams.

Principals John Wallace at Oak Bay senior and Robert Huddleston at Mount View today listed several advantages in the semester system for students and teachers:

Students concentrate on three or four courses at a time. A seven-day timetable cycle is replaced by a four-day one, meaning daily classes in each subject, less need for class time on reviewing.

If a student fails a course in one semester, he can repeat it in the next and avoid losing a year. It could mean finishing grade 12 in January but both Simon Fraser University and the Institute of Adult Studies are on semester system which could dovetail.

Teachers meet fewer students at a time, get to know them better and can help them more.

Students get to know teachers better, which generally means a better learning situation.

If a student finds he is on the wrong program for him, he need not be stuck with it for a year but can change at the next semester.

The new schedule will mean a daily study or free period during one semester, enabling students to do some indepedent research or in-depth study in a subject of particular interest.

Close to 1,200 students will be involved in the change at Oak Bay senior and about 600 at Mount View.

District superintendent Joseph Chell said today two of Greater Victoria's other senior high schools will have new principals next September and any changes there will have to await their thinking. Principals at Mount Douglas and Esquimalt senior retire in June.

At the fifth, Victoria senior secondary, principal Dunoan Lorimer said today the subject is being considered but there will be no change next September.

Lorimer said he is interested in seeing how a trimester system being tried at Colquitz junior secondary this year is working.

Mosaic Jewelry Made in Venice

By PENNY SAVER

Several years ago one of my relations died leaving a simple will: Let everyone take what they want; sell the rest and divide the money. As any lawyer will tell you a will like that is sure to breed ill-will in the family, but that is not what concerns me now. Among the items that fell to me was an earring and pin set. These were not high-priced items, in fact they were so obviously un-high-priced that the appraiser refused to appraise them. I liked them however because they were different. Oval in shape with dull, brass-colored settings. these pieces of jewelry were made of plastic chips of varying colors made up into a mosaic representation of flowers. The dullness of the setting heightened the effect, and made them look older than they were.

Imagine my surprise when I spotted much shinier versions of these pieces in a local store. Evidently they come from Venice and my relation must have picked them up there during one of her many trips to Europe. Being new, these pieces have bright gold-colored settings, which don't detract at all from the effectiveness of the mosaic florals. These pieces are quite large and the earrings, because of size are the clip-on style, but they give an attractive antique effect that is quite "In" right now. The patterns come in various colors, all of course being multi-colored, but with different "background" colors. The earrings are $2.98 while a brooch is $3.98.

Imbedded in Plastic

Technology has discovered a new way of setting semi-precious (or even precious) stones: Plastic. Jewelry made in this way is inexpensive, as well as attractive, and it ensures that the little pieces that come off when a stone is shaped are not wasted. I found quite an exciting line of jewelry made this way using B.C. jade, burnished copper, iridescent abalone chips or gold inlaid in clear plastic. Some of the items had "all round" appeal while others, notably those using abalone chips, used an opaque layer (usually black) to "set off" the imbedded pieces.

Earrings in this line are $3.50 or $3.95 and come in both pierced or clip styles, while pendant necklaces are $3. The gold inlay is more expensive, so these are $4.25 for earrings and $5.25 for pendants.

I was intrigued by the bracelets set with these inlaid plastic "stones." One, for $8.95, was a wide fixed band with a large oval stone in the centre and leaf-shaped bands to circle the wrist. Equally striking were link bracelets with either oval or square stones. These were priced around $9.75. When gold inlay was used, the plastic and gold "stones" were alternated with plain metal links.

Please call 382-3131 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. if you would like to know where to find this jewelry.

Women Don't Lose Face By Asking Questions

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP) — Mrs. Marion E. Martin says she has been successful in her job as Maine's labor commissioner because she is feminine.

"If anything, being a woman is an advantage because neither labor nor management expects you to know all the answers," Mrs. Martin said in an interview.

"They take it for granted that a woman doesn't know what she's talking about, so she doesn't have to be afraid of losing face by asking questions.

"And since she doesn't have to be ashamed of what she doesn't know, she can draw out points and feelings by asking questions a man would be embarrassed or feel stupid asking."

Mrs. Martin, 68, feels that the biggest thing she has going for herself is her effort to remain herself.

"A woman in this field who doesn't appreciate this asset is making a mistake," she said.

"By just being herself — not trying to be like a man — she can make things pleasanter and get around problems of semantics that are keeping two sides apart."

Mrs. Martin dresses fashionably, reflecting her constant effort to retain her womanliness in a state administration weighted heavily with men. Half of those on her staff are men.

'Firm Discipline' Hurts Grandparents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so hurt. My daughter and her husband have now decided that my two grandsons shall be denied a visit to Grandma's and Grandpa's house until they stop doing this or that.

Our greatest pleasure is a visit from our grandchildren who are 4 and 6 years old.

So now we are told there will be no more visits until Bobby stops sucking his thumb, or Richard comes the first time he's called. Their parents call this "firm discipline." I call it, "unfair to grandparents."

Please, Abby, tell us if we are off base for feeling the way we do. Or are the parents? And what should we do about it?

HURT GRANDPARENTS

DEAR HURT: It is unfortunate that in their efforts to "discipline" their children your daughter and her husband punish you, too. If you have already let them know how you feel and they refuse to substitute another kind of punishment, say nothing. I agree, it's unfair to you, but the choice is theirs.

DEAR ABBY: I heard a man make a reference to "San Quentin quail." We live 25 miles from San Quentin penitentiary and have never seen any kind of quail around that area. Thank you for any information you can give us.

CALIFORNIANS

DEAR CALIFORNIANS: Are you pulling my feathers? "San Quentin quail" is a term (slang) meaning an underage girl.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I did a foolish thing. I got the girl I was going with pregnant, and when she told me about it I skipped town and left Carlotta to face everything alone. She was 16 and I was 20. Carlotta could have made trouble for me, but she didn't.

I thought it over and came back. Carlotta was still home like nothing had happened. She had the baby and gave it up for adoption, but she wouldn't even come to the door to talk to me. When I tried to get her on the telephone, her father told me if I ever showed my face around there again he would kill me.

Abby, I made a terrible mistake. I still love the girl, and I know if she would only see me I could make it up to her. I feel like a heel, but even a heel needs advice. How can I get my girl to see me?

DENNY

DEAR DENNY: She is not your "girl" anymore. Your timing is poor. Give her a break and let her alone.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

The brilliant Vienna-born American pianist, Hilde Somer, is slim, pretty, and has magnificent posture. She has performed with many of the most distinguished orchestras all over the world.

Obviously this performer brings not only artistry to her career but a reservoir of sheer strength and stamina as well, and she believes that development of that reservoir has been aided by faithful practice of yoga exercises. She says, "They strengthen the muscles, restore the spirit, and relax the body."

Not only are her performances strenuous but her career demands arduous daily practice and much travel. Miss Somer relies on yoga exercises to keep her fit. She says that these helped strengthen the muscles involved in pianism, have given her the ability to relax muscular tensions and provide enough exercise to maintain excellent health.

One of the things she does faithfully before a concert is to stand on her head. "It's good for the circulation," she explains, "but don't try it first without an instructor." A German critic who had been aware of this part of Miss Somer's pre-concert routine, once wrote, "Before the concert Hilde Somer stands on her head; after the concert the audience does."

Miss Somer started yoga when she was bothered by a pain at the base of her neck. She says "most people in sitting positions have this kind of pain and it isn't always nervous tension as they often think. We actually don't hold ourselves straight enough from the lower back. Once I trained myself to do this the pain went."

Through her yoga exercises Hilde Somer discovered a set of breathing and relaxing routines which remove all tensions and allow her to involve her entire body in her playing rather than just her hands and shoulders.

Readers Asked for Suggestions

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I am a teen-ager who sews. I just love to make things from corduroy but my problem is how to wash and dry these materials so that they keep their soft, velvety finish? I am having trouble with this and don't know what to do! It would be a great help if this were printed in the paper as quite a few of my friends are having the same problem and read your column, too.

Betty S.

Dear Betty:

I will have to call upon our readers to answer this question. Since cotton corduroy is a year round fabric, women from coast to coast would probably like to know just how corduroy should be treated to retain the lovely look it had when first completed. Please write to me and let me know just what you have done so that I may print the answer for all the Bettys and their friends.

GOLFING HOLIDAY IN HAWAII

Home in Victoria after a three-week holiday in Hawaii are three Victoria couples, pictured from left, Mr. and Mrs. Graham McCall, 2049 Lansdowne Road; Mr. and Mrs. Morry Coxworth, 2608 Dunlevy Street, and Mrs. George Birnie, 2341 Lansdowne Road. Consumers' Week Provides Chance to Discuss Complaints

The high cost of drugs, expensive packaging and those new synthetic fabrics: these are some of the things the Consumers Association of Canada is concerned about.

If the exact weight of the contents of your box of detergent is now printed on the outside of the carton, the Association had a hand in making the practice law.

And if your rayon pyjamas did not come complete with washing instructions you can rest assured the Association is pushing to make the item standard for all clothing manufacturers.

Back in the early days of the Industrial Revolution, business was geared to production. But in the 20th century business is geared to consumption, so it's only natural there should be a national Consumers' Week.

It runs from today until Saturday and even has a slogan: "Consumers count."

Tuesday through Friday the CAC will be located at a table in the Simpsons-Sears shopping mall. Among items of interest will be a 50-cent Econo-Meter, a kind of circular slide-rule that enables dollar-conscious consumers to calculate comparative costs.

PROTECTION

Consumers deeply concerned about drawbacks involved in certain products or services can fill in complaint forms provided by the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. The forms can be obtained from Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, 855 Vancouver St.

The Consumers Association is an outgrowth of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Today it protects consumers by channeling complaints to the federal department and by advising buyers on how to make the best use of their money.

It presently sponsors a pilot course on consumer education at Esquimalt Junior Secondary and "Beat the Budget," a morning television show of advice to the homemaker.

Last year the CAC went on record as opposing sale of motor vehicle registration lists as an invasion of privacy. One of its next objectives will be to try to force manufacturers to include washing and dry-cleaning instructions with the garments they market.

"This would be a help to dry-cleaners," said CAC president, Mrs. G. A. Forrest, "because they get garments that they don't know how to treat.

"There's a new synthetic fabric on the market practically every week."

Princess Anne, 18, wearing a stylish coat and jaunty cap, made her first solo public appearance in Pirbright, England, Saturday. She made the traditional presentation of St. David's Day leeks to the Welsh Guards. St. David is the patron saint of Wales. (AP Wirephoto.)

Beauty Cleansing The Skin

Many of the world's most beautiful women attribute the clear, fine loveliness of their complexions to the toning qualities of a special lemon cleanser that floats away all beauty-robbing impurities without depriving the skin of its natural beauty. The complexion immediately reflects the rewarding benefits as the cleanser is smoothed over the skin. Dry, ageing lines are eased and the skin becomes clear and softly endowed with a radiant bloom. Jelvyn cleansing milk is the perfect cleanser for all skin types.

EX-WRENS PLAN TEA

Members of the Ex-Wrens' Association are planning a tea to be held Saturday in the Douglas Room at the Bay.

Proceeds of the tea will go towards the Association's annual donation to a group of Korean children at Gordon House of the Yong Hwa Sook Beggar Boys' Home in Pusan.

Members also send letters and pictures, and each year, the association receives letters from the boys, such as the one from Kim Jong Duck which begins "We are very, very happy and our hearts are singing and dancing because we have received your wonderful letters and pictures . . ."

The tea, which continues from 2:15 to 4:30, is open to the public.

'I've Got a Snake I Walk With But I'm Not Crazy About Him . . .'

ALGONQUIN PARK, Ont. (CP) — Gertie Baskerville has a big family—feathered, furred, four-footed. She has lived for 25 years in Ontario's Algonquin Park, alone except for the birds and animals.

She is in her 70s, an energetic woman in baggy jeans and a plaid shirt. Her cosy, four-room cabin stands beside South Tea Lake in the south-west corner of the 2,900-mile-square wilderness park.

"Mother Nature is the only real thing," she says. "You can take a wolf and if you feed it and treat it right, it can be a pet. I've had martens come to the door. I've even got a snake that walks around with me, but I'm not crazy about him."

On a table in the cabin is a bowl of peanuts and corn kernels for the squirrels and chipmunks who scurry around her front door. In the refrigerator are cut-up pieces of meat for the whisky jacks, perky birds that come when she calls.

RETURNS WITH HERD

The deer must pass along the news about her to each other, for generation after generation appear at her door in spring.

One winter day a doe tapped at her window.

"I fed her and she followed me to the point for cedar. I cut a tree. She ate two mouthfuls and left.

"I was furious at her for making me do all that work when she wasn't really hungry. Ten minutes later, she returned with the whole herd."

She's travelling a lot of the time, too. In February a crew from the Ontario department of lands and forests stopped by her cabin but Mrs. Baskerville was away. But a few knowledgeable birds were in the vicinity and showed their familiarity by allowing the crew to hand-feed them.

As a child in Bancroft, Ont., she never even camped outdoors. She moved to the cabin with her husband in 1943, a year before he died of lung trouble.

"We had to come here," she said. "There was no work, no welfare and my husband was sick."

NO MORE TOURISTS

After his death she earned most of her income by running guest cabins for summer tourists but stopped about two years ago. She says she got fed up with people who complained about the lack of city conveniences.

Now she lives on her old-age pension and earns a little from the forest rangers for keeping a record of the lake levels. She weaves and sells multi-colored rag rugs in pictures of northern scenes.

She claims she can tame anything with food.

Jules Newman, a Toronto accountant who owns a nearby cottage, recalls staying in one of her cabins.

"When we opened the cabin door in the morning, my wife and I were astounded to see a collection of red squirrels and chipmunks sitting on the porch, waiting for us to come out," he said. "They were confident and cocky, obviously expecting to be fed."

"Love Me, Love My Wrinkles."

It's a lot to ask of even the most devoted husband. And why should you now that there's such an easy way to help eliminate aging lines and wrinkles. Incredibly effective and completely safe, this beautiful discovery is aptly named 2nd Debut. What you do is gently smooth on 2nd Debut morning and night. In about a week you'll begin to see results: wrinkles fade away as 2nd Debut feeds your skin with the moisture it's been thirsting for. 2nd Debut in CEF 600 or 1200 double strength is at your pharmacy and department store. Can you honestly afford not to try it?

PROTECT PUBLIC

Special Week Will Stress Honest Sale

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The firm and continuing belief of Consumers' Association of Canada is that an informed consumer is a protected consumer. That is why the men and women who belong to it work tirelessly to provide consumer information and to promote consumer education.

Forbes

To bring their work into sharper focus, this has been declared Consumer Week across Canada.

In Victoria window displays have been arranged to present the many ways in which CAC is fighting for improved conditions, especially in the field of food packaging.

The local branch, formed 20 years ago and now with 400 members, is manning booths in department stores and at other strategic points to answer questions not only about packaging but about other phases of CAC work, including present nation-wide efforts to standardize sausages in regard to fats and proteins, to gain uniform air and water pollution controls across the country and to obtain lower prices on household drugs.

* * *

CAC arguments for better food packaging are based on the belief that in the purchase of daily necessities, consumers should have freedom and ability to exercise four basic rights.

They should know what they are buying, usually by examining the choices offered and they should be able to compare prices, to name the quantity they wish to buy and to get the full quantity for which they pay.

The association contends that these basic centuries-old rights are being threatened today by packaging practices.

In many instances it is virtually impossible to compare prices and thus make prudent choices because it has become frustratingly difficult to know the basic price per pound or pint of what we wish to buy.

Odd-size packages are the rule not the exception. Look along the shelves of any food store and you will find many different choices in various lines but few pound packages.

Most are in odd weights, some of them in fractional weights, which make basic price computation and price comparison so difficult as to be almost impossible.

* * *

Of course, there are benefits in food packaging, including cleanliness, convenience and attractiveness. But if the package prevents the buyer from examining or even seeing the product, the time-honored right of comparing items for quantity, size and type threatens to be lost forever.

That is, unless packages are required to display enough information to let the buyer choose by comparing honest and sufficient facts.

If we cannot see the product then CAC believes we need to find on packages clear, readable, accurate statements of ingredients and quantity.

Before the era of prepackaging we could watch the scale and as long as it was accurate, we knew how much a purchase weighed.

Now the scale is gone. And prepackaging has made us virtually dependent for accuracy of weight on those who do the packaging.

In the matter of comparing prices on various food stuffs, CAC contends that the average consumer is definitely motivated by price consideration.

On the other hand, industry would have us believe that consumers don't care about prices any more; that the big thing is brand loyalty and the color and shape of a package.

* * *

This doesn't ring true for in the same breath industry is coming out with cents-off and other premium specials and advertisements that show prices in big, black numerals.

We should be able to compare quickly and easily prices among different size packages of the same products right on the food store shelves, also among different brands of the same items and finally among different items.

The average consumer finds it almost impossible to do this when he is faced with various ounces, half ounces and even quarter-ounces, instead of the simple and easy pound or pint weights.

MENACE to health of smoking is so great that governments which rely on millions of dollars in tobacco tax revenue are in class of taxing the growing of opium poppies Dr. R. M. Lane, Victoria, told the Commons smoking inquiry last week. Chairman of the Canadian Medical Association public health committee, Dr. Lane supported a ban on tobacco advertisements and other restrictions proposed by the association.

Man Drove Into Bank Deliberately

A man charged in central court Friday said he attempted to commit suicide by driving his car into a steep embankment near the Malahat.

He said the suicide attempt followed an unsuccessful bid to become reconciled with his wife.

Gordon Mason, 1252 Denman, was acquitted on a charge of stealing a 1955 Cadillac convertible registered in his wife's name. He said he was the joint owner of the car.

Mrs. Mason testified she left her car in a service station on Caledonia Street Jan. 13 for an oil change and other adjustments.

When she came out of her office at noon, the car was outside and Mason was behind the wheel. She asked him to leave the car, but he refused. Later he drove it away.

Mrs. Mason said the car was originally purchased by her husband. She had since taken over the car and paid instalments on it.

Mason told the court he was upset over the separation from his wife and wanted a reconciliation with her. When he saw the car in the service station, he obtained permission from the garage operator and drove it to his wife's office.

WOULDN'T LISTEN

When she came out, he tried to talk to her. She wouldn't listen and wouldn't let him see their child. She ordered him to leave the car.

Mason said he then decided to return home and end his life with a rifle.

While driving along the highway near the Malahat, Mason said it suddenly occurred to him the police might have set up a roadblock ahead. So he swerved off the road in an attempt to commit suicide by crashing the car into a steep embankment.

The car got stuck in the snow-covered bushes.

Magistrate William Ostler said in his opinion Mason had no intent to steal the car or to damage it. It appeared he wanted to go home and end his life.

The magistrate ruled the Crown had failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt. He acquitted Mason.

France Names New Envoy To China

PARIS (Reuters) — Etienne Manac'h, one of France's leading diplomats, has been namd ambassador to Peking, the official gazette has announced.

Manac'h, 59, has been head of the foreign ministry's Asian division for the last eight years and in this post played a major part behind the scenes in smoothing out difficulties at the Vietnam peace conference here.

He will replace Lucien Paye, 61, France's first ambassador to China since the French government recognized Peking in 1964.

Paye, a former education minister, asked to be recalled, foreign ministry sources said.

Manac'h, who is of Breton origin, makes no secret in private of his conviction that the Vietnam issue will be decided on the battlefield and not at the peace conference table here, some of his friends say.

Huskies Start Yukon Marathon

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Amid teams of howling huskies and under a blazing sun on the Yukon River, Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien Friday officially opened the eighth annual Yukon Sourdough Rendezvous.

The rendezvous opened with the first leg of a 45-mile dogsled race on the Yukon River. The race is run in three 15-mile legs, one each morning of the three-day carnival which ends Sunday.

Meir Nominated For Israel Post

JERUSALEM (AP) — Leaders of the Mapai faction of Israel's Labor party nominated Golda Meir Sunday night to be prime minister until the fall election.

Sources said there was one abstention—believed to be Defence Minister Moshe Dayan—when cabinet ministers from the Labor party met to choose a candidate. The party meets next Sunday to elect a successor to Levi Eshkol, who died last Wednesday.

Dayan's Rafi faction, which accounts for 22 per cent of the Labor party, has said it will not support Mrs. Meir.

Mrs. Meir, the 70-year-old former foreign minister, has said she is not anxious to accept because of her health, and it was not immediately known whether she would.

A party spokesman said the ministers, who were called together by acting Premier Yigal Allon, Dayan's chief rival, would appeal to her to accept the nomination.

Mrs. Meir and others in control of the party have long been opposed to Dayan, who has a wide popular following but little political power base. She is known to favor Allon but to feel that he could not build a sufficient following among Isroel's many political factions.

Allon and Dayan probably will face each other in the fall election.

POLICE CHIEF BURIED

In Syria, the funeral for Col. Abdel Karim Jundi, the secret police chief who was reported to have committed suiced Saturday night, showed that the nation's political turmoil has not been resolved.

Jundi had been a chief ally of President Nouredin Atassi and Maj.-Gen. Salah Jadid, who was reputed to be the strongman of the Baath Socialist party. Atassi and Jadid were reported ousted in a coup last week led by Lt.-Gen. Hafez Assad, but both attended Jundi's funeral riding in the presidential car.

Government informants later reported Assad and Jadid had reached a truce and decided to hold a general conference of the Baath party in 10 days to resolve the conflict. They said Assad felt sufficiently strong to allow this concession.

Another source said the police chief took his life after a heated meeting of the Baath party Saturday night.

"There was a lot of shouting," he said. "Jundi walked out in a rage. He went to his office to put his affairs in order and then phoned a friend. Shortly afterward he shot himself in the head."

MAY HANG 3 JEWS

Israel's foreign ministry said Sunday it had learned that Iraq intends to hang another group of alleged spies, including three Jews, today or Tuesday.

Spokesman Shmuel Ovnath said Israel was doing everything it could to mobilize world organizations, governments and public opinion to avert the executions.

Apology Refused

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (CP)—Students of the Trinidad campus of the West Indies university have turned down the administration demand for a public apology to Governor-General Roland Michener, barred from campus last week.

Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Michener arrived Wednesday for a six-day state visit, some 75 shouting students blocked the campus entrance gates and refused to let the official party through.

Meanwhile, the Micheners received the most tumultuous welcome of the Caribbean tour in Sanfernando, Trinidad - Tobago, as thousands turned out to wave and cheer the visit to the oil refining town.

TOKYO (UPI)—The population of the world's largest city, Tokyo, was 11,358,966 persons as of Feb. 1, an increase of 5,242 over the previous month, the government announced today.

GAGLARDI NUZZLES UP TO OLD ROAD FOES

Minister Without Portfolio Phil Gaglardi Friday said "When a man bites a dog, that's news" and promptly put the publicity principle into practice.

He praised RCMP forces and said they should be given "the most powerful cars and helicopters" to help fight criminals.

"We have a good (RCMP) force and they're doing a good job, God bless them," he told the legislature.

Gaglardi, while highways minister, was convicted on several speeding offences and frequently accused RCMP highway patrols of persecuting him. He once described an officer who stopped him as "a punk."

However, while urging purchase of better equipment for the RCMP "to bring them out of the 15th century into the 20th century," he made one significant exception.

"We should take their (traffic) radar away from them."

Pueblo Staff Not Oriented For Koreans

CORONADA, Calif. (WP)—The Pueblo's troubles on her intelligence mission stemmed partly from the fact that the ship was staffed to spy on Russia rather than North Korea, informed officials have told the Washington Post.

The Pueblo left Japan on Jan. 11, 1968, to collect electronic intelligence off North Korea's coast. She was captured Jan. 23 off Wonsan with many secret papers intact.

So heavily Soviet-oriented were the intelligence personnel on Pueblo that only two of them could speak North Korean — and not fluently at that.

This meant that North Korean radio messages, such as the one the sub-chaser sent out announcing its intention to board the Pueblo, could not be translated instantly to give skipper Lloyd M. Bucher more warning about what was going to happen to his ship.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "I have just been looking over your copies of the first issues of The Bridge World Magazine. Contract certainly was a different game in those days."

Oswald: "It was really only a year old. Invented by Harold S. Vanderbilt in the fall of 1927, it had begun to spread around in 1929 and most of the books on the game were by elderly men who had been auction bridge authorities. Most of them tried to use auction methods in contract."

Jim: "Here is a hand written up by E. V. Shepard in which Mr. Shepard and his partner, George Kling, achieved amazing results."

Oswald: "Yes, indeed. If I had been South, you could have fried an egg just by holding it to my forehead if this had happened to me. The bidding was typical of an auction player's idea of contract. South's two-spade opening was strong but not forcing in those days. West's overcall was normal and the bidding up to West's double was reasonable."

Jim: "Mr. Shepard opened the king of hearts and shifted to the four of clubs. Mr. Kling studied awhile, then played the five. From this point on, South was doomed. If he drew trumps, he would lose both his remaining hearts. If he didn't, West would get to ruff a club."

Oswald: "Shep was just about as nice a man as you would ever meet. The whole theme of the article was his partner's brilliance in ducking the first club. Had East taken the trick and returned the suit, South would have wound up with an overtrick."

Jim: "West's play succeeded only because South held three clubs, the singleton ace of diamonds and three hearts. How old was old Mr. Shepard?"

Oswald: "Sixty! He looked mighty old to me then.
Oswald: "Sixty! He looked might old to me then. Today he would be a youngster."

Indians Ready To Back Up Brutality Claim

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chief of Sechelt Indian band said Sunday his people are prepared to substantiate charges of police brutality.

Chief Clarence Joe said there have been numerous cases in the past few months where members of his band, 25 miles north of here, have been struck by RCMP officers.

He made the comments following charges in the legislature Friday by Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver Burrard) that RCMP officers had struck Indians in incidents of the past 18 months.

Berger said in some cases the Indians involved were children as young as 12.

The chief said he was relieved the matter had finally come to the public's attention.

INDIANS PLEASED

"The whole Indian population of Canada is going to be happy about this."

He said band members have been reluctant to take individual action because officers of the law are always "90 per cent right."

He said the trouble started shortly after a change of personnel at the local RCMP detachment.

"Why should this happen when we were working in harmony with the police?" he asked, adding that he had attempted to sit down and talk to the man in charge of the RCMP detachment, but "I realized it was no use."

He said the band is receiving assistance in documenting its case from the Native Brotherhood of B.C.

Shots Rake Cafes

PARIS (Reuters) — Machine-gun fire raked four cafes in the northern Paris suburb of Aubervilliers Sunday, injuring at least 10 persons, police said. The four cafes, three of them in the same street, were mainly frequented by North Africans, police added.

HOME GARDEN

Make Garden Labels Now

By HILDA BEASTALL

Readable name labels for vegetable rows are evidence of the home gardener's interest in his labors. Besides labelling his vegetables so that he can see at a glance how one variety of bean or pea progresses against another, he is labelled as a sociable guy who is willing to share his findings with others.

Hilda

Before daylight saving robs us of at least partial evening indoor leisure, let us make some good big garden labels, and paint them.

Each gardener will know whether he needs a dozen or a hundred. He will also have an idea of what scraps of wood are avilable, or he may need to buy a few odd pieces from the lumber yard.

To be practical, each label should be readable from a standing position — there is enough exercise in bending while sowing, weeding and planting.

A length of 18 inches allows for 6 inches in the soil and 12 inches for names.

Width is important, too, for in some cases two words may be needed for specific identification, even among vegetables. So have the width two to three inches.

Either plane or sandpaper the wood just enough to make a smooth surface when painted.

If white labels offend, try any other color so long as a contrast paint is used for lettering. Next year, the colors can be reversed, or completely changed.

Practice a little block lettering with a small paintbrush before trusting your handiwork to the scrutiny of others.

As seedlings sprout, there is an added sense of garden pride in knowing varieties by name, and family arguments are reduced!

New Way To Study Diseases

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

I was just reading a remarkable article by Dr. Barton Childs and V. M. Der Kaloustian, of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, in which they tell of dozens of inherited diseases which often show up in small children, diseases that are due to an inborn lack of some chemical in the body, and aften some ferment (like a yeast), which normally splits some big chemical into smaller ones, and thus enables the body to get rid of the substance with the help of the kidneys.

Alvarez

One of the best known of such inherited diseases is diabetes, in which certain tiny cells in the pancreas (The big digestive gland back of the stomach) fail to produce enough of the insulin which enables the body to use sugar and starches. Another well-known inherited disease of this type is gout. In normal people, two big cheimicals, adenine and guanidine, are broken down into uric acid, and then the uric acid is broken down still further so that fractions of it can be put out of the body through the kidneys. But in some people, this final splitting up is not complete, and as a result, uric acid keeps accumulating every so often in the victim's big toe joint, or in other joints or in the kidneys, and damage is done.

★ ★ ★

Back in the early 1800s, an able British physician, Dr. Alfred Garrod, published an epoch-making book on "Inborn Errors of Metabolism" (metabolism meaning the alteration of chemicals in the body). If he were alive today, he would be fascinated to see the long list of errors of metabolism published by Dr. Childs and Kaloustian. As they say, today chemists are able to detect inborn abnormalities in very complicated body chemicals such as the proteins (like white of egg) which make up much of our body structure.

A few years ago, it was found that some infants are born with an inability to handle and use sugar or milk; and they can get into serious trouble if this chemical abnormality is not quickly recognized, and milk is taken out of the child's diet. Another disease which caused much excitement when it was found is phenylketonuria (PKU).

A few infants are born with an inability to handle a certain rare chemical, called phenylalanine, one of the common components of our bodies. If the defect is recognized quickly, and the child is put on a special diet which lacks the phenylalanine which he cannot handle, his little brain will develop well; but if the disease is not quickly recognized and treated, his brain can be badly poisoned and injured.

Today I am happy to note that a number of able psychiatrists are coming to see that their old Freudian theories of the production of mental troubles are inadequate to explain such facts as that depressions and schizophrenia were found by that great psychiatrist and geneticist, Professor Franz Kallmann of Columbia University, to be practically 100 per cent inherited; also that now Dr. Hoffer and Osmond and other psychiatrists are using blood tests, and not a Freudian analysis, to recognize a schizophrenic.

Recently I read several articles that gave me hope for epilieptics: chemists are showing that these patients also have abnormalities in their body chemistry which could have much to do with their convulsive tendency.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

West Coast Too Soft For Simpson's Men

By BOB BOWMAN

Last autumn a Vancouver sports writer, trying to account for the poor showing of the B.C. Lions football team, suggested that easy living on the Pacific coast made the players too soft.

Bowman

He could have found historical support for his argument if he had known the view of Sir George Simpson who was head of the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada from 1821 after the amalgamation with the North West Company.

Simpson alwasy maintained that the west coast was not a good place for his fur traders to remain for more than two years, and had them transferred to Fort Garry (winnipeg) to get toughened again.

Simpson was tough enough himself. He crossed the continent three times in canoes, although on his third trip which begun in London, England, March 3, 1841, and continued around the world, Simson travelled from Fort Garry to Fort Edmonton in a wagon which covered 50 miles a day. When he travelled in summer or winter he always started the day, usually about 1 a.m., by having a swim, no matter how icy the water.

The men who paddled Simpson were hardy French-Canadian voyageurs. Their day began at 2 a.m. and they were expected to cover at least 50 miles before stopping. In 1828 they took Simpson from Hudson's Bay to Fort Langley, B.C. in 90 days during which they paddled all the way down the Fraser River.

It was an experience even Simpson did not want to repeat. He wrote "The dangers whitened the countenances of the boldest."

GIVEN CAVIAR

On his journey around the world, which took 19 months and 26 days, he went from the mouth of the Columbia River to Sitka, Alaska (not in a canoe!), then crossed to Siberia, and on to St. Petersburg. The Russians gave him caviar so he returned the compliment by giving them pemmican from Fort Garry!

Sir George Simpson made his home on Lake Lachine near Montreal in 1833 and died there in 1860 shortly after trying to get to Fort Garry once again.

He got as far as St. Paul but had to turn back when he became ill. Perhaps he would have lived longer if he had managed to get back to his old toughening up base. Have the Winnipeg Blue Bombers anything to say about that?

Other events March 3:

1722—France divided Canada into parishes.

1838—Insurgents from U.S. tried to invade Canada at Port Pelee, Lake Erie, but were defeated.

1871—House of Commons approved British Columbia joining Canada.

1887—U.S. passed Fisheries Retaliation Act against Canada.

1930—Inter-city air service inaugurated but was discontinued in 1932 owing to depression.

1945—Canadian Army linked with U.S. Army in Germany as Nazis retreated along the Rhine.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert Field, age 13, of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, for his question:

How do they read Braille writing?

Braille was invented by a talented blind student who lived and died more than a century ago. The writing is not in the form of black letters on white paper. The pages of thick, soft paper are covered with raised dots and this Braille writing is intended to be read, not with the eyes, but with sensitive fingertips.

A soldier blinded by warfare was given a page of Braille writing to touch, but his hands were untrained and he said that the precious page felt like sandpaper. This is, most likely, how those raised paper dots would feel to your own hands. The sense of touch in your fingertips is untrained for such fine discrimination. However, with practice and patience, these fingertip skills could be developed. The raised dots are coded letters and other symbols, and your fingers could learn to distinguish them. In time, you could learn to read Braille with your eyes closed.

When you stop to imagine what a wonderful thing this is, you will wonder who invented the system. His name was Louis Braille and he was born in Paris in 1809. At the age of three, he was blinded by an accident. Some years later, he attended the National Institute for the Blind and proved himself a top student in math, science and music. Reading was taught by training the fingertips to sense raised letters on soft paper. At the age of 15, young Louis up-dated this method by inventing a coded system of raised dots. His Braille writing is now used throughout the world.

The system uses a basic unit with room for six dots. The dot spaces are precisely arranged in three pairs stacked in two columns. To write a symbol, a certain number of dots are punched in certain locations of the basic unit. Letter A uses the dot in the top lefthand corner. Letter L uses the three dots in the left column. The basic unit makes it possible to create 63 different symbols, more than we need to write the alphabet. Other coded units are used for TH and SH, ER and ED and several other popular letter groups. Other units are punctuation marks. Five are popular words such as THE and OF. The Braille symbol for FOR uses all six dots of the basic unit.

Costly to Make

Blind people love to read as much as you do. But Braille reading material is scarce and costly. If you wish to help, train your own fingers to read Braille and learn to write the raised dots with a special stylus. Then find a school for the blind and quietly offer a few hours of your spare time. This is one place you are certain to get a warm welcome. There is always so very much reading material waiting to be translated into bumpy pages of Braille—and always so many people eager to touch the bumpy pages with their sensitive fingertips.

In recent years, machines have been invented to speed up the production of Braille material. Typewriters and computers are used to translate, but a Braille book still costs about 20 times more than the same book in ordinary print. And Braille books are bulky. The Braille edition of your gift World Book Encyclopedia has 145 volumes. It weighs 200 pounds and takes up enough space to fill 43 feet of book shelves.

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Robert Wayne Feldhousen, Jr., age 7, of Newport News, Virginia, for his question:

What are volcanic bombs?

A bomb is an overgrown bullet that is hurled through the air to explode with a shattering bang. Nature has been tossing such bombs around since the earth invented volcanoes. Until the 1900s, nature's biggest bombs surpassed the biggest bombs used in human warfare. Then we invented our atomic bombs—and they outdid all of nature's volcanic bombs. Nature's bomb factories are deep underground where molten rocks, gases and superheated steam mix together to form pockets of seething magma. When a volcano erupts, red hot rivers of this material flow forth and cool into solid lava rocks. But some of the seething magma may be made into volcanic bombs.

A furious volcano in a wild tantrum spits steam and suffocating sulphur gases, cinders and ashes high above its head. Sometimes it hurls chunks of molten magma hundreds of feet high. These bombs light up the sky with flames and sparks and plunge down like fireworks. They start out as soft, plastic material. As they whirl through the air, they are rounded and molded into tapered spindles.

Three to Get Plaques For Dedicated Service

The John Howard Society of Vancouver Island will honor three members for dedicated community service at a meeting in Nanaimo on Saturday.

Father Alexander McDonald of Nanaimo, Rev. Dr. J. D. Hobden of Comox, and former deputy forests minister Dr. C. D. Orchard, 2331 Lansdowne Rd., Victoria will received plagues at the society's annual dinner in the Tally-Ho Travelodge.

Neil A. McDairmid, director of the criminal law branch of the attorney-general's department, will make the presentations. He will also speak on "The need for experimentation and bold approach when dealling with juvenile delinquents."

★ ★ ★

Of the three men, Rev. Hobden had had the longest association with the John Howard Society, holding the post of executive director for B.C. (1931-1956) provincial organizer (1956-1962). He was also director of the society during 1958-1960.

He was born in England at Shoreham-by-Sea, Sussex, but obtained his bachelor's degree in theology and doctorate of divinity at Union College, UBC. Prior to 1954 he served six two-year terms as a police commissioner in West Vancouver. He is now padre of the Seaforth Highlanders, director and executive member of the Cnadian Penal Association.

Father McDonald believes he was the first Roman Catholic priest in B.C. to preach in churches other than his own.

Born in Glace Bay on Cape Breton Island, he was ordained in 1939, and served in parishes at Nanaimo and Ladysmith. He returned to the University of Ottawa to study theology, and received his doctorate in canon law in 1948.

He was with the Canadian Army Chaplain Corps from 1943 until his release in 1965 for health reasons. He joined the John Howard Society in 1952, and is now at St. Peter's Church, Nanaimo.

Dr. Orchard also joined the society in 1952. A native of New Brunswick he received a bachelor's degree in forestry from the University of New Brunswick in 1920 following service during the First World War. The same year he came to B.C. as a junior forester.

He returned to his native province to complete studies leading to a master's degree, but continued to work in forest administration in Cranbrook, Nelson and Prince George before coming to Victoria in 1930.

In 1946 he was appointed deputy minister of forests and held that post until retirement in 1948.

George Warnock, Vancouver Island director of the Society, said Victoria residents who would like transportation to the annual dinner Saturday should phone 386-8461.

Named after an Englishman who devoted his life to improving the lot of prisoners, ex-prisoners and conditions in jails, the Society's effort s are now aimed ar rehabilitation and readjustment of former inmates.

Old Wounds Opened On Floating Plants

By HUMPHRY DAVY

An old and bitter controversy among commercial fishermen has erupted again after a lapse of more than 30 years.

It involves the right to operate floating fish canning-processing plants or ships within B.C. territorial waters — a limit stretching three miles out to sea.

Under the B.C. Fisheries Act enacted in the 1930s, floating plants are banned in provincial waters.

Fishermen can't even prepare — at sea — shrimps, crabs or oysters.

The controversy was revived when Ron Brown, a Vancouver businessman bought the two former Victoria-based weather-ships, the Stonetown and St. Stephen, for conversion into fish-processing plants at a cost of $3,000,000.

Brown plans to use them to process ground fish, such as skate, dogfish and perch, into fish protein concentrate for export to countries low on proteins.

"I hope to have the ships in operation by mid-summer," he said. "There's a big demand for proteins in India."

Brown plans to get around the act by working beyond the three-mile limit—just like Russian floating canneries operating outside Canadian territorial waters — a 12-mile limit.

He has been advised by government officials there is nothing to stop him.

His ships are of Canadian registry and will be able to land cargo in B.C. ports, he said.

Brown's venture has spurred some fishing companies and independent fishermen to ask the government to repeal or amend the act to permit floating fish factories in B.C. waters.

The most vocal group is the shrimp fishermen — a business which has grown considerable in the last two or three years.

They have asked for permission to cook shrimps aboard their vessels because it's more economical.

Government Sends Questionnaire

The commercial fisheries branch of the B.C. department of conservation and recreation has sent a questionnaire to all fishing companies and unions asking their opinions on repealing the act.

The more powerful companies, and the Fisheries Association of B.C. representing the canning industry, oppose any change. They want to protect their substantial shore plants.

They said they provide employment for thousands of people during the fishing season and are major taxpayers.

They also argue it would be difficult to inspect properly floating plants to see that sanitary regulations are obeyed.

Those in favor of repealing the act say the sea-going plants would permit B.C. fishermen to compete with foreign fishing fleets operating outside Canada's 12-mile limit.

They claim it's more efficient and economical to process at sea.

Floating plants would provide consumers with a better product as the fish would be processed as soon as caught, they said.

They say many people don't eat fish because it loses flavor due to handling and delays in shipment to processing centres on shore.

The controversial act was passed in the late 1930s after a group of investors launched a floating cannery to reduce costs.

But pressure from shore-based companies resulted in the government seizing the ships. Owners of the floating cannery lost the subsequent court battle.

Logging Squirms Back to Life

DUNCAN — Despite deep snow in the woods and load restrictions on paved roads, major logging companies are either in full swing or will be in two weeks' time.

Officials said today works crews have been gradually increased over the last two weeks.

MacMillan Bloedel report all their operations including Shawnigan Lake, Alberni, Nanaimo River, Copper Canyon, Port Hardy, Kelsey Bay and the Queen Charlottes are back at full strength.

Crown Zellerbach said about half of its work crew of 70 men were at work at Nitinat and Lake Cowichan.

Logs from Nitinat camp were being trucked to the head of Lake Cowichan and towed to the sawmill at Youbou to avoid paved road load restrictions.

MacMillan Bloedel are hauling logs on company roads to dumps.

"We expect to be back in full operation in two more weeks if the weather continues to warm up," a CZ spokesman said. It was 30 degrees and foggy in the Nitinat area this morning.

GRADUAL BUILDUP

Deerholme division of MacMillan Bloedel which employs about 90 men from the Duncan area has been gradually building its work force to full power since Feb. 20, a company spokesman said.

Another nine men handle the log output at the Cowichan Bay dump.

B.C. Forest Products Cowichan logging division said half its crew of 135 men are working in the woods with partial crews cat-logging, falling and bucking.

"We have an engineer assess the blacktop road conditions regularly," an official said. "We expect to be back at full strength in two weeks and hope the roads are free of frost by then."

Hovercraft Back on Run

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hovercraft service between here and Nanaimo resumed today after a minor collision Sunday forced a halt in weekend operations.

Barry Jones, president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said a truck backed into the air cushion vehicle when it was docked at Patricia Bay but the dent it caused was repaired by Sunday.

A full booking of 34 passengers was ready for the morning run, and 20 for the afternoon trip.

Jones said the craft's schedule is expected to be expanded from two to three round trips daily by next weekend.

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — the Amsterdam Appeals Court today fined Dutch Senator Otto Boetes and his wife each 250 guilders (about $60) for insulting President Johnson last year by calling him a "war criminal."

Father, Daughter Given Wings At Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — The young and not-so-young were sworn in as new pilots and members of Duncan Flying Club at the annual banquet here.

Wings were presented 24 new flyers who completed their training at the club, bringing total membership to more than 100.

The oldest pilot sworn in was Bernard Wadsworth, 65. Youngest was his daughter, Gail, 17.

Mayor Jim Quaife told the large gathering city council fully supports the club and establishment of new, enlarged facilities at Vaux Road.

Joseph Howse was sworn in as president; Bernard Wadsworth, vice-president; Gail Wadsworth, secretary, and Marion Achurch, treasurer.

Ike Battles On In Recovery Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Antibiotics and a tough constitution seem to be effectively combatting the pneumonia that attacked former president Eisenhower during his recovery from major surgery.

But "he's still quite weak," a high-ranking Walter Reed Army Hospital spokesman said. "He's got to eat and get some strength back."

His doctors reported that "the area of pneumonia in the right lung base is markedly diminishing."

Soviet Embassy Under Siege

TOKYO (CP)—Tens of thousands of anti-Soviet demonstrators, including Red Guards, besieged the Soviet Embassy in Peking today after Chinese and Soviet troops clashed on a disputed river on the Manchurian border.

Both Moscow and Peking announced "many killed and wounded" in the battle Sunday.

Each sent protest notes.

Agence France-Press reported from Peking that the Soviet embassy rejected a Chinese protest note. An embassy spokesman said the Soviet counsellor, F. I. Potapenko, was called to the Chinese foreign ministry and Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan Hua tried to give him the protest note.

But the spokesman said that Potapenko rejected the note "because it does not coincide with the facts and because it was written in an unacceptable form."

AFP correspondent Edouard Dillon said the huge crowd was laying siege to the Soviet Embassy. They were hostile to foreigners driving to the embassy.

'Hang Kosygin, Fry Brezhnev'

They shook their fists at cars, shouting "Hang Kosygin" and "Fry Brezhnev," referring to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Soviet Communist Chairman Leonid Brezhnev.

The Soviet Union and China accused each other of crossing the border Sunday, and China said it was the 18th Soviet violation in two years.

Peking's New China news agency said the battle occurred on an island in the Ussuri River, which forms part of the border between China and the Soviet Far East.

The Chinese called the island Chenpao and claimed it is "indisputable Chinese territory." The Soviets called it Damansky and said it constitutes their Nizhne-Mikailovka border posts.

The island is 200 miles north of Vladivostok.

China today gave Moscow a stern warning in a New China news agency dispatch which said any intrusions into Chinese territory would be met with strong counteraction.

China Threatens Punitive Raids

The dispatch said: "China's sacred territory brooks no violation. If you should wilfully cling to your reckless course and continue to create armed conflicts along the Sino-Soviet border, you will certainly receive resolute counter-blows from the 700,000,000 Chinese people . . ."

The Chinese foreign ministry said "large numbers of fully-armed" Soviet troops crossed into Chinese territory in four armored cars and trucks despite repeated warnings from Chinese border guards and "outrageously opened cannon and gun fire, killing and wounding many Chinese frontier guards."

It said the Chinese were "compelled to fight back in self-defence" and gave the Soviet soldiers "punishment which they deserved."

The Soviet version, reported by the news agency Tass, said: "Chinese violators of the frontier were chased away from Soviet territory by the resolute actions of Soviet border guards." It added there were "killed and wounded" but did not say whether they were Chinese or Russian.

The New China news agency said a Chinese protest note was delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Peking, demanding that the Soviet Union "punish the culprits of this incident," halt its "encroachment on Chinese territory" and hold itself "responsible for any grave consequences that may result."

Compensation May Be Asked

The note said Chinese reserve the right to demand compensation.

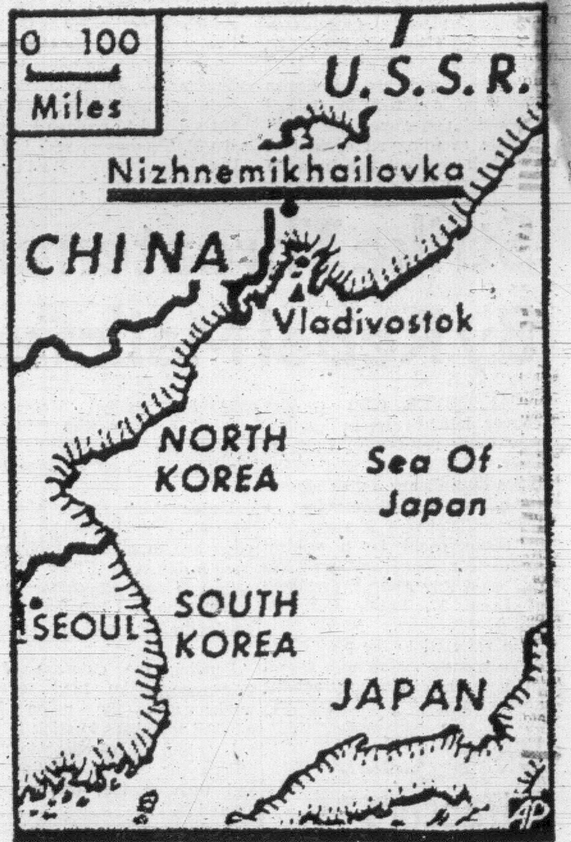
Tass said the Soviet government protested to Peking, saying: "Any provocative actions by Chinese authorities will be rebuffed and resolutely cut short by the U.S.S.R."

The two Communist countries share the world's longest border, 4,150 miles. The last reported border clash, on Feb. 13, 1967, also occurred in Heilungkiang province on the Manchurian plateau. It was never acknowledge officially by either Moscow or Peking.

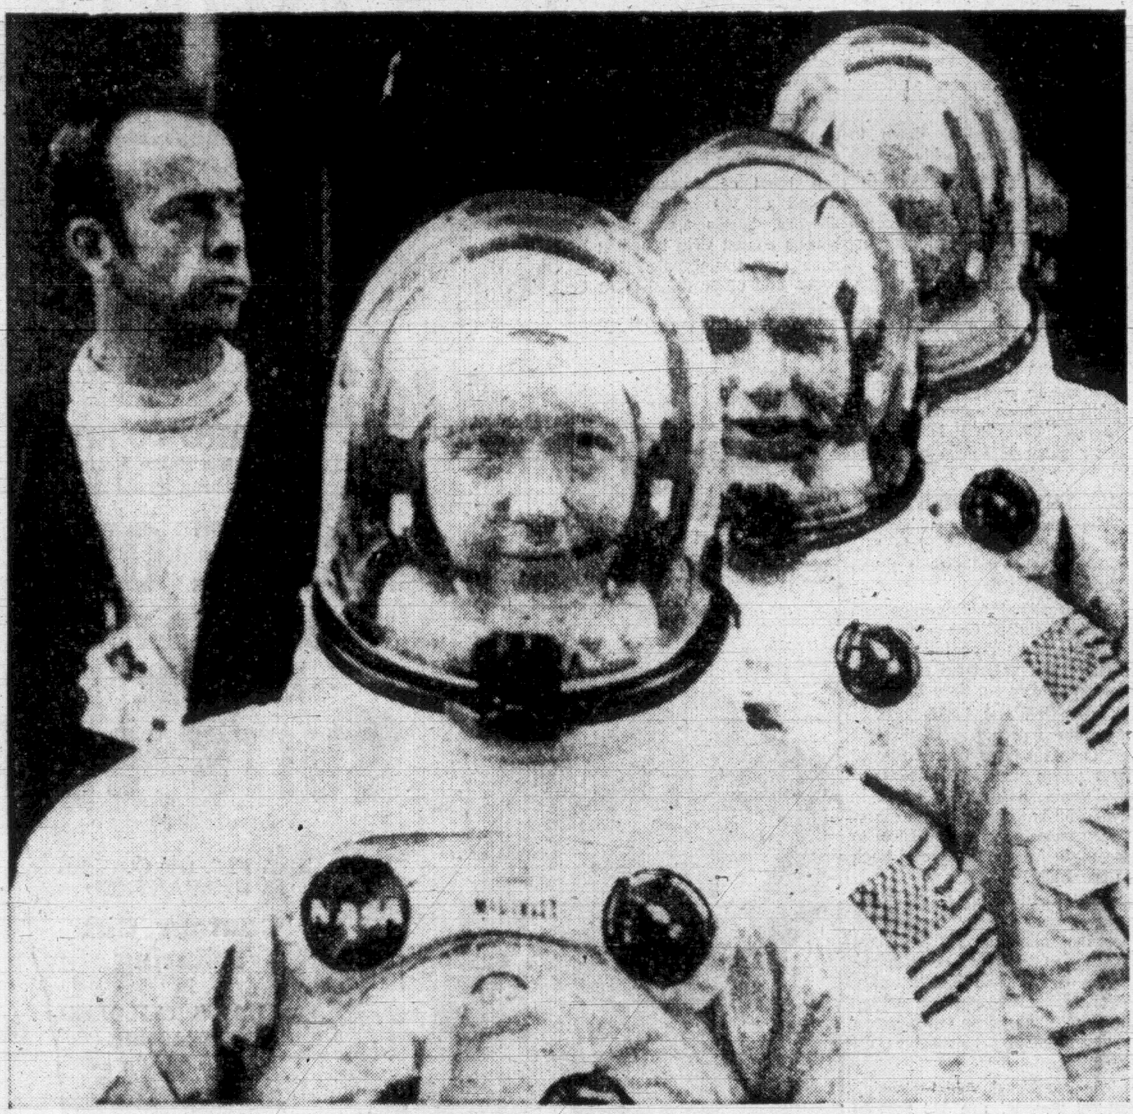
In Moscow, observers said the Tass announcement of Sunday's battle was made with unprecedented speed. The Russians have never before reported an incident on the day it actually occurred.

Soviet police today set up a watch in front of the Chinese Embassy in Moscow in an apparent attempt to head off demonstrators protesting the border incident.

All was quiet at the embassy grounds, however. The Chinese embassy staff both live and work inside the compound and are rarely seen outside the buildings.



BORDER BATTLE between Russia and China occurred at Nizhnemikhailovka (see map) Sunday, just north of Vladivostok. District is in dispute between the two Communist giants. (AP Wirephoto)



MARCHING IN STEP, Apollo 9 astronauts head toward the rocket which this morning put them into earth orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla., for the dangerous test of the module that will be used to put men on the moon. Spacemen Link Apollo Craft With Fragile Moon Module

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The three Apollo 9 astronauts rocketed into orbit today and skilfully executed a link-up with a fragile ugly-duckling spaceship which they are testing in preparation for a possible moon landing in July.

If they succeed in their marathon 10-day earth-circling trip, they could clear the way for two Americans to make the moon landing during the Apollo 11 flight.

If they fail the United States lunar timetable could suffer a serious setback.

The astronauts were silent through most of the delicate manoeuvring period. On their own decision they delayed the docking manoeuvre for some 15 minutes.

MADE HOOKUP

Nearly three hours after they started the most difficult manned space adventure yet, they achieved their first major goal—a hookup with the spidery lunar module (LEM).

When Apollo 9 soared into orbit it was still attached to the third stage of the mammoth Saturn V booster rocket which blasted off from Cape Kennedy. The LEM was packed in a compartment between the Apollo ship and the third stage, called an S-4B.

They remained attached to the S-4B for two hours 43 minutes, just as moon-bound astronauts will do before restarting the third-stage engine to streak for their lunar target.

More than 100 miles over the Pacific the command module pilot separated his spaceship and moved about 50 feet away from the third stage. He turned the ship around and gingerly pulsed small jets to steer back toward the LEM.

Advancing cautiously, the commander carefully inserted an arrow-like docking mechanism into a slot in the LEM's nose.

He reported the docking was smooth, was having a little trouble making a slow manoeuvre to his left, possibly because one of the jet valves was stuck.

Pressure from a nitrogen bottle activated 12 latching mechanisms which firmly joined the LEM and the command ship nose to nose.

Astronauts headed for the moon will have to make a similar docking manoeuvre.

The astronauts remained attached to the third-stage rocket for 75 minutes before pulling the LEM out of its space garage, leaving the S-4B forever.

The Apollo 9 rode the booster rocket, the world's most power-

Cyclists Raided

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Officers from three Kingston police forces early Sunday raided the clubhouse of the Satan's Choice motorcycle club here and made 28 arrests following complaints of a disturbance earlier at a downtown hotel.

ATHENS (Reuters) — Athens Observatory today recorded a strong earthquake with its epicentre located 223 miles east-northeast of the Greek capital. No casualties or damage were reported from Greek authorities on any of the Greek islands along the coast.

Pickets Gassed

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI)—Police using tear gas today clashed with 200 firemen and striking city workers who tried to seal off the Pontiac city hall with picket lines. One fireman was taken into custody and about 140 fellow firemen walked off the job in protest. Another fireman was taken to general hospital following the clash with police.

Hydro Negotiates

TORONTO (CP) — More than 1,000 Ontario Hydro employees were off the job today as conciliation meetings were scheduled between the representatives of the publicly-owned utility and the union.

U.S. to Stress European Links

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon resumed duties at the White House today after his eight-day, 10,500-mile trip through Europe, confident "some new understandings" would be worked out between East and West.

In his arrival remarks here Sunday night, Nixon said he found a "new trust in the United States" on the continent and a "new trust in the future."

Referring to talks he hopes to hold in the future with Soviet leaders, Nixon said that together with Europeans the U.S. would be able "to develop some new understandings with those who in the past have opposed us on the other side of the world."

Nixon said he planned to give a report on his trip at a news conference Thursday.

Administration officials said the president was satisfied with results of his trip but stressed the objectives had been limited.

OUTLINE GOALS

They said basic goals of the trip were to inspire new confidence in the Western Allies after years of U.S. concentration on the Vietnam war, to open up new channels of communication, and to win acceptance from the Allies on planned negotiations with the Soviet Union on arms limitation and, hopefully, other issues.

All the Allied leaders whom Nixon spoke with expressed confidence in U.S. leadership, officials said.

His pledge to consult them on all matters affecting them before any negotiations with the Soviet Union made a deep impression, they added.

The acceptance by French President Charles de Gaulle of Nixon's invitation to come to the United States January or February next year delighted the administration. It was interpreted as convincing proof of a new phase in Franco-American relations after years of coolness.

British Prime Minister Wilson already had announced he would visit Washington sometime late this year.

Nixon's talks helped attempts to get a four-power conference started on the Middle East situation, U.S. sources believe. They predict such a conference will open in the near future at the United Nations.

State Secretary William P. Rogers will confer with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin this week to iron out details of the four-power meeting, the sources said.

High-Priced Mine Issues Take Plunge

VANCOUVER — Many high-priced mining shares took huge losses on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today as a moderate 2,486,824 shares traded hands in the first four hours. (More details on Page 8.)

Heaviest losers were Buttle Lake, down almost a dollar to $7.80; Northwest Ventures, off .50 to $2.80, and Valley Copper—in which the above stocks have extensive holdings—off $1.50 to $26.

Other Valley Copper allies, Bethex and Trojan, also fell.

Also losing ground were Churchill, Highmont, Gibraltar, Largo, Laura and Ace.

National Nickel bucked the trend and was up .19 to $2.20.

N. VIETS CAPTURE LAOTIAN OUTPOST

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — More than 1,000 Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops overran a major government outpost Sunday, killing at least 30 defenders and inflicting the worst defeat on Laotian troops in more than a year, a defence ministry source said today.

Another reliable source said a U.S. jet fighter-bomber was shot down when heavy air strikes were called in an attempt to save the Na Khang outpost, 10 miles from the headquarters of the 2nd Military Region and 150 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The defence ministry sources said five battalions, four of them north Vietnamese, opened the attack with heavy shelling by 122-millimetre rockets and 82-millimetre mortars. One mortar shell crashed through the roof of a hilltop command post, killing Col. Panh Siharath, the area military commander and province chief.

FORCES OVERRUN

Two government battalions surrounding the hilltop post and 150 men atop the hill were overrun shortly after dawn and were forced to flee, leaving their dead and some wounded behind, a source reported.

The government garrison was one of the strongest outposts near the Pathet Lao headquarters at Sam Neua, 25 miles northeast of Na Khang.

Defence ministry sources said all outposts in the Na Khang apparently were destroyed as well as the main base, thus opening Van Peo's headquarters to possible attack.

Soviet Envoy in PJs Routed by Firebombs

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Soviet ambassador to Australia ran a mile in his pyjamas through the streets early today after a firebomb attack on the Russian Embassy here.

Six Molotov cocktails started a blaze in a tall hedge of cypress trees surrounding the embassy, forcing Russian staff members to flee their apartments in an adjoining building — and bringing Ambassador Nickolai Tarakanov, 55, racing from his home.

Firemen stopped the blaze spreading to the apartments and the embassy itself was apparently undamaged. But the tall trees shrouding the upper windows of the buildings were badly scorched.

Police siad they believed the attack — the second in six months — was the work of East European refugees who have made their homes in Canberra since the migration waves of the late 1940s and early 1950s.

The Russians later delivered a telephone protest to the Australian chief of protocol.

External Affairs Minister Gordon Freeth described the incident as "most regrettable."

E. Germany Ignores Talk Plea; Holds Up U.S. Convoy for Hour

From AP-Reuters

BERLIN (CP) — East Germany's Communist regime ignored today a new bid for talks to solve the current Berlin crisis and, though dropping harassment of civilian traffic, held up a U.S. Army convoy for about an hour.

Airliners of the Western Big Three nations coursed in and out unmolested, though the Soviet Union had raised the most serious challenge to West Berlin's flight corridors since the Russian blockade 20 years ago was broken by an allied airlift.

A U.S. spokesman said the convoy was delayed on its way from West Berlin to West Germany on the main autobahn across 110 miles of Communist territory. It was the third such reported incident since Saturday. The East Germans attribute such delays to Warsaw pact military manoeuvres in that area.

The American, French and British embassies in Moscow today made identical statements to the Soviet foreign ministry about the Berlin situation, spokesmen for three embassies announced.

DETAILS WITHHELD

But they declined to give any details of the contents of the statements or how they were made.

West Berlin's mayor, Klaus Schuetz, said East Germany had not responded to his 11th-hour attempt to resume contacts aimed at preventing a major East-West confrontation over the arrangements to elect a new president of West Germany Wednesday in West Berlin.

"One can therefore assume that the West German federal assembly meeting (to elect a new president) will be held here on Wednesday as planned," Schuetz said in a statement.

The mayor said that, acting on information from the Bonn government, the West Berlin Senate had Sunday night sent a message to East Berlin declaring itself ready for further talks.

Hopes of a possible settlement were raised by Foreign Minister Willy Brandt who flew into West Berlin today to meet with his Social Democratic party and city officials. Brandt Sunday night hinted at a compromise to prevent Communist actions against the election.

Brandt said he considered it impossible for West Germany to relinquish its right to hold presidential elections and Bundestage sessions in West Berlin. But he added that Bonn could change the practical application of this right depending on the general situation.

B.C. Air Lines Given Route

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia Air Lines has won permission to operate between Vancouver, Penticton and Kelowna.

This will place it in competition with Pacific Western Airlines on this route.

In a move designed to improve the patterns of air service in British Columbia, the commission also authorized B.C. Air Lines to provide service between Prince George and Kamloops, and through Quesnel and Williams Lake.

The line will also provide a link between Prince George and Prince Rupert by way of Terrace, Smithers and Burns Lake.

On both these routes it replaces Canadian Pacific Airlines, which is giving up some regional routes in British Columbia in return for the right to increase its transcontinental services. Canadian Pacific will step up its Montreal-Vancouver flights to five from two this summer.

Dailies Increase Circulation in '68

NEW YORK (CP) — Daily newspaper circulation in Canada was up by 184,549 copies in 1968 over the previous year, Editor and Publisher magazine reports.

Tabulation for Editor and Publisher's 1969 International Year Book, due in March, show that Canada's 115 daily newspapers sold a total of 4,599,489 newspapers on an average day in 1968 compared with 4,414,940 a year earlier.

The number of morning newspapers increased by one to 10 while the number of evening papers was steady at 97, Editor and Publisher says.

Average daily circulation of morning papers increased to 1,041,159 in 1968 from 980,995 in 1967.

Evening dailies sold 3,558,330 on an average day in 1968 against 3,433,945 a year earlier.

Massey-Ferguson's Income the Same

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd. had net income of $1,900,000 for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, ended Jan. 31, the same as in the corresponding period last year. Earnings were 11 cents a share for both periods.

A. A. Thornbrough, president, told the annual meeting today that first-quarter sales were $170,400,000, about three per cent higher than the $165,700,000 earned in the similar period last year and the second highest on record for the first quarter.

Sales of farm machinery were seven per cent lower than in the similar 1968 period, Mr. Thornbrough said. But sales of the industrial equipment division were up 45 per cent, the engine division 19 per cent and the parts division 12 per cent.

Mr. Thornbrough said over-all sales and operating results of the company should be improved this year from 1968.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — A sharp decline in barley prices developed near the close of trading action on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Trades executed in all futures were ¾ to 2 cents lower. A moderate domestic shipper trade developed on the declines.

Flax and rapeseed continued under hedge selling pressure with absorption by local and commission houses. There was some exporter buying in rapeseed.

CHICAGO (AP)—A late rally lifted wheat futures prices a full cent from early lows and the close brought small advances in all contracts on the board of trade today.

Corn futures also ended the session on a strong tone, but oats declined more than 3 cents under heavy liquidation. Rye was lower. Soybeans also gave way with soybean oil but meal posted small advances.

Forest Industry Won't Re-Open Wage Talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Coast forest industry said Sunday it will not accede to a request by the International Woodworkers of America that wage provisions in the current contract be re-negotiated.

"We spent months negotiating the present agreement which gave the best wages and working conditions of any forest producing area in the world," John Billings of Forest Industrial Relations, which bargains for the industry, said in a statement.

"Under it, in just 3½ months, all industry employers will pay their employees another 18 cents an hour in wage increases."

The Vancouver IWA local decided the contract should be re-opened for negotiation at a meeting Saturday because employers were gaining more profit from increasing lumber prices. The current contract expires June 15, 1970.

The local called for an unspecified across-the-board wage increase and urged other locals to support the demand in an approach to the regional council.

Syd Thompson, president of the large Vancouver local, said the current contract contains a clause that it can be opened once a year for wage provisions provided the industry and the union agree.

"I think the forest industry would be in an intenable position if it refused to re-open," he said. "The price of lumber has gone up 50 to 60 per cent in the past year, plywood has gone up 70 per cent and a variety of shingles has gone up 120 per cent."

Current base rate for the industry is $2.94 an hour.

Mr. Billings said in his statement that the lumber industry has a history of prices going up and down in a continuing cycle but wages and other costs are fixed and never go down.

W LIBRARY, LAW SOCIETY VICTORIA B.C.

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Report of the
EXPROPRIATION
1961-63

THE HONOURABLE J. V. CLYNE
Commissioner

Gathering dust . . .

By JIM HUME

When the expropriation battle of the Rose-Blanshard hit the headlines a month ago many Victorians divided into two camps.

There were those who came out solidly for law and order—even though a little critical about what appeared to be heavy-handed civic officials.

There were those who came out staunchly in favor of the besieged home-owner and actively urged him to stand fast and fight for what was rightfully his.

This weekend the city gained possession of that humble home on Blanshard Street.

During the next few weeks or months at least three other similar battles will be fought between city officials and property owners dissatisfied with settlement terms offered by the local government.

What rights do those people have as they prepare to engage the juggernaut of government? Could the city possibly find an easier way to take possession of property it requires for urban renewal? What protection does the law offer the little man and what restraints does it put on the city?

During the past few days the Times sought answers to those questions and came up with the startling answer that the property owner, in British Columbia, has virtually no rights.

Federal, provincial and municipal governments, school boards and two dozen other arms of government can expropriate any property they wish without so much as a by-your-leave.

As one lawyer puts it: "You can never really own property. The ultimate title is vested in the Queen and she or her duly authorized agents can repossess that property at any time they wish on payment of adequate compensation."

Temporary Ownership Only

In other words, title to property gives the individual temporary ownership only, ownership which can be cancelled out any time the government decides the good of the people comes before the good of the individual family.

In Canada the federal government wields the biggest stick. It can expropriate provincial, municipal or privately owned property.

Last May that federal power touched off screams of anguish from the provincial government when the then Northern Developments Minister Arthur Laing announced that Ottawa was planning t expropriate from the province land which B.C. had already expropriated for the development of Roberts Bank.

Similar screams are heard when the province announces the expropriation of municipal lands or when the municipality announces the expropriation of individually-owned property.

To the average property owner it all sounds like the old jingle: "Big fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bit 'em—and little fleas have lesser fleas, and so on ad infinitum."

In Canada each province has its own expropriation laws, some recently up-dated to keep in step with the times; others, like the expropriation laws of British Columbia, still retaining as its central expropriation statute the Land Clauses Act based on an English act dated 1845.

The British tossed that act on the garbae pile many years ago.

B.C. Advised to Follow

Four and a half years ago former Supreme Court Justice J. V. Clyne, after three years of study, advised the government of B.C. to do the same.

The Clyne Report on Expropriation still gathers dust in the legislative files, not one of its recommendations ever implemented.

In Ontario a new expropriation law was introduced last year. Unique in Canada, it broke all previous traditions by, for the first time in this country, offering home owners displaced by expropriation enough money for an equivalent home plus moving expenses.

The Ontario law raised eyebrows across the country but, to date, no other province has followed the Ontario precedent.

In British Columbia the law, by which all municipalities are bound, offers nothing but "a home for a home" with "a fair market value being paid having regard for the values of the area."

On paper the legislation sounds fine. In practice, as Clyne stated very clearly in his voluminous report, it is far from fair.

"In the public interest and to achieve uniformity and elimination of injustices, I have come to the conclusion that it is desirable, subject to possible minor exceptions, to repeal all existing expropriation legislation in British Columbia," the royal commissioner stated four years ago.

Changes Still Awaited

Shortly after reading that statement then, attorney-general Robert Bonner said he expected changes in existing laws "in the near future."

They never came.

Where does the injustice come under present expropriation laws?

Under the ambiguous heading of "fair market value having regard to the values in the area."

Of that clause Clyne said the concept of "value to the owner" as the measure of compensation has resulted in "many inappropriate and unjust awards."

A few months ago the Canadian Appraisal Institute and a group of lawyers presented a brief to the Manitoba provincial cabinet stating that expropriation compensation should include accurate assessment of damages, costs of relocation, legal fees "and mental anguish."

British Columbia law, in fact the law of most provinces, makes no provision for compensation for "mental anguish." And municipalities, bound by the Municipal Act, can make no provision, either.

And that, in turn, means that, bound by a law originally written in 1845, the municipality bears the brunt of public scorn, when expropriation of property is deemed expedient for the good of the community as a whole—but to the detriment of the individual.

The new Ontario expropriation law may still leave much to be desired, but it has jumped so far ahead of other provinces as to sound almost revolutionary.

The main recommendations of that law are:

- All expropriations be approved by an elected official or body.
- All compensation to be determined by a land compensation board to be appointed by the cabinet.

(On those two points B.C. could claim to be fairly close to Ontario.)

- Property owners be given the opportunity to have a public inquiry into the necessity for expropriations.

And most startling of all:

- That persons facing expropriation be awarded legal costs and damages above and beyond the open market value of their property.

In other words the Ontario government has decided that the person losing his home to the Queen or her authorized agents should be paid compensation adequate to permit him to relocate in an equivalent home.

That provision does not exist in B.C. and Tuesday the Times will examine what happens when the homeowner gets only basic market value "having regard to the values of the area."

Osland Associate Returns to Help In Investigation

A buiness associate of murder victim William Osland returned from San Francisco on the weekend to assist in investigation of the case, police said Sunday.

Chief John Gregory of Victoria said in a press conference that Egon Kuhn, 33, of 3929 Woodhaven Terrace, was one of five persons interviewed aboard Ss. Tarantino last week in San Francisco.

Kuhn is project manager aboard the ship which was berthed here until early February while undergoing refit to become a restaurant and aquarium, the chief said.

The vessel had been towed to San Francisco. The body of city businessman Osland was found lashed to a heavy piece of scrap metal in 23 feet of water last Tuesday, near where the ship had been lying.

Osland had a financial interest in the ship and was thought to have been going aboard at the time he disappeared Feb. 3.

CAME ON OWN

In response to questions. Gregory said Kuhn returned Saturday "to give assistance voluntarily." He returned on a separate plane from two Victoria and Saanich police officers who had been in San Francisco investigating the case.

Kuhn, contacted by the Times this morning, said, "I mainly came back to attend the funeral." He said there was no specific area of assistance he could offer police.

In the Sunday meeting with reporters, Gregory said he had nothing startling to report "in the further investigations into the murder of William Osland."

He said the two local officers who travelled to San Francisco had been met by officers of the San Francisco homicide division.

"They placed their experts at our constant disposal," said the chief.

NEW PAINT

He said an inch-by-inch perusal of the ship had been frustrated, however, by new painting inside the ship.

"Red lead had been sprayed everywhere. It covered the bulkheads and the deck."

The officers had been able to collect various exhibits which they had brought back with them.

"At this stage we can't say what they were."

The press conference, called jointly by Saanich and city police authorities, was attended also by deputy chief Bob Peterson of Saanich.

The two senior officers agreed "no arrests are imminent." But they said they had much material to be checked. And they called on Victoria area residents to search their memories for anything which might throw added light on the murder.

"No information is too small."

Gregory said also, "We have several motives in mind."

He added police are not closing their eyes to the possibility that more than one person was involved in the death of the victim and the immersion of the body in the harbor.

Peterson said it would have been possible for one man to have killed Osland, fasten the weight to the body and place it in the harbor "depending on the position" of the body.

He said police have not yet weighed the heavy marine valve stem which was attached to the plastic-wrapped body. Earlier estimates set the weight at about 150 pounds.

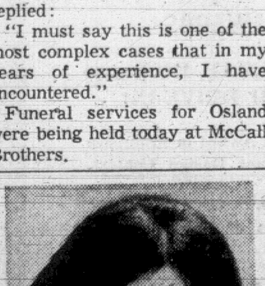
LOTS OF SCRAP

"There was all sorts of scrap metal all over the ship," the deputy chief added.

Gregory, asked whether police could see daylight in the case or whether investigations were running into a dead end, replied:

"I must say this is one of the most complex cases that in my years of experience, I have encountered."

Funeral services for Osland were being held today at McCall Brothers.



CHOSEN to represent Victoria at Operation Crossroads Africa this summer is Susan Price, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Price, 537 St. Charles. Now studying sociology at UBC, Miss Price is one of 50 Canadian university students who will carry out welfare projects in various African communities. Born in Victoria, she was educated at Margaret Jenkins elementary, Central Junior and Victoria secondary schools and the University of Victoria. Lyn Hagglund of Victoria, who took part in Operations Crossroads 1968, is now lecturing on her experiences.

HE'LL NEVER come back, said William Coburn during move on Saturday to temporary city-owned home on Caledonia.

Coburn Family Sad to Leave Doomed Home

Exactly one month after defying a city eviction order with brandished rifles, the Coburn family moved out Saturday.

And the battle of Blanshard Street was ended.

The Coburns said they have been paid the $12,500 which the city had offered, before the fuss began. And they're hopeful an arbitration hearing May 23 may add the additional $5,000 they demanded.

But in keeping with their promise to leave peacefully once a court hearing was arranged, they moved to a temporary city-owned rental home on Caledonia.

'SAD TO LEAVE'

"It makes me sad to leave," said Mrs. Coburn as she watched the moving van being loaded.

I hate to leave that beautiful umbrella elm and the other trees."

When Amigo, the dog, takes after the cats Cleo and Ramona, they'll have no trees to climb now, she pointed out. And she's going to miss all the yard her eight grandchildren enjoyed so much.

"I don't know if I ever want to own another home," she said.

This one has some bad memories such as on Feb. 1 when assistant city manager William Hooson attempted to force entry and only threats of violence ended the confrontation peacefully.

HOOSON BACK?

"The night of the earthquake, my first thought was to wonder whether Hooson was working nights with bombs now," Mrs. Coburn laughed.

Mrs. Coburn said her husband, who works for city parks department, has suffered no problems on the job because he bucked city hall.

"The union is right behind him. And when he asked for leave of absence, the city said it couldn't spare him."

Bill Coburn, fighting his way to the truck on one end of a gas stove disagreed with his wife about renting. He said they have only three or four months in the new house. Then he'll look for another house to buy.

NEVER COME BACK

Will he consider coming back to Blanshard when the redevelopment is complete, perhaps to rent a new house there?

"No, I'm not coming back here ever."

But Mrs. Coburn interjected, "But maybe they'll come and do the same thing again . . ."

The continued the debate and gradually they had the truck filled up.

Teen-Aged Girl Dies in Crash; Seamen Injured

GIRL MAKING FAST RECOVERY AFTER CAR GOES OVER CLIFF

Ann Dickie, 17, of 1145 Union Road, is now in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital but under intensive care following a spectacular car accident early Saturday.

She suffered a broken back and jaw when the car in which she was a passenger plunged over a 70-foot cliff on Dallas Road.

Police said the car, which was southbound on Cook, jumped a curb and travelled 185 feet across a grassy area before going over the cliff to a beach below.

Both Cars Demolished At View Royal

A 19-year-old girl was killed and two men were injured in a two-car crash on the Old Island Highway early today.

Dead is Verda Lynne Fawns, of 441 Thetis Cres., a clerk in the superannuation branch of the provincial government for the past year.

In fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital is Harry Burns, of CFB Esquimalt. He suffered head injuries and police said he might lose an eye.

Warren Green, 19, of CFB Esquimalt, is in satisfactory condition in Naden hospital with cuts and bruises.

The accident happened just after midnight near Price Road near the spot where two young boys were killed late last year while walking their bicycles along the highway.

CAR DEMOLISHED

Colwood RCMP said Miss Fawns was northbound on the highway in her small English-model car, which was demolished in the crash.

She was in collision head-on, police said, with a car driven southbound by Green. Burns was a passenger in his car, also a write-off.

It was the second fatal accident in the Greater Victoria area this year. A week ago a 26-year-old man, Gerd Otto Pascke, was killed in a motorcycle-truck crash on the Pat Bay Highway.

Miss Fawns was alone in her car.

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre said an autopsy will be held today. At press time he had not decided if an inquest will be called.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William David Fawns, the victim is survived by a brother, David; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fawns, Raymond, Alta.; maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Lamb, Regina.

Remains are at McCall Brothers funeral company, which will announce services later.

The Fawns have lived in the Belmont Park area for about five years.

They Had Their Crust . . . Right in the Face

A group of Sidney "rock hounds" ended up with pie in their faces when they tried to claim the giant civic symbol of White Rock Saturday.

"They threw pies in our faces," Hugh Hollingworth, a Sidney butcher, reported today.

He was one of the bolder boulder claimants who went to the mainland resort town following an exchange of letters between Mayor A. W. Freeman of Sidney and Mayor Harry Douglass of White Rock.

Mayor Freeman said the rock which gives White Rock its name really belongs to Sidney. According to legend the son of an Indian sea god in mythical times threw the rock across the strait in wrath when his father refused to let him marry.

The son and his chosen maid followed the rock and founded the Semiahmoo tribe. Mayor Freeman says it's time the rock was returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingworth, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bowcott, and Len Bland, president of Sidney Kinsmen, attended White Rock's Klondyke Days on the weekend. They were loudly booed and told to get out of town.

Before leaving, the Sidney group measured the big rock. They say it's roughly 18 feet high, 30 feet wide and has a depth of 25 feet.

They figure this is just right for removal by a local marine transport firm.

Some dark night . . ." says Mr. Hollingworth.

$150,000 Widening On Quadra

A $150,000 road widening and improvement project is planned for Quadra Street between Kenneth and Nicholson.

Saanich municipality has announced initiation of a local improvement for the work, which will total $150,000. All but about $20,000 of this will be paid by Saanich and the provincial government.

Four lanes will be built, plus concrete gutters and sidewalks on both sides of the street, an enclosed road drainage system with concrete catchbasins and necessary regrading of Saanich Road.

Annual charge for each foot of taxable foot frontage to be specially charged against owners of land benefitting from or abutting the work is 82 cents with the charges lasting 20 years.

The new work would extend the four lanes, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and drains nearing completion from McKenzie to Kenneth.

Early Day Star At First Base Dies on Mainland

Haley Jackson, 73, former pressman with The Daily Times and one of Victoria's brightest athletic stars of almost 50 years ago, died Sunday night at White Rock.

Considered by many as a major league baseball prospect, the colorful Jackson was an outstanding first baseman and batting champion in league play at the old Rithet Stadium, on the present site of the Crystal Garden.

Jackson continued to play baseball after moving to Vancouver in 1924 and going to work for the Vancouver Province, winning the batting title his first year in the mainland league.

Deer Blamed In Car Crash At Keating

Separate accidents in Central Saanich and Sidney Saturday night sent seven persons to hospital, none seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lott, 8727 Vancross Terrace, Sidney, were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after the car in which they were riding hit a deer, went out of control and met head-on with another car on the Pat Bay Highway near Keating Cross Road. The deer was killed.

Mr. Lott is in good condition today with knee and scalp cuts. His wife has been released from hospital.

Riding in the other vehicle were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walls of West Vancouver. They were discharged from hospital after treatment.

Central Saanich police said they had not been able to determine who was driving the other vehicle.

Both cars were demolished, police added.

SIDNEY COLLISION

Jo Pagnotta, 1028 Princess, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital following a two-car crash near Sidney.

He suffered a severe arm injury when the car in which he was riding was in collision with another at Lochside and the Pat Bay Highway.

Driver of the car, T. G. B. Penston, 20, of 950 Empress, was not injured.

Mrs. Sally Lauder, 867 Sayward, driver of the second car, was discharged from hospital after treatment. Her husband, E. W. Lauder, was not injured.

Both cars were heavily damaged in the crash, Sidney RCMP said.

Two High Schools Try Semester System

By DON VIPOND

Oak Bay and Mount View senior secondary schools will adopt a semester system of classes in September.

The change means the school year will be split in half. Instead of studying seven subjects throughout the year students will complete four courses in one semester and three in the other.

There is no difference in the amount of course material studied.

The department of education has agreed to administer exams at the end of the first semester in January so those finishing subjects then will not have to wait until the traditional June exams.

Principals John Wallace at Oak Bay senior and Robert Huddleston at Mount View today listed several advantages in the semester system for students and teachers:

Students concentrate on three or four courses at a time. A seven-day timetable cycle is replaced by a four-day one, meaning daily classes in each subject, less need for class time on reviewing.

If a student fails a course in one semester, he can repeat it in the next and avoid losing a year. It could mean finishing grade 12 in January but both Simon Fraser University and the Institute of Adult Studies are on semester system which could dovetail.

Teachers meet fewer students at a time, get to know them better and can help them more.

Students get to know teachers better, which generally means a better learning situation.

If a student finds he is on the wrong program for him, he need not be stuck with it for a year but can change at the next semester.

The new schedule will mean a daily study or free period during one semester, enabling students to do some indepedent research or in-depth study in a subject of particular interest.

Close to 1,200 students will be involved in the change at Oak Bay senior and about 600 at Mount View.

District superintendent Joseph Chell said today two of Greater Victoria's other senior high schools will have new principals next September and any changes there will have to await their thinking. Principals at Mount Douglas and Esquimalt senior retire in June.

At the fifth, Victoria senior secondary, principal Duncan Lorimer said today the subject is being considered but there will be no change next September.

Lorimer said he is interested in seeing how a trimester system being tried at Colquitz junior secondary this year is working.

B.C. Air Lines Given Route

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia Air Lines has won permission to operate between Vancouver, Penticton and Kelowna.

This will place it in competition with Pacific Western Airlines on this route.

In a move designed to improve the patterns of air service in British Columbia, the commission also authorized B.C. Air Lines to provide service between Prince George and Kamloops, and through Quesnel and Williams Lake.

The line will also provide a link between Prince George and Prince Rupert by way of Terrace, Smithers and Burns Lake.

On both these routes it replaces Canadian Pacific Airlines, which is giving up some regional routes in British Columbia in return for the right to increase its transcontinental services. Canadian Pacific will step up its Montreal-Vancouver flights to five from two this summer.

Dailies Increase Circulation in '68

NEW YORK (CP) — Daily newspaper circulation in Canada was up by 184,549 copies in 1968 over the previous year, Editor and Publisher magazine reports.

Tabulation for Editor and Publisher's 1969 International Year Book, due in March, show that Canada's 115 daily newspapers sold a total of 4,599,489 newspapers on an average day in 1968 compared with 4,414,940 a year earlier.

The number of morning newspapers increased by one to 10 while the number of evening papers was steady at 97, Editor and Publisher says.

Average daily circulation of morning papers increased to 1,041,159 in 1968 from 980,995 in 1967.

Evening dailies sold 3,558,330 on an average day in 1968 against 3,433,945 a year earlier.

Massey-Ferguson's Income the Same

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd. had net income of $1,900,000 for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, ended Jan. 31, the same as in the corresponding period last year. Earnings were 11 cents a share for both periods.

A. A. Thornbrough, president, told the annual meeting today that first-quarter sales were $170,400,000, about three per cent higher than the $165,700,000 earned in the similar period last year and the second highest on record for the first quarter.

Sales of farm machinery were seven per cent lower than in the similar 1968 period, Mr. Thornbrough said. But sales of the industrial equipment division were up 45 per cent, the engine division 19 per cent and the parts division 12 per cent.

Mr. Thornbrough said over-all sales and operating results of the company should be improved this year from 1968.

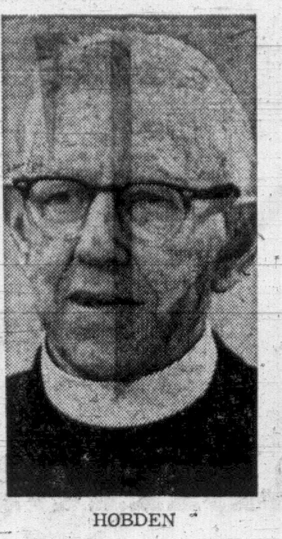
ORCHARD



HOBDEN

McDONALD

Three to Get Plaques For Dedicated Service

The John Howard Society of Vancouver Island will honor three members for dedicated community service at a meeting in Nanaimo on Saturday.

Father Alexander McDonald of Nanaimo, Rev. Dr. J. D. Hobden of Comox, and former deputy forests minister Dr. C. D. Orchard, 2331 Lansdowne Rd., Victoria will received plaques at the society's annual dinner in the Tally-Ho Travelodge.

Neil A. McDairmid, director of the criminal law branch of the attorney-general's department, will make the presentations. He will also speak on "The need for experimentation and bold approach when dealing with juvenile delinquents."

★ ★ ★

Of the three men, Rev. Hobden had had the longest association with the John Howard Society, holding the post of executive director for B.C. (1931-1956) provincial organizer (1956-1962). He was also director of the society during 1958-1960.

He was born in England at Shoreham-by-Sea, Sussex, but obtained his bachelor's degree in theology and doctorate of divinity at Union College, UBC. Prior to 1954 he served six two-year terms as a police commissioner in West Vancouver. He is now padre of the Seaforth Highlanders, director and executive member of the Cnadian Penal Association.

Father McDonald believes he was the first Roman Catholic priest in B.C. to preach in churches other than his own.

Born in Glace Bay on Cape Breton Island, he was ordained in 1939, and served in parishes at Nanaimo and Ladysmith. He returned to the University of Ottawa to study theology, and received his doctorate in canon law in 1948.

He was with the Canadian Army Chaplain Corps from 1943 until his release in 1965 for health reasons. He joined the John Howard Society in 1952, and is now at St. Peter's Church, Nanaimo.

★ ★ ★

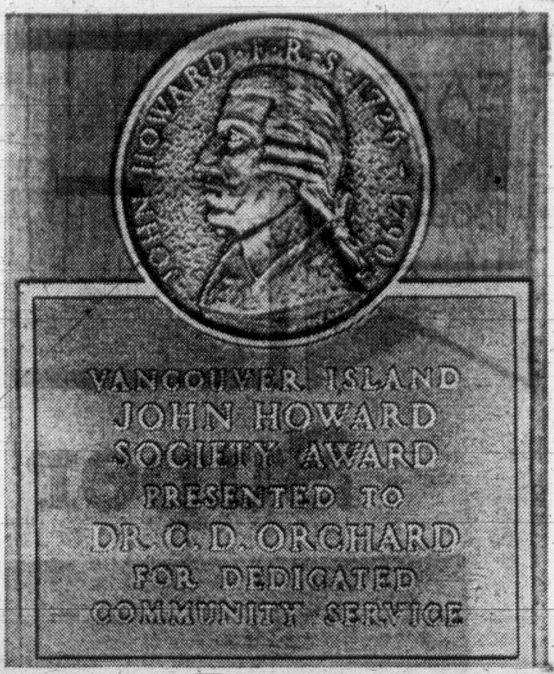
Dr. Orchard also joined the society in 1952. A native of New Brunswick he received a bachelor's degree in forestry from the University of New Brunswick in 1920 following service during the First World War. The same year he came to B.C. as a junior forester.

He returned to his native province to complete studies leading to a master's degree, but continued to work in forest administration in Cranbrook, Nelson and Prince George before coming to Victoria in 1930.

In 1946 he was appointed deputy minister of forests and held that post until retirement in 1948.

George Warnock, Vancouver Island director of the Society, said Victoria residents who would like transportation to the annual dinner Saturday should phone 386-8461.

Named after an Englishman who devoted his life to improving the lot of prisoners, ex-prisoners and conditions in jails, the Society's effort s are now aimed ar rehabilitation and readjustment of former inmates.



Old Wounds Opened On Floating Plants

By HUMPHRY DAVY

An old and bitter controversy among commercial fishermen has erupted again after a lapse of more than 30 years.

It involves the right to operate floating fish canning-processing plants or ships within B.C. territorial waters — a limit stretching three miles out to sea.

Under the B.C. Fisheries Act enacted in the 1930s, floating plants are banned in provincial waters.

Fishermen can't even prepare — at sea — shrimps, crabs or oysters.

The controversy was revived when Ron Brown, a Vancouver businessman bought the two former Victoria-based weatherships, the Stonetown and St. Stephen, for conversion into fish-processing plants at a cost of $3,000,000.

Brown plans to use them to process ground fish, such as skate, dogfish and perch, into fish protein concentrate for export to countries low on proteins.

"I hope to have the ships in operation by mid-summer," he said. "There's a big demand for proteins in India."

Brown plans to get around the act by working beyond the three-mile limit—just like Russian floating canneries operating outside Canadian territorial waters — a 12-mile limit.

He has been advised by government officials there is nothing to stop him.

His ships are of Canadian registry and will be able to land cargo in B.C. ports, he said.

Brown's venture has spurred some fishing companies and independent fishermen to ask the government to repeal or amend the act to permit floating fish factories in B.C. waters.

The most vocal group is the shrimp fishermen — a business which has grown considerable in the last two or three years.

They have asked for permission to cook shrimps aboard their vessels because it's more economical.

Government Sends Questionnaire

The commercial fisheries branch of the B.C. department of conservation and recreation has sent a questionnaire to all fishing companies and unions asking their opinions on repealing the act.

The more powerful companies, and the Fisheries Association of B.C. representing the canning industry, oppose any change. They want to protect their substantial shore plants.

They said they provide employment for thousands of people during the fishing season and are major taxpayers.

They also argue it would be difficult to inspect properly floating plants to see that sanitary regulations are obeyed.

Those in favor of repealing the act say the sea-going plants would permit B.C. fishermen to compete with foreign fishing fleets operating outside Canada's 12-mile limit.

They claim it's more efficient and economical to process at sea.

Floating plants would provide consumers with a better product as the fish would be processed as soon as caught, they said.

They say many people don't eat fish because it loses flavor due to handling and delays in shipment to processing centres on shore.

The controversial act was passed in the late 1930s after a group of investors launched a floating cannery to reduce costs.

But pressure from shore-based companies resulted in the government seizing the ships. Owners of the floating cannery lost the subsequent court battle.

Logging Squirms Back to Life

DUNCAN — Despite deep snow in the woods and load restrictions on paved roads, major logging companies are either in full swing or will be in two weeks' time.

Officials said today works crews have been gradually increased over the last two weeks.

MacMillan Bloedel report all their operations including Shawnigan Lake, Alberni, Nanaimo River, Copper Canyon, Port Hardy, Kelsey Bay and the Queen Charlottes are back at full strength.

Crown Zellerbach said about half of its work crew of 70 men were at work at Nitinat and Lake Cowichan.

Logs from Nitinat camp were being trucked to the head of Lake Cowichan and towed to the sawmill at Youbou to avoid paved road load restrictions.

MacMillan Bloedel are hauling logs on company roads to dumps.

"We expect to be back in full operation in two more weeks if the weather continues to warm up," a CZ spokesman said. It was 30 degrees and foggy in the Nitinat area this morning.

GRADUAL BUILDUP

Deerholme division of MacMillan Bloedel which employs about 90 men from the Duncan area has been gradually building its work force to full power since Feb. 20, a company spokesman said.

Another nine men handle the log output at the Cowichan Bay dump.

B.C. Forest Products Cowichan logging division said half its crew of 135 men are working in the woods with partial crews cat-logging, falling and bucking.

"We have an engineer assess the blacktop road conditions regularly," an official said. "We expect to be back at full strength in two weeks and hope the roads are free of frost by then."

Hovercraft Back on Run

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hovercraft service between here and Nanaimo resumed today after a minor collision Sunday forced a halt in weekend operations.

Barry Jones, president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd., said a truck backed into the air cushion vehicle when it was docked at Patricia Bay but the dent it caused was repaired by Sunday.

A full booking of 34 passengers was ready for the morning run, and 20 for the afternoon trip.

Jones said the craft's schedule is expected to be expanded from two to three round trips daily by next weekend.

Fined for Shouting

Father, Daughter Given Wings At Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — The young and not-so-young were sworn in as new pilots and members of Duncan Flying Club at the annual banquet here.
